Compulsory Planning Faces Capital Region

QUIET SESSION OF UN EXPECTED

The 126-member United Nations General Assembly opened its 26th session today, but few troubles of the world are expected.

First order of business was the formality of electing 41-year-old lawyer-diplomat Angie Brooks of Liberia as president.

The General Assembly is also to consider election of five nations to the Security Council.

World Feeling Price Squeeze

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're suffering from inflation, you can take consolation in the fact that you're not suffering alone.

The statistician's way of describing the pain you have been feeling in your pocketbook is to say that the consumer price index increased 4.75 per cent in Canada between May, 1968, and May, 1969.

This is according to United Nations figures for all countries, starting from a base of 100 in 1963.

In the United States the increase in the consumer price index was 6.1 per cent in that period.

Now consider these one-year increases, from the same statistics: Brazil 22.9 per cent; Chile 25.7; South Vietnam 15.2; India 8.2.

In Brazil, the cost-of-living index in May stood at an astounding 865 and in Argentina 325, starting from 100 in 1963. In Britain it was 127, France 123, Canada 121.3, the U.S. 119.6.

The UN figures are quoted for comparison purposes. The official Canadian cost-of-living index is based on 1961 equalling 100, and in August this year it stood at 126.9, up 5.1 per cent from August, 1968.

Story Same in Various Tongues

Inflation and the economic problems it spawns have left half-finished buildings in Brazil, helped bring devaluation in France and led Japanese housewives to demand that the government do something about rising prices.

The language and the locales vary but the stories have a similar ring.

The shrinking value of currency has become a matter of increasing concern to world leaders.

Inflation has been blamed as a cause of violence and revolution. It has been blamed for sapping the government loyalty of civil servants who have seen their pay buy less and less. It has slashed the purchasing power of retired persons living on fixed incomes.

Inflation has caused deep concern in the U.S. for many months. Government figures put current U.S. inflation at about an annual rate of 6.4 per cent, despite attempts to control it. However, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin in September told the Senate banking committee that he believes a levelling-out period may be at hand.

Finance Minister Benson in his June 3 budget speech said he assumed Canada's price increases this year would be "about the same as last year." That was 3.9 per cent.

Inflationary pressures were cited by Prime Minister Trudeau in announcing a 10-per-cent cut in the civil service.

France, which had a 5.3-per-cent rise in consumer prices last year, turned to devaluation to slow its inflationary trend and make its goods more competitive abroad.

Inflation recently appeared in West Germany; the cost of living is up 3.5 per cent in 1969 and a survey found West Germans more concerned about inflation than they were two years ago.

Japanese Housewives Protest

Japan, Asia's most industrialized country, has seen rising prosperity bring rising prices. Japanese housewives have organized to demand stronger government action in the wake of recent price increases. The women complain that the price of rice has gone up 40 per cent since 1965 and beef prices are up 57.7 per cent.

Inflation that would destroy a sophisticated economy is sustained in less-developed countries because many peasants and laborers are outside the money economy, generally bartering goods instead of using money. The rich stay ahead of rising prices through investments in stocks and real estate.

Whether or not some inflation is desirable is a matter of debate among economists.

"Inflation is a means of redistributing wealth," says one international economist. Expanded business activity under inflation gives the ghetto resident his first job, but it also angers the middle-class worker whose salary rises slowly compared with prices, he said.

Since the dollar is the basic currency of world trade, inflation in the United States causes an increase in the world currency base which tends to be inflationary elsewhere, says Martin Gainsbrugh of the National Industrial Conference Board.

And high profits produced by inflation lead to heavy U.S. investments abroad where extra demand for plant and equipment creates inflationary pressures.

Worldwide problems are created when the U.S. economy does not work properly, said Richard W. Everett of Chase Manhattan Bank. Among the problems are upsets in the international monetary system and spreading high interest rates to slow inflation.

"Inflation is simply not an acceptable condition for a nation that occupies a dominant economic position in an increasingly interdependent world," Everett said.

Republic Means B.C. Out

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Monday British Columbia would pull out of Confederation if Canada became a republic.

The premier was commenting on an interview on a statement last week in London by federal state secretary Gerard Pelletier forecasting that Canada could become a republic within two generations.

Mr. Bennett said he could not see that happening.

"And I would think they would lose British Columbia if that comes about," he said. "We want to stay in one united Canada."

BELFAST BARRICADES TUMBLE as British troops move into Catholic Falls Road area of city and citizens begin to remove bulwarks set up at beginning of religious strife. (AP Wirephoto.)

Army Dismantles Barricades While Increasing Protection

BELFAST (AP) — The British Army today announced the start of the dismantling of barricades in the Falls Road district of Belfast and said three battalions of troops had moved in to "provide massive protection" for the Roman Catholic inhabitants.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, British Army commander in Northern Ireland, said the dismantling operation began after talks with the Ulster government and in accordance with procedure worked out last week with Belfast's civil rights leaders.

The Falls Road area was the scene of some of the worst rioting in Belfast last month.

Barricades were being removed, in some cases by the troops themselves, in Davis Street and in some other streets around the Divis Tower block, the army said. In some instances, army officials said, the local population was helping the troops take down the obstructions.

But in Gilford Street a crowd of women and children sat in front of their barricade singing and chanting civil rights slogans and refusing to allow the removal of the barricade.

The Central Citizens' Defence Committee, said to speak for 70,000 Catholics, indicated early today that the Catholics were ready to remove their barricades, but later it withdrew the statement.

The committee called a meeting tonight to vote on the matter.

"The barricades stay until we've made a democratic decision," said Jim Sullivan, chairman of the committee.

He was replying to Bishop William Philbin, the Roman Catholic bishop of Down and Connor, who toured the barricades and told the men behind them:

"These barricades must come down now. We will not be bullied into keeping them by a small minority."

PREPARE FOR ACTION

The British Army appeared to be preparing for decisive action. It moved in more men and sealed off Falls and Grosvenor roads, the boundaries of the main Catholic stronghold.

The statement which the citizens' committee withdrew said the government had given adequate assurance that persons inside the barricades will not be arrested under the Special Powers Act, which allows suspects to be jailed without trial.

The committee issued its statement after the British Army's commander in Northern Ireland returned from London with orders to take down the barricades despite Catholic opposition.

KY THREATENS DEATH FOR ECONOMIC CRIMES

SAIGON (Reuters) — Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky has threatened to bring back public executions for those "who dare to act against" the government's austerity measures to curb inflation.

Ky told reporters Monday: "If need be, we will re-establish sand-bagged execution places. If it is necessary to shoot 10 men to save tens of millions of people, then we will do so."

The last public execution by firing squad for economic crimes was about 16 months ago, when a businessman was shot in the courtyard of a Saigon prison, opened to the public for the occasion.

U.S. Sets Pullout Of 35,000 Men

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon announced today that at least 35,000 more United States troops will be withdrawn from South Vietnam by Dec. 15.

That would bring to 60,000 the total of Americans in uniform to leave the war-torn country since the phased withdrawal program began in July.

A White House source said about half of the 35,000 would be combat troops—a lower ratio than in the original withdrawal of 25,000 men. He also said the total might turn out to be 36,000 or 37,000 once the action has been completed.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu said the planned troop withdrawal "is the measure of the progress in the strengthening of the army of the Republic of Vietnam."

There was no word from Nixon on possible future withdrawals but the source said a number of contingency plans have been drawn up.

Nixon once expressed hope that U.S. withdrawals might exceed 100,000 by the end of 1969 and the source said he had no reason to believe Nixon had abandoned that hope. But the latest announcement made the 100,000 level seem unlikely.

REVIEWS PEACE EFFORTS

The president coupled his new troop withdrawal announcement with a review of administration efforts to promote a peaceful settlement.

Calling for meaningful negotiations now, Nixon said: "I realize that it is difficult to communicate across the gulf of five years of war. But the time has come to end this war."

Nixon said his latest troop withdrawal order, coupled with the earlier pullout of 25,000 combat men, would mean at least 60,000 troops will have left Vietnam by Dec. 15.

By that date, he said, the authorized troop ceiling in Viet-

N-BLAST SHAKES LAS VEGAS

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — One of the newest and most powerful anti-missile warheads ever tested rocked this volcanic mesa today and swayed high-rise gambling resorts 115 miles away in Las Vegas.

The hydrogen weapon melted rock 3,800 feet below the earth's surface and carved out a cavern almost 700 feet in diameter. Ten million tons of rock was displaced by the explosion which carried the wallop of 800,000 to 900,000 tons of TNT, almost enough to fill Yankee Stadium.

Twin Strikes Launched By Israelis

From AP-Reuters

Israeli jets streaked across the River Jordan frontier today in simultaneous raids against Arab guerrilla camps at both ends of the Jordan Valley, south of the Sea of Galilee, the Israeli military command announced.

The 30-minute strikes hit at a base in Wade el-Arab, eight miles east of the Jordan River opposite kibbutz Gesher in the northern Jordan Valley and at Tel-Hujeiga three miles east of the river, a spokesman said in Tel Aviv.

All planes returned safely to base, he said.

GRENADE THROWN

Earlier sources in the occupied Gaza Strip reported that an Arab threw a hand grenade into a busy market in Gaza City today, killing an Israeli woman and wounding an Israeli woman and boy and 13 Arabs.

Campbell Hints March Goal Set

By JIM HUME
Times Staff

KAMLOOPS—The Capital Regional District has until March 31 to voluntarily make planning a regional function.

After that, or possibly before then, should discussions bog down, the provincial government will step in with a statute to make planning a compulsory function of the district board, according to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

The regional district has been discussing the possibility of bringing the Capital Region Planning Board under its jurisdiction for the last 18 months but has been unable to reach agreement on how far individual municipal authority will extend.

Campbell carefully avoided use of the big stick when he addressed regional district representatives here this morning.

But his brief speech contained enough indications that his patience is running out.

LOCKED-IN SYSTEM

Referring to the differences between Ontario regional district legislation and B.C. legislation, Campbell said "in Ontario there was total acceptance of the regional concept by the government who then placed legislation on the books with a locked-in system.

"That is not the approach in B.C. — at least it has not been the approach up until now.

"We see no good reason, yet, why regional districts should not continue to evolve."

Campbell has assembled an agenda for regional district representatives to discuss during the balance of today.

AGENDA TOPICS

He stressed that the agenda topics were topics only. "They are not government policies," he said. "They are ideas which have come from you and are now before you for final discussion."

There is little doubt, however, in the minds of Victoria representatives that the changes being recommended for the Municipal Act will become statutory legislation before March.

Paragraph 2 on the agenda recommends that "planning, subdivision, zoning and building inspection powers" be conferred upon regional districts by statute.

Questioned following his speech, Campbell said that he was still hopeful that planning would become a regional function voluntarily.

Asked if he had a deadline, he

Department Changes On the Way

Times Staff

KAMLOOPS — New departmental structure is needed to permit proper government of human resources and the environment in which these resources live, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campell suggested today.

The traditional structure "will not work" in the 1970s and 1980s, he told regional district representatives meeting here.

Many government departments had grown historically "in nice compartments in which they continue to work."

"You cannot work in nice little compartments if you are going to take a look at the total environment."

Campbell said that the provincial government has already established two committees to streamline and coordinate what have been isolated government endeavors.

Russ Wheat Sales On Shaky Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials are clinging to the hope that Russia will buy a huge quantity of Canadian wheat still outstanding under a three-year sales agreement signed by Russia and Canada in mid-1966.

Final implementation of the deal would give a much-needed shot in the arm to the western Canada farm economy, hard hit by price cutting and shrinking sales in the world wheat market.

Trade department sources are guarded in their comments about the deal, which at the time of signing was billed as the largest international wheat transaction in history, estimated to be worth $800,000,000.

Despite the fact that more than three years have gone by since the agreement was concluded in Moscow June 18, 1966, they insist there is hope the Soviet Union will take the remaining 135,000,000 bushels it signed for.

This amount represents 40 per cent of the 336,000,000 bushels the Soviets agreed to purchase in the three crop years beginning Aug. 1, 1966.

"We still look to Russia to fulfil its commitments," said one official.

STILL HAS HOPES

"It is very much a live issue," said another. He added that the Canadian wheat board is communicating with the Soviet grain-purchasing agency, Exportkhleb, to arrange further discussions on the matter.

Asked whether he was optimistic agreement can be reached with the Soviet, he replied: "We feel confident."

As to whether at some point Russia will be judged by Can-

THREE-FIFTHS OF CAMPAIGN PLEDGE

Three Ferries to Be Stretched

B.C. Ferry Queen of Victoria will be lengthened by 84 feet this winter to fulfill the first phase of an election campaign pledge by Premier Bennett.

The stretching project follows a similar and successful $2,250,000 operation on the Queen of Esquimalt earlier this year.

After pronouncing the Esquimalt experiment a success, Bennett, at the beginning of his campaign, announced five more ferries would be lengthened.

Today the department of highways invited tenders to add 84 feet to the Queen of Saanich, Queen of Victoria and Queen of Vancouver.

A department spokesman said, however, the Victoria would be the only vessel considered in the tender call which closes Sept. 25.

He said passenger demands on the ferries would not permit more than one to be out of service at a time.

He said the Victoria lengthening will be completed by spring.

The ferries will probably be lengthened on a one-a-year basis because of the demand, the spokesman said.

Cost of stretching the Victoria is estimated at more than $2 million and will enable the vessel to carry an additional 60 cars and 200 passengers.

The Victoria now has a capacity of 140 cars and 1,000 passengers.

Two Victoria-based shipyards indicated interest in the tender invitation which would mean employment for 200 men for about six months on each lengthening.

"We'll definitely be bidding," said John Wallace, manager of Yarrows, Ltd. "At the present time we don't know how many vessels we'll be bidding on but we hope to get some of the work."

A spokesman for McKay-Cormack, Ltd., said company officials were meeting today to consider the tender invitation but no decision on a possible bid has yet been made.

Sewers Closer For Panhandle

Esquimalt council approved a report on the Panhandle sewer initiation Monday night and ordered preparation of construction and borrowing bylaws to get the job done.

The bylaws were to have been read at Monday's meeting but Mayor Ray Bryant said today they weren't ready. He said they are complicated and the works department, clerk's and treasury offices are still writing them.

"But, in no way will the bylaws cause a delay in the construction date which the engineer has set for October," said Bryant.

PASS BYLAWS

He said since council approved the sewer plans it will obviously pass the bylaws. They will be read sometime in September, possibly at a short afternoon meeting.

In other business, council set a public hearing into zoning on Shearwater Street for 15 minutes before the next council meeting, Sept. 29.

Council also approved a systems analysis and data processing study for the region to be undertaken by the municipal affairs department.

The meeting lasted 33 minutes and was followed by a 1½-hour secret session to discuss what Bryant called "personnel matters."

nam will stand at 484,000, compared with 549,500 when he took office last Jan. 20.

The cut in the ceiling is somewhat larger than the actual number of troops to be withdrawn, Nixon said, because ceilings take into account authorized strength of military units whereas "in actual practice most units are slightly below full strength."

WON'T KEEP BASES

In citing his administration's Vietnam moves, Nixon said he has renounced an imposed military solution, proposed free elections under international supervision, offered the withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces over a 12-month period, declared the United States will retain no military bases there and has offered to speed mutual withdrawal under a negotiated, supervised ceasefire.

In addition, he said he has made it clear the United States would settle for de facto removal of North Vietnamese troops as long as there were guarantees against their return and that "we and the government of South Vietnam have announced that we are prepared to accept any political outcome which is arrived at through free elections."

The president added the United States is prepared to discuss Hanoi and Viet Cong proposals.

"In short, the only item which is not negotiable is the right of the people of South Vietnam to determine their own future free of outside interference," he said.

Regarding the latest planned withdrawal, Nixon said he acted "after careful consideration with my senior civilian and military advisers and in full consultation with the government of Vietnam" in Saigon.

KY BROKE NEWS

Nixon's announcement was robbed of much of its drama by a premature disclosure from Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam in Saigon Monday.

Ky told reporters at the opening of a Vietnamese painting exhibition that the U.S. would take another 40,500 soldiers out of Vietnam by the end of November.

However, the government-controlled Vietnam press agency later quoted Ky as saying the troops would be pulled out by Christmas.

Ky's figure was 5,500 more than Nixon announced.

Ky also said it was likely that another 150,000 to 200,000 Americans would be replaced by South Vietnamese troops by the end of 1970.

U.S. officials refused to comment on this remark and indicated Nixon does not intend to make long-range forecasts at this time.

answered: March 31, 1970. Campbell was also asked why he had waited so long before considering compulsory legislation.

"A minister must be as guileful as a serpent but as harmless as a dove," he replied.

North Saanich Mayor Jim Cumming said he was more than a little dismayed at the move.

"In North Saanich, we have 400 acres now in parkland and the regional district wants even more," he said. "I can see the planners designating the bulk of North Saanich as parkland, which would be fine if they would pay us grants in lieu of taxes. But they refuse to consider it."

SEED-SPIT RECORD SET

PARDEEVILLE, Wis. (AP) —Craig Jones, a Pardeeville teen-ager, has retained his world watermelon seed-spitting title with a record-shattering effort of 33 feet 3½ inches.

Jones told spectators at the second annual world watermelon eating and seed-spitting championships last weekend that he attributed his success to "continued training and clean living."

Hanoi Troops Raze Village Killing 24

SAIGON (AP) — Two hundred North Vietnamese troops raided a village in the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, killed 24 persons, wounded six others and destroyed 170 houses, South Vietnamese spokesmen reported today.

Southern allied forces killed 212 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in a dozen clashes from the Mekong Delta to the demilitarized zone, military spokesmen said.

Southern allied casualties were five Americans and three South Vietnamese killed.

U.S. headquarters said another american was killed and 53 others wounded in 29 rocket and mortar attacks between 8 a.m. Monday and 8 a.m. today.

The North Vietnamese attacked the village of Mai Linh, in the northern part of the country 12 miles southwest of Quang Ngai, shortly before midnight Monday night with rockets, mortars, grenades and rifle fire.

The village of 288 persons was defended by militiamen, and three of them were killed. All of the other victims were civilians.

Islanders Win In Montreal Draw

A Saanichton man won $250 in the latest draw of Montreal's voluntary tax.

Thomas H. Grigg, 1850 Dean Park, was one of 11 people to be drawn for the smallest prize given away in the $200,000 monthly lottery.

Albert Sewell of Campbell River also won $250.

Winner of the top prize was Mrs. Hilda Clarke, a widow from the Montreal suburb of Dorval. Mrs. Clarke said she would invest some of the $100,000 and use the rest to help her family of five children and 14 grandchildren.

The middle-aged grandmother, who spends half of the year in Vancouver, planted a big kiss on the cheek of Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau when she was announced a winner.

Outside Quebec, B.C. had the most winners, nine, followed by Ontario with seven.

The first European ever to be selected in the preliminaries for the draw, Maurice Chaillot of Paris, won $1,000 and presented Mayor Drapeau with a sample of his culture in return—a huge loaf of French bread.

ada to have defaulted on its commitments if an agreement is not reached, the trade department source said such a judgment would have to be made by the wheat board.

It was up to the responsible Canadian and Soviet government agencies to work the matter out.

Another trade department official said: "If we have patience, it may work out."

"We mustn't cut them off," he added in reference to the Soviets. "You try to oblige your customers. If you can't work it out now, then maybe later."

Since the Canada-Soviet agreement was signed, the world wheat market has changed dramatically from a seller's market to a buyer's market.

Production in the Soviet Union itself has bounced ahead after a succession of disastrous harvests, though this year's Soviet harvest is regarded to be only fair. There have been reports recently that Russia has even begun to compete with countries like Canada in the world market.

. . . FERRIES

The Esquimalt was lengthened at Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. in North Vancouver. Burrard is the parent company of Yarrows.

V. L. Hudson, vice-present of Burrard said the Vancouver-based shipyard will also bid on the Victoria extension.

The stretching involves cutting the ferry in half and inserting a new 84-foot midships to the present 340-foot length.

The Esquimalt which was exactly the same size as the Victoria became a wider, smoother-operating vessel after the operation. At 424 feet, it is B.C.'s biggest government-owned ferry.

It also became a more luxurious vessel, with plush carpeting, new dining facilities, and two upper sundecks added.

The highways department spokesman said detailed specifications for the Victoria addition have still to be worked out.

The lengthening of four vessels on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run will be followed by lengthening of two ferries on the Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay route.

The entire operation could cost more than $13 million.

Campbell To Take Over Indian Fund

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has been named chairman of the provincial government's First Citizens Fund, taking over from Provincial Secretary W. S. Black who remains on the committee.

It was set up April 15 to administer the $25 million in surplus revenue set aside by the government to benefit native Indians in the province.

Indians come under the provincial secretary's department but Campbell has had many dealings with them in recent months during his campaign to encourage Indians to set up municipalities.

Three-Week Program For Fire Safety

Fire Prevention Week in Victoria this year will be a varied program of demonstrations covering three weeks.

Starting Sept. 29, a week before the national proclamation, the fire department will visit about 60 schools in the Victoria area to observe fire-drill procedures. The department will demonstrate fire-fighting equipment and judge each school's fire drill.

Chief fire prevention officer A. G. Leason said today supervision by teachers will be watched too.

"You cannot divorce the staff from students in a fire drill," said Leason, "and even the janitorial staff tip the scales in the competition."

Two trophies will be the target of the competing schools.

Mayor Hugh Stephen is expected to proclaim Fire Prevention Week Oct. 6 in a city hall ceremony.

The following Wednesday, Oct. 8, five federal buildings will be evacuated in a firedrill exercise. Again, the fire department will be on hand to observe and demonstrate fire-fighting techniques.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain along the B.C. coast will decrease to a few showers this afternoon or this evening with the passage of an active Pacific disturbance.

Showers will mark its passage across the central interior today and across the southern interior this evening and overnight partial clearing will occur in inland areas tonight behind this system but showers will persist along the coast on Wednesday.

Vancouver: Small craft warning in effect for Georgia Strait. Cloudy with a few showers tonight and Wednesday. Winds light, becoming southerly 15 this afternoon. Low tonight and high Wednesday 45 and 60.

Victoria: Small craft warning in effect for Juan De Fuca Strait. Cloudy with a few showers tonight and Wednesday. Winds light, becoming southwesterly 15, at times 20 late this afternoon. Low tonight and high Wednesday 45 and 60.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

When you experience a lot of dust in the air, you may be one of those who say you want to live someplace where there isn't any dust. That's just about impossible because air that is dust-free doesn't exist anywhere in nature. If there were, however, regions where it didn't exist from natural local causes, you sometimes would experience dust that comes from volcanic eruptions at various places on the globe.

For example, volcanic dust from Iceland has fallen in Great Britain and Holland and dust from the tremendous Tomboro eruption fell in Sumatra, more than 1,000 miles away. The famous explosion of Krakatoa, in 1888 in the East Indies, blasted forth uncomputed tons of volcanic ash that covered the ground in distant islands to as much as four or five inches in depth and some of it fell as far away as Europe.

All kinds of dust are heavier than air. Therefore, when it gets blown to great heights and over great distances in a storm, it falls to earth quite rapidly when the force of the wind decreases.

TWO OF FOUR BABIES DEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two of the quadruplets born Saturday to a 25-year-old Vancouver housewife died today.

Doctors had been fighting to save the lives of the two since their health started failing soon after their birth. They were born two months prematurely and were all placed in incubators.

First to die was a 2-pound 7½-ounce girl and later in the day doctors lost the fight to keep the only boy, 2-pound 6½-ounce Cory, alive. They are both believed to have died of respiratory failure.

The quads' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Larmer, had been waiting anxiously since their birth for word on the condition of the babies.

Third-Term Law Change Pushed Through in Secret

By SELIG S. HARRISON

SEOUL (WP) — President Park Chung Hee had the votes, and the speaker of the national assembly had the explicit power to dislodge unruly opposition deputies from their "sit-in" on the rostrum with his own special security force.

Yet Park's supporters decided to push through a bitterly controversial third term bill in a secret, predawn Sunday meeting held outside the assembly chamber, provoking a deep national division over its legitimacy.

While opposition leaders staged an all-night vigil in the assembly, Park's 122 supporters slipped through a back alley behind a darkened assembly annex building across the street and were ushered one by one, into a little-used service entrance manned by plain-clothesmen.

A Korean journalist, who followed several deputies from their hotel and got into the building through a window, relates that the lights were not turned on in the heavily-curtained meeting room until all those invited were present and accounted for.

In 23 minutes, the assembly members cast their votes unanimously for a constitutional amendment saying that "the continuous tenure of a President shall be limited to three terms." Many members arrived with the required special ballot papers already signed.

An opposition lookout man who discovered the meeting was confined until it was all over.

WAVERERS

One reason for their determination to get the job out of the way quickly was the edginess of Park's managers over waverers in the ranks of 23 volatile party dissidents who had come around to the president's side at the last minute. Another was the desire to take advantage of the placid early morning curfew hours when there was no chance for inconvenient mob scenes.

Whatever their calculations, the net result has been to rescue the opposition from a humiliating debacle.

Four days of debate and manoeuver had made it increasingly obvious that the government had an eight-vote margin in the 171-member assembly. The "sit in" was a clear confession of defeat.

RIDICULOUS

Most observers believed that Park would be able to place the onus on the opposition members for disrupting democratic procedures, letting them look increasingly ridiculous as the days passed before calling the assembly police.

Now popular memories of opposition buffoonery have been swallowed up in outrage over the element of deception and secrecy in the vote.

In the politically conscious cities, especially, Park faces a sullen and cynical atmosphere as he starts his campaign for approval of the amendment in a referendum next month.

DISPUTE

The legal argument developing here revolved around the parting statement by assembly speaker Hyo-Sang Rhee to a group of opposition leaders as he left the chamber at midnight Saturday. A number of newsmen heard him say that the session stood in recess and would be reconvened on Monday morning.

When an opposition leader asked whether the proceedings could be reopened if members of the governing Democratic Republican Party showed up later on, demanding a snap vote, Rhee replied that there would be no time for the required public notice.

This was a reference to a provision of the assembly rules making it necessary for the speaker to give all members public notice if he invokes his prerogatives to call a special Sunday session.

The Rhee statements were widely reported in the press and are cited by the opposition to prove that they were the victim of brazen deception as well as a conscious violation of the rules.

The bad aftertaste left by the amendment vote could also predispose the public to accept opposition charges that Park is really seeking to establish lifetime rule.

UN Condemns Israeli Action On Jerusalem

UNITED NATIONS (WP)—The Security Council, terming the Aug. 21 fire at the Al Aksah Mosque an "execrable act" endangering peace, again condemned Israel Monday night for failing to heed resolutions against changing the status of Jerusalem.

Four abstentions accompanying the 11-0 vote limited the effect of the censure. The United States, Colombia, Finland and Paraguay abstained on the measure, which was an uneasy compromise between wishes of conservative Moslem countries to concentrate on the religious issue and the effort of militant Arab countries to hit politically at Israel.

Britain surprised some observers by voting for the resolution, and an Israeli source charged that it violated a commitment made during the debate last week. Lord Caradon explained that Britain has never recognized a unilateral right to alter the status of Jerusalem.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, in a tough reply to Council President Jacob Malik who had taken the floor as Soviet representative, charged that by prodding the Arabs the Soviet Union had made itself unfit to take part in Middle East peacemaking.

Malik had argued that the resolution should have been stronger in stipulating Israeli "political and moral responsibility" for the fire, even though the resolution drafter, Pakistani Ambassador Agha Shahi, made clear that it did not seek to attribute criminal responsibility.

The Soviet Union, Malik said, "will not accept maintenance of the present situation in the Middle East."

Only Dead Trees Axed

Only dead trees have been chopped down in Gorge Park, Saanich parks administrator Bert Richman said Monday.

"Every tree that we have cut is completely dead," he said, in reply to some complaints from residents.

"This is the only reason. We will be planting other trees in the winter to rehabilitate it."

Municipal crews have felled about 50 trees in the park. Hundreds of others remain standing.

Richman said he doesn't know why the trees died.

"In parks, they have to be dead or diseased before I'll take a tree down," he commented.

"And we plant many trees in all parks, replacing many more than we take out."

Lady Lawyer From Liberia Will Head UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Angie Brooks favors the direct approach in the traditionally roundabout world of diplomacy. Sometimes this flusters her colleagues at the United Nations.

But they genuinely admire and respect the ambitious woman lawyer from Liberia who was unopposed in today's election for president of the 24th session of the UN General Assembly.

As the second woman and third African to fill that role in UN history, the 41-year-old assistant secretary of state from Liberia is certain to enliven assembly proceedings.

WENT AFTER JOB

She prefers gay African prints with matching turbans in stylishly long costumes called the lappa in Liberia. They become her ample figure. She likes pendants of African design, bracelets and earrings.

She draws aim at the top post in any group that fires her interest—both in and out of the United Nations.

This year was the turn for an African to be elected assembly president, and she campaigned long and vigorously for the honor. The only other woman to serve in that post was Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of Jawaharlal Nehru, the late Indian leader, in 1954. Other African presidents were Mongi Slim of Tunisia in 1961 and Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana in 1964.

In her elected post Miss Brooks will preside over all full assembly sessions. Behind the scenes she will help co-ordinate and speed assembly busines.

She comes from the oldest republic in Africa, founded in 1847 with the help of Americans who sought to establish a colony in Africa for free Negroes.

Her family was not wealthy, and she had to work as a student in colleges in the United States where she earned her undergraduate and law degrees.

Miss Brooks has been coming to the United Nations since 1954. She soon let her colleagues know she wanted to be chairman of the assembly's trusteeship committee and in due time she got the job. She was elected also president of the UN trusteeship council, and was chairman of visiting UN mission to Tuanda and Urundi and to the U.S. trust territory of the Pacific.

HEADED LAW GROUP

She was president of the International Federation of Women Lawyers in 1964-1967.

Back in Liberia she became assistant attorney-general in 1953 after entering government service in the justice department, and was named assistant secretary of state in 1958.

While President William V. S. Tubman and his secretary of state were out of the country for 10 days in 1958 she held the reins of government.

"Not bad for a woman," she tells reporters.

She has been a sturdy battler for the rights of African peoples, with special emphasis on women. She credits Tubman for progress gained by women in Liberia, recalling that she was the only woman in the justice department when she joined it early in her career. Now 25 women hold posts in the department.

"I believe in equality for women," she says, "not in giving them special privilege because they are women."

She is a Baptist—the daughter of a minister in the back country. She was reared by foster parents in Monrovia because there was not enough income to pay for the upbringing of a family of five sisters and four brothers. At present she is foster mother to 19 children.

Five Nations Eye Council Seats

UNITED NATIONS (WP)—Burundi, Nicaragua, Poland, Sierra Leone and Syria are the leading candidates for seats on the Security Council beginning in January, according to well-informed diplomats here.

They would replace Algeria, Paraguay, Hungary, Senegal and Pakistan, respectively, for two-year terms on the 15-member council. Colombia, Finland, Nepal, Spain and Zambia remain until 1971, and Britain, Nationalist China, France, the Soviet Union and the United States are permanent members.

The election of Syria, Nicaragua and Poland by the General Assembly this fall is regarded as virtually certain because they have been endorsed by the requisite geographical groups—Syria by the Asian group, Nicaragua by the Latin American and Poland by the Eastern European.

Tanzania and Togo also have competed for the two African seats being vacated at the end of this year, but Burundi and Sierra Leone won the endorsement of the foreign ministers of the Organization for African Unity.

Bombino

The Fiat 850 Coupe really is a little bomb. To prove it, hot-foot it down to your Fiat dealer's and light one up. Then ease it into traffic and feel it start to crackle. You can whip it in and out of spots where big Detroit iron fears to tread. And all the while it just purrs. None of that rackety little engine sound like a piece of cardboard is stuck in the fan blades. That's because the Fiat 850 Coupe has a sealed-system liquid cooled engine.

Now that you're beginning to get with it, crank it into a couple of tight turns. Surprise! No oversteer. None of that feeling it's going to roll on its door handles. That's because the Fiat 850 Coupe has been designed with slight understeer and independent suspension all 'round. Sway bars front and rear. And a transverse leaf spring up front where stiffness counts.

Once you get the feel, look for a stretch of open highway. When it's clear, slow until the car almost stops . . . then slip it into low (synchro'd all four of course). Now put your foot down. All the way to 4000 and shift. Now up to six thousand and into third. Listen to that purr change to a sporty growl. Now fourth. See? A flat 18 seconds to 60 MPH! Don't take your foot out of it . . . let her ride right up to 70 MPH. No strain. The Fiat 850 Coupe cruises up there. And at 35-40 miles per gallon too. Unbelievable, but this tough little engine doesn't give a thing away to mills half as big again!

Back at the dealer's, take two minutes to look the car over. Vinyl upholstered front buckets and rear seat. Far better than you'd expect on a car costing a mere $2,195.00* Trunk. Full instruments with a big black tach and speedo front and centre. Disc brakes up front. Two speed heater. And a great ventilation system with dash-mounted ducts. But the best deal of all, is the Fiat 850 Coupe's looks. Beautiful. None of the tired old clichés and chromy gimmicks. Looks a lot like a tiny Ferrari. Acts like one too.

The Fiat 850 Coupe. Take one out soon and bomb it around a little.

Clarification on NATO

BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY Stewart has conferred with Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Sharp and says he now has a better understanding of Canada's move to reduce its military contribution to NATO in Europe. But at the same time the London visitor holds that a reduction by Canada could conceivably result in a "chain reaction" in which other NATO members would likewise cut their NATO contingents. While Mr. Stewart does not think this development is likely, it still remains as a possibility. But more to the point is his idea that any weakening of NATO —which he fears as a result of Canada's action—will reduce the West's bargaining strength in disarmament and other negotiations with Russia.

This has logic, for if the Soviet Union suspects a disintegration of NATO through its members calling home their European forces in any numbers, there will be less bargaining pressure to reduce the Warsaw Pact. Reduction of the Western support should be used to obtain a matching move by the East, rather than offered gratis.

But Mr. Stewart appears to have assumed—at least until his Ottawa visit—that a reduction in the numerical deployment of Canadian forces in Europe represented a diminution of Canada's interest in NATO as a mutual defensive organization. That is not the case. Although for a number of reasons, principally economy, Canada plans to bring home a sizable proportion of its European forces, there has been no suggestion that the original purpose of NATO is not still supported and approved. It is that fact which Russia is likely to appreciate.

On this basis, then, Canada's presence on the NATO scene can still be a bargaining factor with the Russians—including our ability and willingness to reinforce our European troops within a matter of hours if required. And if a readjustment of our deployment on the spot led to the same action by other NATO members, this would imply that the reason for such a change was justified, rather than the reverse. For when it is recalled that the real deterrent to a Soviet invasion of Europe must in the last analysis be nuclear—which means the United States—then maintenance of a sizable token force in Europe would appear to fill the normal requirements.

Mr. Stewart has been assured by Mr. Sharp that Canada is still aligned with NATO, and regards the alliance as "fundamental to Western security". That should reassure the British minister—as well as a few Canadians.

Storms Across the Pacific

ON THE MAP, THE KURIL Islands stretch in an irregular dashed line to form the Asian links of the chain which becomes the Aleutians on the North American side of the North Pacific. Closest to Japan, and regarded by Japanese as their "northern territories" are Habomai, Shikotan, Etorofu and Kunshiri, all Russian-occupied since the Second World War.

Off one of them early last month a Soviet ship, patrolling the Russian-claimed 12-mile offshore jurisdiction, rammed a Japanese squid-fishing boat, causing the death of 11 of the 12-man crew. Russia failed to notify the Japanese authorities of the mishap for 20 days.

The incident stirred Japanese public resentment at a time when Soviet overtures are being made to Tokyo for more friendly relations, and when Japanese sentiment is strengthening the demand for the right of Japanese vessels to ply their trade around the four islands and for their restoration to Japanese sovereignty. In the latter instance, Japan, as supporting argument, can point to negotiation for terms with the United States covering the return of the Ryukus and Okinawa.

What influence Japan's claims may have on Moscow is an open question, but the time for presenting them has probably never been more opportune since the war. Russia seems disposed not only to seek friends on the Pacific as a consequence of border conflicts with Red China, but has left no doubt of its willingness to discuss with Tokyo the use of Japanese technology in opening the vast timber, coal and natural gas resources of eastern Siberia.

The Japanese, for their part, would also like to find an accommodation with Russia safeguarding its fishing vessels, and the release of 476 boats and 123 fishermen, still held following seizure of 1,003 boats since the end of the war. The significance of any such arrangement would be noted with interest on the North American side of the Pacific, where intrusion of fishing vessels from both countries has led to seizure and fines by Canadian and American authorities.

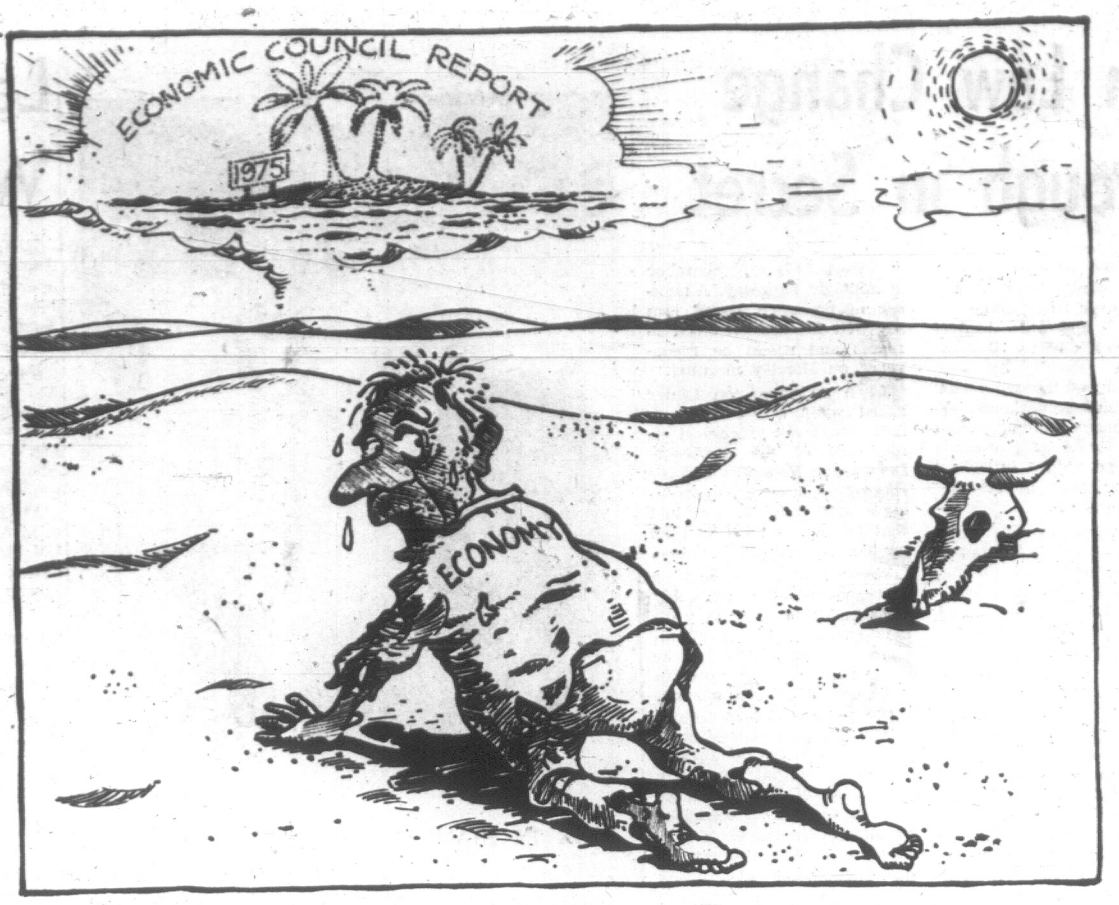
Apart from the question of reclaiming territory—the first interest of the Japanese—the situation across the ocean shows the disorder prevailing in fishing operations of the North Pacific among two of the nations who must, eventually, reach some accord not only with one another but with Canada and the United States. That is necessary not only to avoid future international conflicts, but to create the climate for adequate conservation measures.

Before the Commission

IT IS FORTUNATE FOR THE standing of the provincial government's labor legislation that the first application of binding arbitration under Section 18 should have come in the case of the threat of a strike by Oak Bay and Saanich police forces. Prohibition of strike action in the case of the vitally essential police forces will arouse little if any criticism, even among the police. Invocation of the act in the present instance served mainly as a device to get the policemen's case before the Mediation Commission, and it appeared that this could not be brought about without the prospect of a strike.

The policemen readily recognize the insuperable objections to a walkout by law enforcement officers, and acted only to make the Commission's intervention possible. Now the Commission is faced with its first case in which the results of the arbitration must be binding on both parties—the oil workers' arbitration is not automatically binding —and its actions will be watched not only in British Columbia but far afield. It is obvious that the security and operation of organized society demand that certain basic employments should not be open to strike—police and fire services, and essential utilities are among them.

But curtailment of the strike weapon should be compensated for in guarantees that impartiality and justice shall prevail in negotiation and subsequent talks. The police are acting within their rights and deserve credit for their approach to the problem. The soundness of their arguments for parity wages is another matter, which should receive clarification as the arbitration progresses.



". . . another mirage . . . ?"

FROM TORONTO — By HAROLD GREER

Vestiges of the Old Thinking Still Exist

"ALTHOUGH social concepts have changed, legal machinery and terminology may still reflect the old ideas. Many of the faults of the modern law are the result to putting new wine into old bottles." This, says a mammoth four-volume study prepared for the Ontario Law Reform Commission, is what is wrong with family law in Canada. The old legal bottles cannot cope with either the number or the nature of the problems arising from family relations in the mid-20th century.

Greer

It is easy to see why. Under ancient common law, a wife and family were virtually legal nonentities. Husband and wife were one and the one was man; a father had an absolute right to custody and control of his infant children; the idea of adoption was an alien concept. While such notions are no longer entertained, reform has been painfully slow rather than revolutionary; not surprisingly, vestiges of the old thinking still plague the legal forms and formulations.

Great Step Forward

Thus it was a great step forward when the Juvenile Delinquents Act was passed. No longer would the State have to close its eyes to the plight of neglected childen, with the only choice of branding them as criminals when they offended the law; henceforth, they would be simply delinquents, to be helped rather than judged, rehabilitated rather than punished.

Yet "delinquent" has proven no less a stigma than "criminal" and many of the Juvenile Court's procedures, and much of its atmosphere, still smack of the traditional adversary process in which adult "justice" seems simply to have been transferred to the juvenile level.

The same may be said of all family matters coming before the courts: they tend to be reduced to legal questions for trial when in reality they are more likely to be symptoms of complex underlying social situations.

Maze of Family Law

"Family questions are usually more complex than the actual issue litigated," the Commission's researchers reported drily. "There is force in the argument that the importance to the community of a good family court system should not be measured simply in terms of specific questions litigated, but in relation to family social problems, present and potential."

Another difficulty, the result of grafting piecemeal statutory reforms on to the common law, is that family law has been fractionalized into a confusing, frustrating and inefficient jurisdictional maze. Only the provincial Supreme Courts and the Divorce Division of the Exchequer Court of Canada hear divorce actions; financial and property settlements can be tried in the Supreme Courts but also under certain circumstances, in the Family and Juvenile Courts. Cases concerning the custody of children may come before the High Courts, the Surrogate Court or the Family and Juvenile Court.

The Commission's researchers, led by Prof. Ian Baxter of the University of Toronto's Faculty of Law and including two lady lawyers, Mrs. Violet Bielski and Mrs. Anna Stevenson of the Ontario Bar, concluded the only solution to all this is to set up one comprehensive and highly specialized court system in the province to deal with all aspects of family law.

Need Special Services

"The number and nature of the problems arising in the area of family relations requires specialized treatment and services beyond those available in our courts exercising their tradition functions," they declare. The diagnostic requirements and dispositional facilities of the family courts must range far beyond the adjudication of issues in individual cases and include more than legally trained personnel and a technical-legal approach."

In this system, family court judges would have a high standard of training not just in law but in the related social sciences. They would be required to take continuing education in the behavioural sciences after appointment. The report recommended an inter-disciplinary course of training be established in at least one Ontario university.

Defender for Child

There would be a Department of Social Work within the system consisting of social workers, probation officers, case workers and medical personnel. A Law Guardian would replace the Official Guardian and act as a combination ombudsman and public defender for the child. A legal department would present the case in delinquency proceedings instead of the probation officers, police officers, etc., who do it now. The Court would sit in the evenings and on Saturdays as well as regular hours and there would be a modern records and data processing branch to make the thing work efficiently, without unnecessary delays and work losses for those involved.

"The real root of the matter," declares the study, "is a more adequate recognition of the work of family courts by government, by the legal profession and by the public at large." There can be few things within the power of government, it says, that "touch more directly the pulse of the social health of the community."

FROM NEW YORK — By JAMES RESTON

The Tyranny of the Militant Few

THERE IS NOW a growing pattern of anarchy in the civilized world. Planes are hijacked. Ambassadors are kidnapped. Vast international companies are expropriated. The trend is not yet out of hand, but even in the universities of America, the militant minorities are using force to achieve their objectives, and this raises some fundamental questions.

Reston

Anarchy is the hope of the weak, and the terror of the strong. The most modern technological nations are the most vulnerable to sabotage. Fifty knowledgeable and determined revolutionaries who understand the underground electrical system can paralyze New York. And this power of the militant minority is increasing.

Half a dozen men can grab an American ambassador in Rio, or blow up Israeli offices in Europe, and even if they are caught, the tyranny of the militant few can go on. Nations have understood the power of anarchy for hundreds of years and have patiently tried to establish rules of conduct against it, but the rules are breaking down, and the consequences are alarming.

The reaction of the state of Israel in recent days illustrates the problem. It is a small state surrounded by much larger Arab states, which have openly vowed to destroy it. They cannot do so by classical warfare. They have tried open aggression and have been defeated and humiliated, so they have resorted to anarchy and guerrilla warfare.

The Arabs are exploding in their impotence. They have established their subversive headquarters in Amman. They avoid a major clash with the more modern, organized Israeli armed forces, but they supply their guerrillas with money, arms and technical aid, and hijack planes and blow up Israeli offices in Europe with hand grenades and bombs.

UN Is Helpless

The United Nations organization, which is the symbol and referee of decent international conduct, is helpless to deal with the consequences. Moscow can arm but cannot restrain the Arabs, and Washington arms but cannot restrain the Israelis, so the battle not only goes on but gets worse at the critical strategic point where Europe, Africa and Asia meet. Suez is not as important as it once was when sea power was decisive in world strategy, but it is still critical, and the Arabs and the Israelis are in danger of involving Moscow, Peking and Washington in the battle.

For both the Arabs and the Israelis are now engaged in a very dangerous business. They are both asserting that they can use military power to defend themselves and achieve their political objectives, and more important, that they can not only use military power but control it. This is what Hanoi and Washington did in Vietnam. They thought they could fight out their differences on the battlefield, that they could limit their war and somehow compromise it, but it hasn't worked.

The resort to military force has failed on both sides in Vietnam, and it is failing in the Middle East. The Arabs think they can hijack airplanes, defy the rules of international commerce, and get away with it, but the Israelis retaliate with tanks and air power against Nasser's artillery and commando forces along the Suez.

Nasser thinks he can use the techniques of the Vietcong in Vietnam to restore the military balance he lost in the Six-Day War against the Israelis. The Israelis feel they must use their tanks and air power to remind Nasser of his weakness and keep him from misjudging his military power as he did in the last Arab attack on Israel. But both are in trouble, for they think they can use but control military power, and the whole history of the last generation is against them.

'Psychiatric Treatment'

In explaining why they used more armored vehicles, more men and more aircraft against the Nasser forces along the Suez last week, Israeli officials say they are reminding Nasser that he cannot break the cease-fire agreement with impunity, that they are applying a little "psychiatric treatment" in order to keep him from thinking he can resort to anarchy and guerrilla warfare and escalate the war without being hit hard.

Still, this is the old illusion. It is the old balance-of-power theory and sometimes it works, but sometimes it doesn't, and when one side resorts to the techniques of anarchy as the Arabs have done against the Israelis, the whole community of nations has to think about the consequences.

It will be interesting to see the reaction to this problem this month when the foreign ministers of the world gather here in New York for their annual discussion in the UN General Assembly. They will be confronted by many disputes between the nations, but the main issue may very well be the growth of anarchy, for if the centuries-long effort to create a few international rules of diplomatic conduct break down, the chances of solving any conflict between nations will not be very good.

The day will come when we will laugh at such divisions," said Mr. McIntyre, who is a minister of England's Congregational Church. (The United Church of Canada was formed in 1925.)

Free Man

I refer to your editorial in Saturday's paper in which you comment on the remarks of the Chief Constable of East Kildonan, Manitoba, on the issue of public morality in the theatre, movies and literature.

I personally endorse your editorial — the police would indeed be well advised to confine their activities to combatting the Cosa Nostra and not invade the area of crimes without victims.

One of the predicates of the B.C. Civil Liberties Association philosophy is that each individual must be free to formulate his own moral judgment. Expressed in a practical manner this means for instance, that an individual must be able to decide for himself whether a piece of writing or a publication or anything else for that matter is obscene. If he decides for himself that it is obscene and that he does not wish to read or see or hear this particular thing again, then he is a free man in a free country.

On the other hand if someone decides for him, and the individual has no say in the decision, then that man lives in a police state.

The issue is that simple. — Ross Leighton, president Victoria Chapter British Columbia Civil Liberties Association.

Candidate's Thanks

At the peak of India's revolt against British rule — Gandhi was credited with this quote: "There is no finer human in the world than an English gentleman — but the trouble is — there are so few of them."

And so it can be said with regard to British Columbia's voters. "There is no better guarantee for B.C.'s future than intelligent voters — but the trouble is — there are so few of them."

And this is the reason of Premier Bennett's triumph — a triumph which proved Premier Bennett is a supreme strategist when appealing to the voter's intelligence.

But his strategy was not original. Premier Bennett merely followed the advice and example of the late Premier Aberhart, who claimed the only way to be a successful politician, is to beam messages and promises to voters — whose I.Q. must not be rated above a child of nine.

And you know what? It worked. And can any intelligent voter claim it did not work for Premier Bennett? That's the secret for his genuine smile — and mine, too.

For I do claim the honor of having been trusted by 244 of Victoria's most intelligent voters — where quality, not quantity, counted most.

Therefore, through your esteemed paper — a big thank you to my 244 intelligent few. — W. A. (Bill) Scott, Independent Candidate.

UN at Low Ebb But It's 'Court Of First Resort'

By ROBERT H. ESTABROOK

UNITED NATIONS—Foreign ministers from 80 or more countries, including all the major powers except Communist China, will make their annual pilgrimage to New York in the next few days for the 24th session of the General Assembly that opened today.

A few presidents and prime ministers are likely to augment the ranks. Participation by so many luminaries attests the obligation still recognized by men and governments to support and nurture the United Nations.

Paradoxically, as preparations are pushed for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the international organization next year, the UN's reputation as an effective political instrument is at a low ebb.

Widespread disillusionment unquestionably exists, even among those who repeat the ritualistic chant that the UN is their first line of defence. Indeed, expectations for the current assembly session are extremely modest.

The dispute between the Soviet Union and Communist China overshadows this session in much the same way as the Middle East conflict overshadowed the 1967 session.

No New Policies Seen

Secretary-General U Thant, among others, is much alarmed by the Sino-Soviet rift. But no one expects much new or different by way of policy decisions to emerge on the China question, the Middle East or the other old standby issues that will be before the assembly — disarmament, Korea, racial and colonial matters and the like.

At one time it appeared that the Chinese representation debate might have additional importance because of the efforts by Canada and Italy to establish a basis for diplomatic relations with Peking.

But there has been no indication that these efforts will soon come to fruition. American diplomats expect that the Albanian resolution to expel Nationalist China and seat Peking will pick up a few more votes, but that the pattern of exclusion prevailing since 1951 will not be changed.

What gives the issue an extra measure of interest this year is the extent to which Communist sources are going in order to emphasize the Soviet misgivings. They acknowledge that Soviet spokesmen have discussed the possibility of a strike against Chinese nuclear installations with eastern European party leaders.

These sources also make it clear that, although the Communist bloc probably will again urge universal membership in the UN, the Soviet Union actually would regard any change in Chinese representation as an unfriendly act.

Some of the most constructive work in the Assembly has been done in a small working group of the special committee on peacekeeping. Both the Soviet Union and the United States had made compromises, and there had been considerable optimism about ultimate agreement on a new formula for voluntary peacekeeping operations directed by the secretary-general with security council supervision.

Recently the Soviet line has appeared to harden. It is now unlikely that this work will come to fruition in the current Assembly.

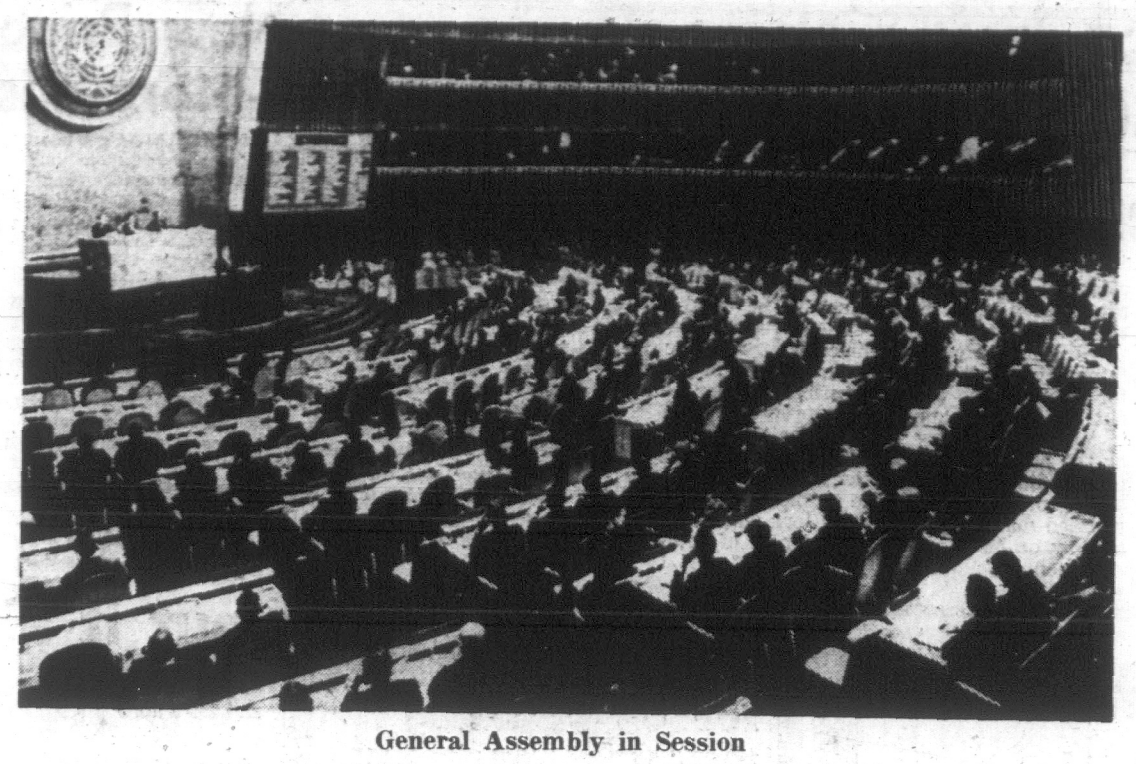
Just Office Building

Perhaps the boldest action the Assembly may take is a decision to expand the New York headquarters by authorizing a badly needed new UN office building. Even on this point France and other countries which favor the concentration of more UN activities in Europe may offer opposition.

This prospect of a torrent of words but a drought of action in the Assembly emphasizes the plight of the United Nations. There is widespread respect for the UN in economic and social affairs — the UN development program, the UN Children's Fund, new population programs and the like. But few persons any longer look to the UN for decisive remedies for the political ills afflicting the world.

Part of this disability, obviously, is a byproduct of the Cold War. Caught up almost since its birth in East-West rivalry and suspicion, the UN never was able to master the unanimity to enforce security council decisions.

Indian and Pakistan were able to thwart it on the issue of Kashmir; Egypt, Jordan and Israel have defied it at various times on Middle East questions; more recently it has been ineffective in southern Africa. The client-state relationship in the Middle East is a current Cold War manifestation.



General Assembly in Session

Such issues have been apart from those directly involving the big powers on which only the naive have expected the UN to play a decisive role. Thus the Soviet Union was able to block action on Hungary 13 years ago.

American insistence on excluding Communist China has complicated consideration of the war in Southeast Asia. With North Vietnam refusing to recognize the UN's competence, Security Council involvement in the Vietnam issue would have invited a Soviet veto even if the U.S. had been able to enlist other support for its position.

Some of the UN's ineffectiveness also derives, surely, from the sheer difficulty of the problems it has been asked to solve. The charter signed at San Francisco in 1945 was not a magic cure for the perversity of man; this is amply demonstrated by the Middle East crisis which has been before the organization in one form or another for most of the intervening years.

The wonder is, really, that the UN has been able to accomplish as much there as it has. The UN emergency force succeeded in policing a tenuous truce between Egypt and Israel during 10½ years until 1967.

The UN relief and works agency feeds, clothes or shelters well over a million Palestine refugees.

Despite the lack of political accord, the Security Council serves as at least some deterrent to renewed large-scale warfare; and the special Middle East representative, Gunnar Jarring, stands ready to encourage the faintest sign of mutual concessions.

Another cause of disillusionment, sadly, is the unrealistic expectations held out for the United Nations. Some groups portrayed it as an instrument of world government that would provide instant remedies for everything from nationalism to housemaid's knee.

Too Much Parochialism

False expectations blunted awareness of the different objectives in the UN. The major countries, for instance, sought to muster endorsement for their purposes; but the smaller nations viewed the UN as primarily a check on the big powers. Even today doctrinaire attitudes hamper necessary acknowledgment of the UN's limitations — or, at the opposite extreme, refuse to concede that it has any utility.

Finally, the preoccupation of the Afro-Asian majority in the 26-member general assembly with what the big powers regard as parochial issues or trivia has sometimes produced both fear and skepticism about the course of the assembly — even though the big countries usually are able to block actions of which they strongly disapprove.

Smaller nations also have a complaint that the big powers do not take their concerns about injustice seriously enough.

In the final analysis, the UN's effectiveness depends upon what the big powers think of it. Indeed, one of the questions the big powers face is how to call small international lawbreakers effectively to book.

Why is it, then, that the foreign ministers, who are realistic men, continue to flock to New York each September? Appearances apart, it clearly is that they see in the United Nations certain virtues that have little to do with oratory in the Assembly and may not have been fully envisaged in the formative sessions at Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco.

By all odds, the most important of these unpublicized virtues is the cover the UN provides as a meeting place. Ministers do not need an excuse to come to New York for the Assembly.

They may be bored by speeches and resolutions, but they can talk seriously with more of their counterparts here than they could meet otherwise in a year of individual visits.

Not only can the UN provide an occasion for U.S. Secretary of State Rogers to talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko on strategic arms limitation and other pending issues without either making an obvious trip to the other's capital, it also can offer a reason for resumption of four-power talks on the Middle East as France has been advocating, with the new French foreign minister, Maurice Schumann, and British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart joining Rogers and Gromyko.

Notwithstanding the disillusionments, nations still look to the UN in times of crisis for want of any better forum. The UN has no independent power, and it is not often a court of last resort.

But it is sometimes a very useful court of first resort, because it enables governments to give an appearance of great concern while they think about what to do next.

Time to Cool Down

This is by no means an unimportant asset. At the outset of the Pueblo case, there was domestic pressure on Washington to bomb Wonsan, although there was no indication that such a strike against North Korea would have promoted the release of the captured crewmen (indeed, it might have killed them).

Even though the sessions of the Security Council in themselves provided no answer, by the time this procedure had been applied, cooler judgment had prevailed and the problem was less acute.

In a similar way, reference to the UN helped relieve some of the pressure after the Arab commando attack on an Israeli airliner at Zurich last winter.

To these advantages another may eventually be added if the gradual rapprochement between the Soviet Union and the United States proceeds.

Not from any ideological agreement, but from a hard calculation of mutual advantage, both countries have begun to acknowledge in the peacekeeping discussions that action through the UN can serve an important purpose of insulation. By preventing dangerous situations from getting worse and thereby involving the superpowers directly, it can provide time for remedies.

As this process continues and is reflected in the attitudes of others, it can perhaps become the foundation of a new kind of respect for the United Nations based on a more realistic regard for its political capabilities.

CBC Has Problem In Any Language

By DOUGLAS SAGI

CBUF-FM is a French-language radio station in Vancouver, broadcasting standard AM programs with FM equipment.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which operates the station, explains it this way:

"CBUF-FM marks the first time a CBC FM station has operated as part of the AM network. This is due to technical factors, since the congested situation in the AM band in the Vancouver area made it impossible for the CBC to provide in AM a quality of service and coverage in any way equal to that which is expected on the FM frequency."

★ ★ ★

That you do not understand the above is not by any means because of a lack of intelligence on your part. The paragraph has no meaning. (I am beginning to worry about myself because there are moments, as I re-read it, when I think I know what the CBC is getting at.)

Anyhow, CBUF-FM began broadcasting in December 1967 as the first French-language station in British Columbia and, its staff believed, the most important French station in Western Canada.

After 18 months, five members of the production and administrative staff resigned and the director of programming was replaced, all for reasons that are increasingly familiar in the CBC: conflicts of personality, clashes between creative and administrative personnel, vague terms of reference in supervisory classifications.

★ ★ ★

The troubles at CBUF-FM would be just another This Hour Has Seven Days affair if it were not that a French station 4,000 miles away from Montreal was involved.

They will deny it, and try to explain that the language difference was only a small part of the problem, but the impression will undoubtedly remain that the English-language CBC brass out West stepped down hard on the Quebeckers, not because they were imaginative but because they were French.

The fact is that French stations have done unexpectedly well in Western Canada — in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and other centres too.

Listeners who speak only English like them, sometimes because they can't understand the commercials, but also because they provide a glimpse of the other culture, an opportunity to revive an acquaintance with the language that began in high school.

★ ★ ★

It is to the CBC's disgrace that it has allowed a petty squabble to damage the promising start of CBUF-FM.

But what else could be expected of a Crown corporation that has so often proved unable to communicate with its staff in any language?

Parents' Hypocrisy Showing

(An editorial issued by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada)

In spite of, or perhaps because of, all the articles and television programs on drugs, most parents have evidently missed the first point regarding drugs and the young. Not the only point, but the first one.

The more most adults warn about marijuana, the more their hypocrisy shows.

Many young people are aware of the dangers of marijuana. They have also seen the dangers of alcohol. They consider them both to be mood-modifying drugs. One is not "alcohol" and the other "a drug." Both are drugs. Many have experienced both, know the differences, know the similarities.

Then what? Along come their parents, anxious, puzzled, righteous, to lecture the young about the "terrible dangers" of marijuana, which the parents have never experienced. In the next room is a bar stocked with powerful drugs in quart bottles.

The hypocrisy is so loud that it drowns out the parents' words.

Violence Can Be Messy

By ALAN BARTH

"Relevance" is today's open sesame for almost any undertaking. Virtually anything at all — even a million-dollar dinner for astronauts in some out-of-the-way place called Los Angeles — can be justified if it can be hailed as relevant to something else contemporary.

The magic coverall was employed in Scarsdale, N.Y., the other day to provide a full-length sanctification and exculpation for a high school course, bearing academic credit toward graduation, in "revolution and guerrilla warfare."

The course, explained the head of the Scarsdale summer school program with simple succinctness, is "relevant to today's world."

●

And so it is, to be sure. "Revolution and guerrilla warfare are happening all over the world, and I think students in Scarsdale should know about it," said Stephen Kling, the teacher of the course.

Fortunately, they are not happening, at least yet in Scarsdale. But no matter; events may well be moving in that direction. A good course in revolution and guerrilla warfare should be very relevant later on, in any case, when these high school kids get to college and want to protest against ROTC courses there.

What high school students need, however, is not relevance so much as realism. In the Scarsdale caper, they were armed with BB guns and water pistols and came to the conclusion, according to their instructor, that "the village would be very easy to sabotage."

Well, that's probably quite true, just as it was a cinch to sabotage Columbia, Harvard and Cornell. Like Scarsdale, those college communities were completely unprepared for guerrilla warfare — or, to give it its contemporary campus nomenclature, the "disruptive demonstration."

Apparently so many collegiate Che Guevaras and Ho Chi Minhs are planning guerrilla campaigns for the opening of the academic season this fall that they're going to have to draw lots for priority and for the available supply of grievances.

But will guerrilla tactics work again on the campus as successfully as they did before? A lot of college authorities who were taken by surprise last spring and caved in to student demands as though they were inexorable, have begun to reflect that the students didn't really have anything but BB guns and water pistols and that, anyway, they don't seem to have much stomach for rough stuff.

Students have shown a strong tendency to blench at the sight of blood and to blubber pathetically at the sound of truncheon on cranium, as though there were some sort of Marquis of Queensberry rules for rioting and the cops had not played quite fair in using their nightsticks.

The first thing that a good high school course in revolution and guerrilla warfare ought to teach students is that once they take the gloves off, the establishment, or whatever it is they're trying to overthrow, is going to do likewise. And what happens thereafter is unlikely to be confined to BB guns and water pistols.

Establishments, generally speaking, are better equipped than student revolutionaries and guerrilla fighters, with brass knuckles, tear gas, Mace, shotguns and the like; and they are far less squeamish about employing them.

The thing that students need to learn about disorder is that it tends to get very disorderly. It may start with a friendly sit-in and a little leafing through other people's correspondence which seems inoffensive enough to the students.

●

But tempers flare. Reprisal gives birth to reprisal. And in the end, victory goes to the most ruthless.

Any good course in revolution and guerrilla warfare ought to include reference to words spoken by the late Robert Kennedy in Cleveland on the day after Martin Luther King's assassination — and just a month before his own.

"What has violence ever accomplished?" he asked. "What has it ever created? No martyr's cause has ever been righted by riots and civil disorders . . . too often we honor swagger and bluster and the wielders of force; too often we excuse those who are willing to build their own lives on the shattered dreams of others.

"Some Americans who preach non-violence abroad fail to practice it here at home. Some who accuse others of inciting riots have by their own conduct invited them. Some look for scapegoats, others look for conspiracies, but this much is clear; violence breeds violence, repression brings retaliation, and only a cleaning of our whole society can remove this sickness from our soul."

Cleaning the society is, of course, the essential business of students. To drop out of that enterprise is to drop out of life. And there is undoubtedly a great deal of cleaning to be done.

The question is whether revolution and guerrilla warfare — civil disorder and lawbreaking — are necessary, or even the most effective, means for bringing it about in a society where orderly political action remains feasible.

Political action to bring about social change — action which is neither violent nor unlawful — is not impossible in the United States, no matter what the courses in revolution and guerrilla warfare may teach to the contrary.

●

The establishment is, admittedly, not easily overcome. By definition, it dominates the existing political machinery, the public offices which are the levers of power, the principal media of communication — and most of the money. Still, it is not invulnerable. It can be shaken if not shattered.

Some ingenuity and daring and innovation — assets with which students are supposed to be better supplied than they are with the weapons for guerrilla warfare — will be needed to clean the society. Is it not time to put them to use? There are more potent forms of attack than force.

Students of the country, awake! You have nothing to use but your brains.

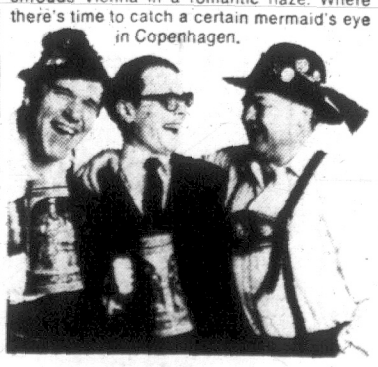
The other Europe

There's a Europe few people know. That everyone goes to see. And few ever find. It ends when summer begins. And begins when summer ends. It's Europe populated by Europeans instead of tourists. Europe gone to sleep or come alive. Depending on you and how you look at it. Where there's time to smile back at the Mona Lisa in Paris. Where fog makes a London pub even warmer in welcome. Where a Swiss fondue in Zurich can introduce you to people who know how to live. Where the mist from the Danube shrouds Vienna in a romantic haze. Where there's time to catch a certain mermaid's eye in Copenhagen.



Air Canada flies to these and several other uncrowded destinations in Europe: Brussels, Glasgow, Shannon, Frankfurt and Moscow. And everywhere else in Europe is but a short hop away from these gateways.

We make it not just easier to go to the Other Europe, but absolutely possible. See your travel agent about our Fly Now–Pay Later plan, Extra Cities Plan and some of the most fascinating tours of Ireland, North Africa, the Middle East, France, Germany, or Switzerland and Austria for Alpine skiing. There's even a London Super Show Tour that provides you with just about everything — including tickets to top West End plays. Tour prices start as low as $76.

Use the excuse of a business trip, a family visit, skiing if you have to, but don't wait till next year to see the Other Europe. Because if enough people discover it, it'll never be the same.

U.S. Committed to Mars Landing But Timetable Remains in Doubt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is committed to landing a man on Mars. It is up to the president whether the landing is made between 1980 and the end of the century or after the year 2000.

The commitment was made Monday when President Nixon accepted the recommendation of his special task force on space.

The task force report, which Nixon will use in making a final decision at some future date, suggested the options in deciding the U.S. space future be narrowed down to three choices.

Each of the three options open to Nixon provides for a Mars landing, but only two of them provide for it in this century. The third apparently advocates a longer-range program.

In narrowing the choice to three, the task force rejected the two extremes—a crash program for Mars at the earliest possible time or phasing out the entire manned space program.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, in reporting on the president's 40-minute meeting with the task force, said the three options represented "a balanced program of space exploration including manned and unmanned operations with a manned landing on Mars as an integral part of future developments."

JAPANESE PROTEST BOMB TEST

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan has protested to the United States over a planned underground nuclear test in the northern Pacific area, the foreign ministry said today.

Officials said a letter expressing regret over the test planned for some time between Sept. 25 and Oct. 15 on Amchitka Island in the Aleutian chain was sent to the U.S. government Monday.

The letter said the establishment of a safety area of 50 nautical miles in radius around the island infringed the freedom of the sea.

New Principle for Principals —More Visits to Classrooms

Principals should get into the habit of spending more time in classrooms, visiting them as often as once a day, says Dr. John Wiens, assitant superintendent for the Greater Victoria school board.

In a position statement released at a school board meeting Monday, Dr. Wiens said principals should spend as much time in good classrooms as they do in poor ones.

He said principals usually visit classrooms only when a report on a teacher is required by senior administration, with the result that teachers become uneasy in the principal's presence and spend much of their time trying to make an impression.

●

"Over a period of time the principal who visits many classrooms daily, even if only in a casual manner, will find that he not only knows much more of what is going on in his school, but he will find that teachers come to expect his appearance."

The position statement was drafted by Dr. Wiens following discussions with trustee Dr. Victor Rogers. Dr. Rogers said in July he favored setting up of a committee of appeal for probationary teachers dismissed by the board.

However, he said Monday he would no longer push for the appeal committee because he felt Dr. Wiens' statement satisfactorily answered questions about procedure for dismissing teachers on probation.

Dr. Wiens comments on classroom visitation by principals are the basis for proposed board policy on new teachers.

Junta Picking New Ruler For Brazil's 93-Million?

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

RIO DE JANEIRO (WP) — The ranking officers of Brazil's armed forces Monday began a series of secrecy-shrouded meetings expected to result in the selection of a new military strongman to run this country of 93 million people.

Underlying the military consultations is the tense political situation created here in recent days by the stroke that felled President Arthur Da Costa e Silva and the subsequent kidnapping of the U.S. ambassador, C. Burke Elbrick, by anti-government leftist terrorists.

Although the government—temporarily in the hands of a three-man military junta—continues to publicly take the position that Costa e Silva is only temporarily incapacitated, it now seems a virtual certainty that he will never again exercise anything more than the titular prerogatives of the presidency.

This was the impression created by a bulletin issued Sunday night by a team of neurologists who examined the 66-year-old former army marshal. The team included a French specialist, Dr. Francois Lhermitte, who was summoned from Paris for the purposes of gaining an outside opinion.

●

The doctors' findings said that while Costa e Silva was in "satisfactory condition", he continued to suffer "a deficiency of mobility in the right side of the body" and impaired speech. They added that his condition "necessitates absolute continued rest and medical treatment"—pointedly omitting any mention of how long his recovery might take.

Monday, the president's wife, Dona Yolanda Da Costa e Silva, told reporters that the doctors thought her husband might be on the verge of a complete rapid recovery. Her optimism was discounted by most political observers here, who regard the medical bulletin as the government's way of telegraphing to the country the fact that Costa e Silva must be replaced.

●

The big questions for Brazil become those of who the replacement will be and whether his selection will represent an interim or long-run solution to the problem of national leadership.

About the only things that seem certain are that the man who emerges on top will be a representative of the army, which has run Brazil directly or indirectly since a 1964 military coup, and that he will continue the trend toward authoritarianism evident here in recent months.

The abduction of Elbrick a week and a half ago has had the effect of convincing the so-called "Linha Dura" ("hard line") elements within the armed forces of the need for increased repression. They have the strength within their respective services to ensure that whoever takes the reins of government is fundamentally in accord with their views.

The actual process of picking both a man and the method by which he will govern is expected to take several days. Monday, the high commands of all three services met separately for several hours.

Afterward, a terse communique was issued by the junta, which is composed of the three service ministers: Army Gen. Aurelio Lyra Tavares, Adm. Augusto H. Rademaker Grunewald and Air Marshal Marcio De Souza Mello.

●

It described the respective high command meetings as "related to the country's internal security" and added: "They also touched on problems relating to the health of the president and their implications for the political and administrative panorama. Other meetings will be called to continue the work."

Reading between the lines of this communique, observers concluded that the generals and admirals were still far apart on how they want to approach the question of succession to Costa e Silva whose term of office runs until 1971.

Public Works Department Adopts Logo

The provincial public works department has adopted a new symbol of strength—three sides of a cube in blue and green with a white border.

The symbol will appear on all new construction work done by the department, its notepaper, its press announcements and its posters.

"We're proud of the work we're doing—especially the new provincial museum," said deputy works minister Arnold Webb, "and we want to identify it better."

The department's motto, he added, is "We will lead, not follow."

The new symbol, intended to represent strength with imagination, was designed by Victoria architect Ken Patton. It was one of 30 entries submitted in a competition organized by the public works department.

Evans Skipper Reprimanded

SUBIC BAY (AP)—A United States Navy judge found the skipper of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans guilty of negligence today and sentenced him to a reprimand.

Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore stood at attention as the judge of the one-man U.S. Navy court martial, Capt. James Keys, read his decision.

Two of McLemore's junior officers previously were given reprimands for their part in the collision with the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne in which 74 American lives were lost. One of the officers also was set back on the navy seniority list, making it unlikely that he ever will get a command.

McLemore, who was asleep in his cabin at the time of the collision, based his defence on his contention that he never received a message from the carrier telling him of manoeuvres during the night that would require the Evans to change station.

The prosecution contended that McLemore was negligent in not ensuring that he would be wakened for such a manoeuvre. The collision occurred as the destroyer was shifting from ahead of the carrier to astern of it.

McLemore received the minimum sentence possible.

McLemore, who had pleaded not guilty, could have received up to two years imprisonment at hard labor, dismissal from the U.S. Navy and forfeiture of pay. The sentence is subject to confirmation.

The case now will go to the convening authority, Vice-Admiral William Bringle, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, for review before being sent to the judge advocate-general's office in Washington. Then it goes to a court of military review and finally to the court of military appeals.

The court martial was conducted under a new military regulation which permits the military judge—who formerly only presided and ruled on matters of law—to conduct the trial, hear evidence and sentence in lieu of the five-man board which formerly acted as jury and sentencing body.

Dutch Concede To Reform Bids

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — The Netherlands government announced today that it will meet demands by students and artists for democratic reforms in education and a bigger say in cultural policy.

News of the concessions came in the speech from the throne, read by Queen Juliana at the opening of the new parliamentary session.

Referring to unrest among the country's artists—who have protested at what they call "government dictatorship" in their affairs—the speech said: "Proposals by the art world on a revision of policy will be examined by the government in consultation with the artists themselves."

The government forecast a budget deficit of just under 2,200,000,000 guilders (more than $600,000,000) for 1970.

THREATEN QUEEN

Prior to the parliamentary opening, police took maximum security precautions after anonymous telephone calls were made to local newspapers and the Dutch news agency making threats on Juliana's life.

The threats said that if an "Arab freedom fighter" now being held by police was not released, the queen would die.

Three Get Transplants From Suicide

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A retired airline pilot from Seattle has received the heart of an Oakland, Calif., gunshot victim in the 18th heart transplant at Stanford University Hospital.

The recipient was Herman Joslyn, 64, who came to Stanford three weeks ago with a badly deteriorated heart to await a donor. His condition after the 4½-hour operation Sunday was called satisfactory.

Donor of the heart was Clemal Clarence Clark Jr., a 32-year-old outdoor sign company employee who was found early Saturday in his apartment with a bullet wound in his head.

Clark died an hour after arrival at an Oakland hospital. An ambulance equipped to keep his heart beating took his body 50 miles to the Stanford hospital. The Alameda County coroner's office listed his death as a suicide.

A surgical team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway performed the operation. Seven of Shumway's 17 previous transplant patients survive. It was the world's 144th heart transplant operation.

Both of Clark's kidneys also were transplanted, the 79th and 80th kidney transplants at Stanford.

Both kidney recipients—Robert Green, 22, San Jose, and James Santos, 49, Mountain View—were reported in satisfactory condition.

NFB Cuts Staff, Production Work To Fit Budget

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Film Board plans to cut staff and production by about 10 per cent in the next few weeks.

"We have to cut staff and production," NFB Chairman Hugo McPherson said in an interview today, "in order to meet the cost of living on a recently frozen budget.

"The freeze extends to March, 1971, and was imposed by Parliament."

Mr. McPherson said the reduction may not be as high as 10 per cent but it is hard to tell at the moment exactly what it will be.

CANADIAN WARSHIPS JOIN NATO GAMES

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian warships, led by the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, will be among more than 40 ships taking part in a large-scale NATO exercise in the eastern Atlantic beginning Wednesday.

The ships and 200 land-and-carrier-based aircraft from Canada, Britain, The Netherlands, United States and Germany will participate in an operation named Peace Keeper.

Defence headquarters in a release today described Peace Keeper as one of a series of regular NATO training exercises designed to test the readiness and effectiveness of NATO's Atlantic strike fleet.

Major combat ships participating in the exercise, which lasts until September 23, include the British carrier Eagle and the United States carriers Independence and Yorktown, in addition to the Bonaventure.

Brandt's Bid for Chancellor Carried to Kiesinger Ground

DONAUESCHINGEN (AP) — Willy Brandt's twin-jet charter plane almost ran off the runway, but he flashed a big grin at people craning for a glimpse of one of West Germany's best-known political figures.

Brandt is campaigning to become chancellor, the biggest job around, in the Sept. 28 elections. He is foreign minister in the current coalition government headed by Kurt Georg Kiesinger.

Here to deliver a campaign speech, Brandt could have expected a rough political landing, too; but it didn't turn out too badly.

This Black Forest area is in Baden-Wuerttemberg, Kiesinger's home state. Kiesinger was minister president, or governor, here before becoming chancellor, and maintains a solid political base.

Brandt's first stop was Hornberg, a village tucked into the forest and typical of this area. The natives usually closet themselves in their thatched, brightly-lit homes at dusk, and the foreign minister's arrival was an event.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "Germany's future as a nation lies in Europe—we can be united only in a united Europe, with a firm European order of peace to take the place of the present conflict."

European unity evidently left the people of Hornberg cold. Brandt tried a new tack, this time deploring right-wing extremism.

The people of Hornberg broke into applause. Brandt had found the mark. He relaxed, and in a heart-to-heart style he argued that his Social Democrats must be liberated from the chains of the Christian Democrats if they are to continue the achievements scored for West Germany in battle with Kiesinger.

Economists See No Level Off In U.S. Business Investment

By ROBART BOWEN

WASHINGTON (WP) — Forecasts by two highly-regarded New York economic consulting firms Monday raised doubts about the Nixon administration's hope that the business investment boom — a major cause of inflation — would level off in 1970.

The Rinfret-Boston Co. released a report predicting that expenditures for new plant and equipment would be up $6.3 billion or 9 per cent in 1970 to $77.2 billion. This year's total is expected to amount to $70.9 billion, a gain of 10.5 per cent over 1968.

A similar analysis of expectations by the Lionel D. Edie Co. indicated a 7 per cent jump — a figure that the company said was probably an underestimate "by a few percentage points."

Business expenditures for new capacity and new equipment are "high-powered" dollars, with a great stimulating impact on the economy. Plant expansion puts enormous demands on just the kinds of material and manpower already in short supply.

Financing the expansion puts additional strain on money markets, which even now reflect the squeeze being applied by the federal reserve system with the highest interest rates in 100 years.

Rinfret-Boston Co. President Pierre Rinfret (a Nixon adviser during the 1968 campaign) said that the 1970 projection "indicates that monetary policy has been notoriously unsuccessful in slowing down the economy."

He also predicted that the sharp rise in 1970 business spending will force "further rises in money rates, the prime rate, and the discount rate."

The projected increase would be second in dollar amount only to this year's $6.8 billion boost over 1968, and certainly more than anyone in Washington had been expecting. Inflation-fighters here were disturbed, it was noted, because the private surveys have a good record for accuracy.

SCALED DOWN

On the other hand, capital spending forecasts often tend to be adjusted downward because money, men, or materials can not be put to work at the levels anticipated. Thus, the government's own official survey in February of this year predicted a 14 per cent increase in spending, and later scaled it back to 12.5 per cent in May and 10.5 per cent in early September.

Nevertheless, administration officials acknowledged that the Rinfret-Boston and Edie Data showed considerable and unexpected "inflationary push" still present in the capital goods sector.

As recently as Aug. 14, the Federal Reserve Board announced the results of an informal survey of 200 large corporations which, it said, indicated virtually no increase in the capital expansion boom for 1970.

For that year, a Federal Reserve letter to participants in the survey reported, "no further increase in authorizations over the 1969 level is indicated."

OFFICIALS BAFFLED

High officials in the Nixon administration were given a preview of the Rinfret-Boston figures over the weekend. They were surprised by the results and to some extent baffled.

Much of the government's anti-inflation program has been directed to cooling off the capital goods boom. The administration asked Congress to withdraw the 7 per cent investment credit (which tends to boost outlays for equipment), and the FED's tight monetary policy is rationalized, in part, by the expectation that it will diminish business borrowings for expansion purposes.

The serious implication of the Rinfret-Boston and Edie predictions, if they prove correct, is that the government's restrictive policy is not having as much effect as hoped or predicted.

Further increases in business spending for expansion would suggest that corporation executives remain dubious about the administration's ability to control wage and price inflation.

Leading spokesmen for the president have warned both business and labor not to make decisions on the assumption that inflation will continue at present rates.

An extension of the capital investment boom to the degree suggested by the two private business-advisory firms would have only one meaning: executive decision-makers think today's high prices will be exceeded by even higher prices later.

Spa

Spa Mines Ltd. says encouraging results are being obtained on its Siwash Creek property, located about 25 miles northeast of Princeton, now under exploration and development by Quality Explorations, a wholly owned subsidiary of Cyprus Mining Corp.

Work has included geologic and magnetometer surveys, geological mapping and a detailed soil sampling program which covered the entire property. Results are now being compiled and studied to determine areas of further work.

Sales Up

Multiple listing sales by members of Victoria Real Estate Board to date this year are running $5.4 million ahead of the eight-month period a year ago.

The board reports a total $37.5 million for 1969 against $32.19 million last year.

B.C. Review

A second quarter review of B.C. industrial expansion has been published by the provincial department of industrial development, trade and commerce, the second detailed effort of the department since mid-August.

It lists among capital investments for the period completion of a $45 million bleached kraft mill by Crestbrook Forest Industries at Skookumchuk and a $4.7 million sawmill at Elko by Crows Nest Industries Ltd. The pulp mill will be opened formally Oct. 3.

Previously, the department published its 22nd edition of B.C. Facts and Statistics, giving population, wages, school enrolments, manufacturing, mining, power generating, area, sales and other economic information.

Hugh Russell

Hugh Russell and Sons, Limited reports earnings for the first six months of 1969 have more than doubled over the same period last year with a sales increase of 24 per cent.

Net earnings totalled $280,240 equal to 90 cents a common share as compared with $135,416 equal to 44 cents a share during the first six months of 1968.

The consolidated statement (unaudited) shows net steel sales rising to $21.9 million.

The company has completed acquisition of Canadian Bearing Ltd., but has by joint agreement of both boards, postponed further consideration of the acquisition of Cronkite Supply Limited.

Oil Output

Crude oil production in Alberta averaged 740,851 barrels a day during the week ended Sept. 8, the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board said reports.

Production in the previous week was an estimated 858,093 barrels a day. Daily production in September was expected to average 831,857 barrels compared with 703,131 barrels in September, 1968.

Freight Loadings Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite a further return of workers to iron ore mines in northeastern Quebec following strikes, revenue freight carloadings declined 16.3 per cent to 91,301 in the 10-day period ending Aug. 31, Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Iron ore shipments averaged only 1,068 cars daily compared with a daily average of 1,762 a year earlier.

Shipments of copper-nickel ores and concentrates at 112 cars have also been slowed by work stoppages in Northern Ontario nickel mines which began in mid-July. The previous year figure was 2,562 cars during the same 10-day period.

Wheat required 4,107 cars compared with 5,543 a year earlier, the only other significant decline.

Total cars received from Canadian and U.S. rail connections decreased eight per cent to 28,476.

During August 277,491 cars of revenue freight were loaded in Canada, down from 316,648 in August, 1968. Commodities contributing to this decline included coal, iron ore, copper-nickel ores, lumber, timber and plywood.

During the first eight months of 1969 there were 2,378,116 cars of revenue freight loaded in Canada, a four per cent decrease from the same period in 1968.

Legal Action Threatened By Maxwell

LONDON (Reuters) — Leasco Data Processing Co. of New York Saturday announced its takover bid for Pergamon Press was off again — and was swiftly threatened with legal action by Pergamon Chairman Robert Maxwell.

The latest move in the $65,000,000 deal between the U.S. and British business empires followed a split between the two sides over an agreement on who should have management of Pergamon.

The agreement was worked out two weeks ago with the help of the London takeover panel after Leasco withdrew its offer the first time. The panel is a watchdog committee which overseas major business deals.

A statement from Maxwell's office said the millionaire Labor member of Parliament was consulting his lawyers about possible legal action against N. M. Rothschild and Sons, Leasco's financial advisers in London, and Saul Steinberg, Leasco chairman.

Cited as the reason for the legal consultation was Leasco's "mistaken claim" that Maxwell repudiated the agreement reached Aug. 28.

RADAR CRITIC GETS NEW JOB

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. government was accused Monday of punishing an air traffic controller who warned radar coverage was weak in an area where a jetliner collided with a small plane last week, killing 83 persons.

The National Association of Government Employees, which claims to represent about 8,500 of the 14,000 U.S. controllers, said the Federal Aviation Administration relieved James Knecht of his duties controlling traffic at Weir-Cook Municipal Airport in Indianapolis.

The association also said Knecht was held "incommunicado" over the weekend by FAA officials. It said he was subjected to "intense grilling" while being denied the right to counsel.

Kenneth Lyons, association president, said, "There is no question but that the FAA is punishing this man for squealing on the system."

●

An FAA spokesman confirmed Knecht was relieved of his duties and assigned to a new job where radar is not involved. He said the FAA Supervisor at Indianapolis felt that, if Knecht did not have "confidence" in the radar, he should not be assigned to use it.

Knecht has said he warned the FAA July 28 small planes do not appear in the area of radar coverage where an Allegheny Airlines jetliner collided with a private plane Sept. 9.

Lyons said Knecht "has been warning the agency for more than two years that radar coverage at Weir-Cook was inadequate. Now that his and the other controllers' worse fears have been realized, the FAA bureaucracy is doing its damndest to squelch any revelation of its negligence."

He said the association had sent a telegram to FAA administrator John Shaffer demanding Knecht be fully restored to his old job within 48 hours or he would seek court action and a Congressional investigation.

School Trustees Study Revamping

Greater Victoria school trustees received a blueprint Monday for a major reorganization of the administration of the school district.

As outlined by district superintendent A. J. Longmore, the plan would create a fourth major school board department, development and personnel, giving new emphasis to date processing.

Longmore said that following recommendations of the Downey-Hartrick Report of 1966, schools have been run under three major areas of responsibility: eduction, finance and buildings and grounds.

He said that since 1966 the district's student population has increased by 6,000, while the adult student population has doubled. Inccreased numbers have created a need for additional staff, equipment and materials.

NEED UNDERLINED

The fact the board annually recruits some 200 professional and 200 non-professional staff points to the need for a separate department of development and personnel, Longmore said.

He said within the new department data processing would become a "primary tool" of administration rather than the "orphan" in the organization.

Under the proposed reorganization, the four members of the administration council — directors of instruction, finance and legal affairs, buildings and grounds, and development — would be responsible to the superintendent, as in the past.

The plan also calls for deletion of the position of research consultant and creation of two new positions: public relations officer, to handle major annual publications and events; and public information officer, to be concerned with day-to-day relations with public and news media.

No action on the proposed reorganization is expected before 1970.

Optimism Displayed By Banker

REGINA (CP) — The vice-president of the Royal Bank of Canada, John Coleman of Montreal, says Canada's economy likely won't change much in the balance of 1969 but probably will take a turn for the better next year.

"Hopefully, we will be on our way out of the tight money cycle and the trend of interest rates will be downward," he told a charity fund-raising meeting.

Coleman said that while high interest rates have been particularly tough on municipalities and other small borrowers, the long-range prospects for the country's economy remain good.

It was important to break down an inflationary psychology "which expects ever-rising prices and interest rates and ever-increasing capital gains in the stock market."

Shipments Estimated Lower

OTTAWA (CP) — Manufacturers' shipments in July were estimated at $3,530,100,000, down 6.6 per cent from the revised June estimate of $3,778,500,000, a Dominion Bureau of Statistics study shows.

The latest July figure was 9.6 per cent higher than a year earlier when there were an estimated $3,221,000,000 in shipments.

The preliminary estimate for the first seven months of 1969 was $24,994,300,000, higher by 8.7 per cent than the $23,001,600,000 for the same 1968 period.

Total inventory owned by manufacturers in July was estimated at $7,017,000,000, a fractional increase over the revised June estimate of $7,005,200,000 and an increase of 6.3 per cent over the July, 1968, figure of $6,601,800,000.

New orders this July were estimated at $3,555,100,000, a decrease of 6.8 per cent from the revised June estimate of $3,812,500,000 but an increase of 11.4 per cent over the July, 1968, value of $3,192,400,000.

Yet Another Call For Priority List

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

OTTAWA (CP) — The public and private sectors of the Canadian economy are going to have a lot to live up to if people are going to achieve a potential living-standard increase of 35 per cent during the next five years offered by the Economic Council of Canada.

By coupling its promise of a better life for all Canadians with warnings of the urgent need for setting up priorities to allocate the use of the country's economic resources, the council has made it clear that there will be no easy rewards in store in the future.

The biggest problem, the council says, is that the country has no clear idea of where it wants to go or what economic goals it wants to achieve.

When the council's first review came out in 1965, it set out specific goals, such as annual price increases of two per cent a year and a maximum unemployment rate of three per cent.

Neither of these targets have been achieved in recent years and the latest review does not offer fresh specific objectives.

POSES QUESTIONS

Instead, it poses these questions:

"What will be society's preferences as we go forward into the 1970s?

"Can they be reconciled to our resources?

"If our goals exceed our means, will priorities be established on the basis of a clear understanding of the options and possibilities?

"Or will they emerge out of a confusing welter of conflicting claims and pressures?"

The council attempts no answer to these questions itself, but it says the best reply can come from "effective machinery for a continuing appraisal and re-appraisal of society's changing needs and preferences within the context of an over-all framework of national goals and objectives."

Immediate reaction to this call—by no means new, or unique to the economic council—was that it's fine in theory but where is it going to start.

Some business and labor officials said that a similar call for co-operation in planning has been in the air for years, most recently by the newly established federal prices and incomes commission.

NO MOVES YET

So far, they say, there has been little move toward any kind of an effective machinery to appraise any needs, let alone changing one.

One economist said the review appears to set up in front the key problem facing the Canadian economy.

"The review calls for a series of priorities on which the resources of the country—human, financial or raw—are going to be used to bring about the potential growth the country has, or the council sees as being in store," he said.

"Unfortunately, this has always been the big problem and nothing has ever happened before. I guess we'll have to hope for the best this time."

The review said the Canadian economy has an astonishing potential for growth, if all national resources can be used to a maximum effort and if international developments remain expansion-oriented.

It repeatedly emphasized, however, that it will take the co-operation of the public and private sectors in planning to bring about full use of this potential.

Super Swat Ruins Steve's Super Job

Bill WALKER

The weekend in review, or Sunday's score for the coho-vigil, one rock cod, one ling cod, and one dogfish. And I promised to mention that my guide was the same one who two weeks earlier had produced two coho, one spring and one pink, besides two alongside the boat, rolling over and saying so long. All of which is par for the course.

At any rate, it was a lovely day, a fine weekend and did you happen to catch that dazzler on TV Saturday afternoon?

The spectacular of the weekend had to be the Canadian Football League game between Ottawa and Toronto, two of the three powers in the East, even in all Canada, and it had to be a better show than what was passed out to the super-bowl set by Broadway Joe and his swingers, the Jets, not to mention O. J. Simpson, of the Buffalo Bills, who will score once or twice before this season is out.

The No. 1 star of the afternoon shows has to go to Ottawa's Russ Jackson, easily the dominant figure of the spine-tingler where the Riders came all the way back in the game's final minute to get a field goal and victory, 25-23, while the Argo fans were still standing and cheering their team's earlier heroics. Yes, the Ottawas won one they should have lost.

It was Jackson, the best quarterback in Canada, and in many parts of the U.S. as well, who directed this victory, and it was a Jackson pass to Whit Tucker which set it up for Don Sutherin. Another who shone in the sun, Sutherin did what was expected of him.

Still, the Argos gave it a great try, as they say in the loser's dressing room, and had it won, almost.

And certainly Argo quarterback Tom Wilkinson had the right answer for the TV commentator who, seconds before the Argos were to get a chance to score that go-ahead touchdown, said in effect: There's the difference between experience and youth. Jackson is the confident one and Wilkinson, the rookie, has come up tight.

"Up tight," phooey. The kid did everything right, had a wonderfully fine game, and manufactured a smart touchdown drive that put the Argos in the lead 23-22. It was not to his discredit that they eventually were to lose.

And wouldn't the B.C. Lions like to reconsider the day they said to the Argos and Mr. Wilkinson: "No thanks."

Regardless of what you may hear, or have heard to the contrary, they did have that opportunity, and at Gabler, too.

●

The B.C. Lions later in the day, had a good thing going for them at Calgary, in Ted Gerela, and came close to providing a bit of an upset. But here again they were not accomplished enough to get the job done, although they were not shamefully bad either.

But they won't win too many games this season, this particular way, by scoring only one touchdown in 60 minutes, which is all they accomplished in an earlier game and in their only victory to date over Winnipeg.

The defence set up Saturday's TD with an interception, and early enough to get the Lions charged up. And it was the same defence actually that kept the Stamps under restraint, enabling the Lions to stay close and then to get even after they had fallen behind.

And in the case of the Lions, "close" now means anywhere over centre line, because Mr. Gerela hit four for the night and two were from the 51 and 54-yard lines. He just missed from the 62. So what else are you expected to do, besides play defence?

Perhaps, too, you will recall the Jim Champion statement of pre-season vintage when it was pointed out that last year Gerela had kicked 30 field goals, 16 converts, and nine singles, which totalled 115 points, and which was more than half of the points, 217, the Lions scored:

"If we have to rely on Ted's kicking to the same extent this year as we did last season, then we're in trouble."

That's right, Jim.

Because Champion added, if memory serves:

"If we are going to have a winner, we'll need to get touchdowns, not field goals."

Right again, Jim.

However, there can always be found a ray of hope in the darkest of moments, and it could be that Rich Robinson's return and Charlie Brown's running might be enough to get the Lions by Edmonton and Winnipeg, which is all they have to do, thank goodness.

●

Robinson seems competent on defence, and has filled a void there, while Brown, though no Rairney, is eager enough, and adequate, and should make Jim Evenson, the league's leading rusher until the weekend, that much more effective.

Naturally, this is not to be confused with predicting that the Lions are about to become the hot club for October, but just to say that important differences are developing that must be studied closely. How's that for weaseling?

But while this has been transpiring, the Hamilton Tiger Cats have been coming on like gangbusters, and showing more muscle than anyone believed they had.

Always tough defensively, quarterback Joe Zuger and end Tommy Joe Coffey have given them an offensive respectability that cannot be denied. Handling the Saskatchewan Roughriders as convincingly as they did, and with their western trip behind them, they must come up smiling.

Now with the NFL and AFL play under way, it has to be time for that moment, how they will finish;

That's easy and here it is:

In the NFL: Century—St. Louis, Cleveland, New York, Pittsburgh;

Capital—Dallas, Washington, Philadelphia, New Orleans;

Central—Chicago, Minnesota, Green Bay, Detroit;

Coastal—Los Angeles, Baltimore, San Francisco, Atlanta.

In the AFL:

Eastern—New York, Houston, Buffalo, Miami, Boston;

Western—Kansas City, Oakland, San Diego, Cincinnati, Denver.

Carlton Cracks Strikeout Mark –Loses to Mets

By The Associated Press

St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher Steve Carlton earned a major baseball league record of 19 strikeouts Monday night but it still wasn't enough to beat New York Mets.

"The amazing Mets' Super Swat got me," said Carlton, referring to Ron Swoboda, whose two homers produced all of New York's runs in a 4-3 victory that spoiled Carlton's masterpiece.

Swoboda, fanned twice by Carlton, brought the Mets from behind with each of his shots—and both came when Carlton had two strikes on him.

The triumph increased to 4½ games the Mets' National League Eastern Division lead over Chicago Cubs, who lost 8-2 to Montreal Expos, and reduced to 11 New York's magic number for clinching the divisional title.

MAYS HITS 599TH

Meanwhile, Willie Mays hit the 599th homer of his career in leading San Francisco Giants past Western Division leader Atlanta Braves 4-1, drawing that race even tighter.

The Giants trail the Braves by only one-half game and .003 percentage points. Cincinnati Reds broke Los Angeles' four-game winning streak 4-1 to move ahead of the Dodgers into third place, just one game and .005 points back of the Braves. The Dodgers are 1½ games and .009 points back of the leader.

In other games, San Diego Padres handed Houston its fifth straight defeat, 5-3, keeping the fifth-place Astros 5½ games back of Atlanta, while Philadelphia Phillies swept a double-header from Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 and 4-3.

FELLER SET RECORD

Carlton, who struck out 16 in a losing effort to Philadelphia two years ago, said he wasn't aware of how many strikeouts he had until it was flashed on the scoreboard after he tied his old team record of 16 in the eighth inning.

Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians set the record of 18 strikeouts on Oct. 2, 1938, and Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers matched it twice, while Don Wilson had 18 for Houston last year.

Swoboda staked the Mets to a brief 2-1 lead in the fourth when he homered on an 0-2 count with Donn Clendenon aboard. He produced the winner on a 2-2 count with Tommie Agee on in the eighth.

Ron Fairly drove in four runs with a double and his 10th homer and John Bateman hit a two-run homer to back Mike Wegener's three-hitter as Montreal handed the Cubs their third straight loss and 11th in 12 games. It was the fourth straight victory for the expansion Expos, longest of the season.

HIT A DOUBLE TOO

Mays moved just one swat away from the 600 homer career plateau and also contributed a double in supporting Mike McCormick's five-hitter for the Giants.

Time is running out and Minnesota Twins are running away from Oakland Athletics in the American League's Western Division pennant race.

The Twins opened up a nine-game lead — with just 16 games left to play — after downing the Athletics 6-3 Monday night on Dave Boswell's six-hitter.

Harmon Killebrew walloped his 43rd homer of the season and raised his runs-batted-in total to 131.

Elsewhere Monday night, Detroit Tigers shut out new York Yankees 2-0, Cleveland Indians clipped Boston Red Sox 4-1, California Angels blanked Chicago White Sox 4-0, Seattle Pilots trimmed Kansas City Royals 3-2 and Washington Senators edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2.

Denny McLain became the winningest pitcher in the majors when he won his 23rd game, pitching a two-hitter against the Yankees.

AS ONE OLD CAT TO ANOTHER . . .

Reluctant Refs Stage Walkout

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—The National Hockey League will be without the services of 20 referees and linesmen when the regular season opens October 11 unless it recognizes an association they formed this summer.

The 20 members of the National Hockey League Officials' Association walked out of training camp Monday night saying they won't return until the association receives NHL recognition.

Ian (Scotty) Morrison, referee-in-chief, said senior referees John Ashley and Art Skov and linesmen Matt Pavelich, Neil Armstrong and Claude Bechard are among 19 senior officials still at the special conditioning camp which opened Monday and ends Thursday. Vern Buffey, a senior official, was among those who walked out.

Morrison said the league would have enough referees to handle the pre-season exhibition games which start Thursday when Toronto Maple Leafs meet St. Louis Blues in Ottawa.

Joe Kane, a Toronto lawyer representing the 28-member association, said "it is true there are some excellent men still in camp—but there are some excellent ones who are not."

He said most officials were reluctant to walk out. But, after being rejected by the NHL several times, they saw no other way.

'MUST FILL GAP'

In Montreal, NHL president Clarence Campbell said the league's next move was to "take the necessary steps to fill the gap."

He said the league governors have already made a decision not to recognize the association, and this left the league no other course of action but to find replacements.

"This is the thin edge of the wedge," he said. "If they got recognition we'd never get rid of them.

"I think they are entitled to have a day or two to cool off, to think about it away from union pressure. I'd like these fellows to think about where they expect to go from here on."

Campbell said the league's officials have "come a long way" financially without any representative organization.

He said referees make between $11,000 and $25,000 for the season plus fringe benefits.

SALARIES INCREASED

In the last three years, salaries for top officials increased 32.5 per cent, he said, while pay for middle-level officials has increased 59 per cent and linesmen's salaries have gone up 50.5 per cent.

"If the NHL wishes to provide its patrons with less than the best of officials then that will be their choice," Kane said.

Kane, a former president of the Central Professional League, said the officials have as much right to an association as Campbell, a lawyer, has to belong to a law society.

"It is not up to Campbell to tell them who they will associate with."

HOCKEY

Two Hulls Show But Not Bobby

(Times News Services)

Bobby Hull, hockey's superstar, was missing—just as he was a year ago—when the Chicago Black Hawks opened training camp at Chicago Stadium Monday.

Some 35 players showed up, including Hull's two brothers, newcomer Gary, 26, and veteran Dennis, 25.

Bobby, 30, was last heard of attending a cattle sale in Sawyerville, Que., Saturday. He raises prize Aberdeen Angus cattle near Picton, Ont. He also raises salary demands although Black Hawk management will not discuss, or admit, that he is a holdout.

A year ago, the Golden Jet pressed his payroll requests and didn't make an appearance until the first NHL game.

Brother Gary has been playing amateur hockey around Toronto and decided to join the Hawks this season. Dennis has been around at wing for several years.

Not holding out, but thinking of it, was Phil Esposito, Boston Bruins' record-breaking centre.

His three-year pact with Bruins has three more years to go, and Esposito said he was "disappointed" the club did not offer him a new contract after he scored a record 126 points.

"Yes," he admitted, "I though of holding out.

"Then I thought, 'what's the use?' Legally, they've got me. Morally, I thought they'd do something."

Salmonbellies Sweep Series From Adanacs

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Wayne Goss scored four goals Monday to lead New Westminster to a 12-9 victory over Coquitlam Adanacs in the Western Lacrosse Association final before 3,700 fans.

The Salmonbellies took the best-of-seven series in four straight games to win a berth in the Canadian professional final, starting Sept. 22 at the home of the eastern winner.

Al Lewthwaite was the only other New Westminster player to score more than once. He had two goals and three assists. Other goals were scored by Wayne Shuttleworth, Jim Giles, Steve d'Easum, Ken Oddy, Ed Goss and Paul Parnell.

Bob Rezansoff scored five goals on five shots for Coquitlam. Kevin Parsons, Kerry Gallagher, Dick Crompton and John Allen each scored one.

New Westminster outshot Adanacs, 64-48.

Coach Cliff Sepka of New Westminster said he though it was the finest series his team has ever played.

Merv Schweitzer stopped 52 shots for Adanacs while Joe Comeau kicked out 39.

Mixed Bonspiel Opens the Doors

The first important dates on the Victoria Curling Club's competitive calendar will be October 6-13.

A four-event mixed bonspiel will launch competition at the Quadra Street rink. Curling will be during evenings only until October 11. All-day draws will be in vogue October 12 and 13.

The 'spiel is limited to 64 rinks, with the entry deadline set for Oct. 1.

Butlers Work Late

Butler Brothers, heading for another Vancouver Island Hockey League season with new playing coach Terry Foreman at the helm, will work out at Memorial Arena tonight at 11.

Gulls Seem Happy

If contented players are happy ones, San Diego Gulls may stand up as the team to beat in the coming Western Hockey League wars.

Twenty-five players were scheduled to report to manager-coach Max McNab for the start of training Monday at Memorial Arena.

Twenty-five did.

Though not all have signed contracts, the players' "reporting average" far exceeds that of most rival pro teams.

It put a happy smile on McNab's face. He had time only to count noses before flying to Port Huron, Mich., where the parent Detroit Red Wings are at work.

FIVE ROOKIES

San Diego's roster includes five rookies — goalie Gary Simmons, forwards Adrian Blais (graduating Victoria junior Cougar), John Haines, Paul Morris and Kevin O'Shea.

The Cougars also got down to work on defence of their B.C. Junior Hockey League championship. Victoria coach Doug Anderson also batted well in the reporting department. He was left wondering about the whereabouts of only one player — hold over Skip Casler.

"I'm expecting him," said Anderson, "but I haven't heard from him."

EIGHT HOLDOVERS

Anderson's entourage includes eight holdovers — goalie Ed Forslund, defencemen Gerry Bond, Laurie Moore and Murray Kennett, and forwards Shayne Webster, Bob Merluk, Scott Munro and Lonnie Miles.

Both squads will continue to work out, separately, for the balance of the week.

San Diego will launch its exhibition campaign Saturday night in the Fuller Lake Arena in Chemainus, meeting Salt Lake City. The same two squads meet again Sunday afternoon at Memorial Arena.

Davey Agrees To Head Drive

TORONTO (CP) — Senator Keith Davey, former commissioner of the Canadian Football League, has agreed to become executive director of a Canadian Olympic Association fund drive with an initial objective to raise $1,500,000.

Larry McGuinness, a COA official, said the association decided to launch a development program "to encourage and support Canadian athletes."

New members elected to the association during the meeting include Percy Williams, Bruce Hay, Tom Berto, Dr. D. Clements and Frank Holland, all of Vancouver and Dr. Paul Desruisseaux, Quebec City.

$1,845 PAYOFF DOESN'T DISCOURAGE CRUSADER

Do-Gooder Does Well

RENTON, Wash. (UPI) — Crusading attorney Alva Long went to Longacres racetrack Sunday bent on losing $300 and suing the state for running an illegal gambling establishment. Instead his longshot came home in front and Long won $1,845.

The attorney from Auburn, Wash., was going to lose $300 in crisp $100 bills, then sue the state under an 1881 statute. The $300 sum was stipulated in the old law as a requirement to bring the matter to the state supreme court.

* * *

In the first race, Long plunked down his money for three $100 tickets to win on Sun O'Morn, who had managed to lose all three of his starts, including a 16-length whipping in his last race. But the horse, fourth choice of the bettors, grabbed the lead in the stretch and came home a winner, paying $12.30 for every $2.

* * *

The law, passed by a territorial legislature before Washington became a state, permits anyone who loses money gambling to sue the person he lost money to for the amount lost.

Long said he will try again, and emphasized he does not want to end all gambling in the state. Instead, he hopes to do away with double standards that ban gambling on pinball machines or in card-rooms while allowing parimutuel gambling at the track.

Upsets and juniors spiced club championship battles at the weekend.

Defending champions were knocked to the sidelines at Gorge Vale, Cedar Hill and Glen Meadows. Juniors stood front and centre at Uplands and Victoria Golf Club, and only at Royal Colwood was there a semblance of playing to form.

Laurie Kerr won his first-round match at Colwood and stands up as the only district golfer with a chance to repeat as club champion.

Defenders didn't participate at Victoria and Uplands while Hal Jacobsen of Glen Meadows, Al MacLeod of Gorge Vale and Greg Barnes of Cedar Hill thudded into roadblocks on Sunday.

Ten-handicapper Ron Stewart sidelined Barnes, defeating the four-handicapper on the 19th hole in Sunday's first-round activity at Cedar Hill. Medallist Elmer Hammer also was an upset victim, losing 1 up to Doug Gallop.

A pair of juniors dished up perhaps the best match of the day as Brian Gandy, two under par for the 19 holes, also had to play an extra hole before defeating Bruce Rands.

Brian Sluggett kayoed the southpaw-swinging Jacobsen, who also was Glen Meadows' medallist. Sluggett, winning 1 up, joined Martin Richards, Bill Hodgson and Al Dowds in the semi-finals.

★ ★ ★

George Moon was the stopper at Gorge Vale. He defeated MacLeod 3 and 2 as the defending champion had an approximate medal of 83, 10 over par.

Gorge co-medallist Mike Kolb won his first-round match, 5 and 4 over Ray Seymour, Jr., while Dave Mick fashioned a great comeback to defeat Gord Jones. The junior-aged Mick, five down at one stage early in the match, won, 2 up.

The fours were filled at Uplands by 15-year-old Keith Burrell, medallist Bob Hunt, Al Brown and Ian Anderson, another junior. Burrell was one-under-par for the distance in defeating Roger Bishop, 4 and 3. Brown knocked off Mike Gray, 2 and 1; Anderson defeated Jack Brefitt, 5 and 4, and Hunt eliminated Al Cliff, 3 and 1.

Carl Schwantje, the junior titleholder and medallist, led the march into the quarter-finals at Victoria. Also winning were three former champions—Doug Munro, Bill McColl and Barry Flavelle—aong with Jim Barrie, Dick Flanagan, Alex McCabe and Bill Thompson.

★ ★ ★

Tony Jacklin has made his mark by winning the British Open, now golfers on The Isles joyously herald the arrival of another new young player.

Bernard Gallacher, a 20-year-old Scot, has won two British PGA events—the Schweppes and the Wills—and now has come along to lead United Kingdom qualifiers for the 1969 Alcan "Golfer-of-the-Year" championship.

The Alcan affair will be played in Portland Sept. 25-28.

Completing the British lineup will be Christy O'Connor, Briant Huggett, Maurice Bembridge, Brian Barnes and Tommy Horton. The six complete the Portland field, which offers a first prize of $55,000—the richest in golf.

The other qualifiers are Jean Garaialde (European zone), Dave Graham (Asia), Kel Nagle (Australia-New Zealand), Graham Henning (South Africa), Bob Cox (Canada) and Americans Gene Littler, Dave Hill, Bill Casper, Deane Beaman, Gay Brewer, Bob Lunn, Frank Beard, Lou Graham, Dan Sikes, Grier Jones, Kermit Zarley, Lee Trevino and Bert Greene.

SHORT CHIPS: It's not because Jack Weller won, but the sponsors of the Blue Owl tournament, held at Gorge Vale at the weekend, would like to make the event an annual affair in Victoria . . . The tournament was previously played in Quesnel and Nanaimo . . . Colwood veteran Vic Painter captured the annual Legion tournament, sponsored by Britannia Branch, in grand style . . . Vee Pee scored a hole-in-one on the sixth at Broome Hill and finished with 66 . . . "Junior" Ellis won low net honors, Jack Irving topped the lefty division while Tom Clements and Ernie Betteridge claimed the main senior awards. . . .

Gorge Vale members can always be counted upon to help fill any tournament . . . But Gorge Vale's "Burning of the Mortgage" ceremony is scheduled Saturday and has conflicted with Glen Meadows' Acorn Open . . . More than 120 entries have been received for the Meadows' affair, but the field is short of the limit of 160 . . . As a result, post entries will be accepted when play gets under way at the McTavish Road course Saturday . . . The handicap limit, however, is 25. . . .

BOB COUSY

Cousy's Comeback Vetoed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball League opened a 10-day training camp Monday still uncertain of the status of their coach, Bob Cousy, who wants to came back as an active player.

The Royals have asked Arnold 'Red' Auerbach, general manager of Boston Celtics to release Cousy from the voluntarily retired list. Cousy starred there 13 seasons and retired in 1963.

Joe Axelson, Royals general manage, says Auerbach wants a player from the Royals in return for releasing Cousy.

"I assume he's talking about one of our big men." Cousy said Monday at a press conference.

"I'm not going to give up any one player because, frankly, all those guys out there could probably do a better job than I could."

Meanwhile, in Boston, the Celtics named 35-year-old Tommy Heinsohn as their new coach to replace Bill Russell, who announced his retirement in July in order to try his hand as an actor.

Heinsohn played nine years with the Celtics.

Junior Bowling League Planned

Mayfair Lanes will hold registrations for junior bowlers starting at 10 a.m. Saturday. Free instruction will be provided for keglers aged from nine to 19.

Lanes officials are inerested in forming an inter-school league for members between 13 and 15 years of age.

Further information may be obtained by calling 386-3461.

Hornets Score a Dozen To Open New Campaign

This could be another season of the Hornets in the Inter-High School Soccer League.

Mount View Hornets, league champions and provincial titleholders last season, opened a new campaign Monday in impressive fashion, drubbing Belmont 12-0.

There should be a better indication of the potential power of the Mount View machine when league play continues Friday. The Hornets are expected to get a considerably tougher argument when they clash with Mount Douglas in the day's featured game, in Royal Athletic Park at 8 p.m.

Two other matches are scheduled at 4 p.m. Friday, Victoria High playing at Belmont and Esquimalt visiting Claremont.

In other opening games Monday, Claremont dropped a 3-2 decision at Oak Bay and Esquimalt grabbed a 2-1 triumph at Vic High.

LOMAS SCORES THREE

Leading the Hornets in their romp against Belmont were Dan Green and Lee Haghan, each with three goals. Joe Poulton and Randy Johnson each scored twice while Doug Seymour and Bog Bolitho added single tallies for Mount View.

At Vic High, Frank Morris scored with five minutes remaining to give the Dockers their 2-1 victory. Mike Metcalfe had boosted the Vics into a 1-1 deadlock earlier in the half after Doug Casperson had notched a first-half goal for Esquimalt.

Danny Lomas was the hero at Oak Bay, counting all three goals for the Bays against Claremont, which twice tied the score on tallies by Ted King and Dan Henry.

Grit Must Pay $2,000 for Defaming Union Nationale MLA

QUEBEC (CP) — A Liberal member of the national assembly Monday was found guilty in Superior Court of defamatory libel against a provincial government backbencher and was ordered to pay the latter a $2,000 settlement with five per cent interest dating from Aug. 29, 1967.

Antonio Flamand, Union Nationale member of the national assembly for Rouyn-Noranda, had charged Jean Bienvenue, member for Matane, with defamatory libel in connection with a speech Mr. Bienvenue delivered Aug. 6, 1967, in Riviere du Loup.

In a suit filed last Oct. 29, Mr. Flamand claimed damages of $100,000 on the grounds that Mr. Bienvenue's remarks had been circulated widely and had left him in a "humiliating situation."

According to testimony, Mr. Bienvenue had said Mr. Flamand's involvement with a motel firm was in violation of national assembly rules governing the independence and ethics of members and should resign his seat.

Mr. Flamand had a financial interest in the 1,000 Motels Inc., a firm set up to construct temporary motel accommodations for use during Expo 67.

In return for his services in renting land, risks he had assumed and his participation in the firm's planning sessions, he received shares in the firm, which went bankrupt before Expo 67 opened.

In a 91-page judgment made public Monday, Mr. Justice Toussaint McNicoll said he is not aware of any statute prohibiting a member of the national assembly from having a financial interest in a private company.

Furthermore, it was not illegal to hold shares in a company in a position to benefit from the services of a public agency such as Logexpo, which served as a brokerage for accommodations during Expo 67.

Mr. Justice McNicoll said Mr. Flamand had been one of the principal targets of a newspaper campaign against Logexpo and that Mr. Bienvenue had made use of that campaign in his attack at Riviere du Loup.

Cleared of responsibility in the libel were three journalists —Francois Trepanier of Montreal La Presse, Benoit Gagnon of the CBC's French-language network and Jacques Cimon of Quebec Le Soleil—who reported Mr. Bienvenue's remarks.

6 Months Off for Working 120?

TORONTO (CP) — John W. Eleen, research director with the Ontario Federation of Labor, says business and industry should give their employees six months off with pay after completing 10 years of work with the same company.

Speaking Monday to a service club, Mr. Eleen compared the practice with universities giving their professors a one-year sabbatical after seven years and with some industries receiving a depletion allowance from government.

Mr. Eleen said he agreed with Monday's Economic Council of Canada report that criticized the federal government's policy of cutting back on the number of government employees and using high interest rates as clubs to moderate inflation.

"It's better to have a little bit of inflation than a lot of unemployment. We think it is more important for the people who produce the goods to have enough money to buy them back."

The researcher also predicted labor will not consent to government proposals that would see government, management and labor agree to a fixed annual increase in the economy.

Salaries have not yet reached the stage relative to prices where labor is willing "to lay down and stop asking for wage increases," he said.

NIGHT AID FOR WOMEN?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Monday if women who work at night want legislation to provide them with protection the provincial government will consider it.

He was commenting on reaction from the Registered Nurses' Association following the death Sunday of Vancouver nurse Myrna Louise Inglis, 26, of stab wounds.

Miss Inglis was attacked Wednesday night as she walked home after a night shift at St. Paul's Hospital here.

Mr. Peterson said B.C. once had legislation requiring employers to drive women working after midnight to their homes. It was cancelled after women's groups complained it was discriminatory and affected their chances for employment.

U.K. Minister Concerned but Reassured About Our NATO Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart reminded Canada Monday of Britain's concern about the Canadian decision to reduce its military commitment to NATO.

•

He told a news conference he conveyed the concern of Britain and other European NATO members in Ottawa talks with External Affairs Minister Sharp.

Mr. Stewart said at the same time that Canada was not turning its back on the Atlantic alliance. The talks had given him a fuller understanding of the purpose behind the Canadian move.

In order for East-West negotiations to lead to peaceful development in Europe, a strong NATO shield was required.

If other NATO countries followed Canada's lead, then Russia might wait for NATO to disentegrate rather than enter negotiations for peace.

•

Although Mr. Stewart said that the Canadian decision to reduce its NATO commitment might lead to similar action by other NATO countries, he also said that he felt that this danger had now been averted through consultations.

The briefing on the talks prior to the news conference by official spokesmen supported the idea that Mr. Stewart had expressed concern about the Canadian decision. No mention was made along the lines of Mr. Stewart's news conference comment that the danger of other pullouts had been averted.

•

On his way into the news conference theatre following hours of talks with Mr. Sharp and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Mr. Stewart was confronted by a handful of placard-carrying Biafra demonstrators.

Called the Ottawa Friends of Biafra, the little group received a courteous five-minute sidewalk hearing from the British visitor.

Their spokesman demanded an end to British arms shipments to Nigeria and self-determination for the breakaway region of Biafra engaged in civil war with the federal Nigerian government.

•

Mr. Stewart quietly advised the group that Britain could not be an accomplice to tribal secession. If this idea spread, Africa would be torn apart.

Inside the National Press Building, where the news conference was held, he said that present economic sanctions against Rhodesia would work if applied vigorously.

However it would be a long business to settle the problem of the white-supremacist state which unilaterally declared its independence from Britain in 1965.

Canada Seen As UN Force For Peace

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — "A special role" for Canada apparently has developed through her support of United Nations peacekeeping operations in recent years, says Senator Stuart Symington, influential member of the United States Senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

"In effect, it would appear that Canada has become an armed force of the United Nations. And if equipped with adequate heavy aircraft capability, that nation could also serve as a 'remote presence' for the UN."

Symington was speaking in support of further U.S. purchase of the vastly expensive C-5A transport aircraft which could provide the U.S. with a "remote presence" by keeping troops at home but ready for rapid deployment in significant numbers over long distances to trouble spots.

Finally, the Senate voted down a proposal to cut $533,000,000 earmarked for purchase of an additional 23 of the aircraft. Money had already been approved for the first 58 of the controversial planes, on which the cost had jumped to $5,000,000,000 from about $3,000,000,00 in less than five years.

SEES SOLUTION

Symington, a Missouri Democrat, said the concept of remote presence through such superaircraft is proposed as "a way out of the dilemma of how to meet proper foreign defence commitments without stationing large military forces overseas."

In a wide-ranging speech on the prospects for peace, Symington said that "assuming a disastrous post-Vietnam scenario is not followed," the threat of major conflict in the developing countries of Asia, Africa and South America is not considered great.

But minor conflicts "within or between developing countries can only continue to occur" and international disputes will warrant UN action.

It is in support of such action by the United Nations that it would appear a special role for Canada has developed."

The original membership of Canada in NATO was the "natural result of a post-war camaraderie within the Atlantic community." And the idea of defending the European wellsprings of Canadian cultural heritage had been viewed sympathetically until recent years by most Canadians.

CANADA LESS WILLING

"While a willing United Nations participant, however, Canada has been less willing than has the United States to look into her involvement in European defence as crucially significant," he said.

"The contribution of Canada to NATO has thus become more and more a symbolic gesture of solidarity with its allies, no longer an operation which could be justified in military terms.

"But Canada is morally bound to assist, in one way or another, with the defence of the Western world and to the same proportional extent as its friends.

"Accordingly, Canada is apparently thinking more in terms of participation in military and other functions of the 'third world' rather than involvement in the strategic arrangements of the great powers."

He noted Canada, Switzerland, the Scandinavian countries and some others have considerable influence in the underdeveloped and uncommitted regions of the world. And he recalled that Canada has provided contingents in virtually all the peacekeeping forces and international supervisory operations since the Second World War—in Indochina, Palestine, Kashmir, Yemen, Gaza, The Congo and Cyprus.

ATLANTIC TRIP COMPLETE, Irish - American Bill Verity, who believes Irish monk discovered America 1,000 years before Columbus, poses with his sailboat in San Salvador after 115-day solitary voyage from Ireland to lend credence to his theory. (AP Wirephoto.)

Solitary Sailor Seeks Support For Irish 'Columbus' Theory

SAN SALVADOR, Bahamas (AP) — Sharks ate his clothes and lightning crackled so close he could smell it, Bill Verity says. But he sailed on across the Atlantic to prove an Irish monk could have discovered America.

●

Verity, sporting four months of curly red beard, posed for photographs Monday beside a monument where Columbus first stepped into the New World.

Verity thinks a monk called Brendan the Bold was in America almost 1,000 years before Columbus but, for politeness' sake, he muttered: "I wish not to infringe on Columbus' domain."

●

"After 115 days, I was damned glad to get ashore, the barrel - chested Irish - American said. He sailed into harbor on San Salvador Saturday to end the Atlantic voyage that began May 22.

He is having trouble getting his boat admitted to the Bahamas, a Commonwealth territory of 700 islands scattered over 70,000 square miles.

Verity said he skirted so near Hurricane Debbie in the Atlantic that he recognized a hurricane hunter airplane.

●

Prior to Saturday, Verity was last seen Aug. 14 when a United States Coast Guard cutter offered to tow him away from Debbie. Verity at that time had a smashed rudder, but he declined rescue.

"I insisted with much vigor that I wasn't going to do it," he said.

Verity ripped up planks from his deck to make another rudder while the cutter rode alongside.

"So I say to myself I'll put this thing on and I'll sail through the eye of a hurricane and here's a big cutter following me," he said.

●

"After three miles the rudder came completely apart and fell into pieces.

"They circled me, but at least the captain was good enough not to smile.

The cutter put over a life raft and gave Verity lumber to make a new rudder. The coast guard helped him attach it and he sailed on.

●

Once he reached the Bahamian island, Verity had to borrow clothes. He lost his off the European coast while dragging them in the sea to launder them. He said sharks ate them.

Czech, Polish Red Leaders Meet in Apparent Unity

By KARL E. MEYER

PRAGUE (WP) — Polish Communist Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka and his Czechoslovak counterpart Gustav Husak reached agreement on all questions that were discussed during a surprise one-day visit by Gomulka to this country, Czechoslovak radio reported Monday night.

Gomulka arrived Monday morning at Ostrava in Moravia, where Husak had flown to meet him for talks about improving mutual party and government relations. After an early dinner, the Polish Communist flew back to Warsaw.

The Gomulka visit was clearly related to an internal struggle in the Czechoslovak party between Husak and extreme pro-Soviet Communists over how far to go in repudiating leaders associated with the liberal policies of 1968.

Observers noted that Ostrava is a stronghold of pro-Soviet Communists who have been pressing for the expulsion from the party central committee of former party first secretary Alexander Dubcek and former national assembly chairman Josef Smrkovsky.

From Husak's position, the support of Gomulka is helpful because the Polish leader is regarded favorably in Moscow and at the same time was once regarded as a national hero in Poland.

The date of the crucial central committee meeting at which personnel decisions will be taken was still unannounced Monday, amid indications that the plenum may be postponed until the end of this month or the beginning of October.

According to informed sources, pro-Soviet Communists have been pressing for an early meeting of the Central committee so that it would take place in the midst of an emotional campaign in the press, radio and television focussing on the alleged political sins of progressive Communists.

Husak and his supporters are said to be fighting for delay of the meeting until a time when passions are cooler and more attention can be given to the problem of the deterioration of the Czechoslovakian economy.

It was considered significant that Stefan Sadovsky, the first secretary of the party in Husak's own state of Slovakia spoke Sunday of the need to take decisions at central committee meetings in ... the coming weeks ... the plural noun was not an error, according to reliable observers.

Schreyer Switches Manitoba Hydro Program

WINNIPEG (CP) — Opposition members are arming themselves for battle over announcement of a new course for Manitoba's hydro development.

They jumped to the attack in the legislature Monday moments after Premier Ed Schreyer delivered the major policy statement and there were indications it was only the beginning.

Mr. Schreyer said his New Democratic Party government plans to toss out proposals for flooding Southern Indian Lake and to search out alternative methods of meeting the province's electricity requirements.

The proposals were part of plans made by the former Conservative government to develop hydro sites on the Nelson River in Northern Manitoba. They included flooding the lake, diversion of the Churchill River into the Nelson and relocating about 700 Indian and Metis at South Indian Lake and Pickerel Narrows.

The plan was to ensure an adequate flow in the Nelson, which runs from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson Bay, for a generating station nearing completion 500 miles north of Winnipeg at Kettle Rapids.

Southern Indian Lake, part of the Churchill system, would have been used as a storage area where water would be held until it was required for periods of low water in the Nelson. Water from the Churchill would be diverted into the Nelson upstream of Kettle by using the Burntwood and Rat Rivers.

Mr. Schreyer said his government, which came to power in the June 25 election, has a multi-purpose approach to resource use and considered social upheaval and changes to wildlife environment major factors in the previous proposals—known as the high-level diversion.

The premier at the end of his statement tabled a report that called for alternatives to the high-level diversion that could be implemented in time to prevent any power shortages and at comparable cost on a long-term basis.

The report says "the most desirable alternative would be control of the Nelson at the outlet of Lake Winnipeg combined with a more acceptable diversion from the Churchill."

It recommended immediate steps to design a thermal unit, however, to act as a backup if the control works could not be completed in time.

Mr. Schreyer said in an interview later that if a feasibility study shows the Lake Winnipeg control structure can be built by summer 1973 that "the high-level diversion would be dead forever."

However he said in an interview, that the capital cost of the new concept is similar and rates should remain about the same.

Combined with the government's plan to drop the high-level diversion was a scheme to repay the people living on the shores of Southern Indian Lake for their mental anguish and stalled development while a decision was awaited.

Concern was expressed that by raising the lake level by 35 feet and pushing the uncleared shoreline back as much as five miles, "the world's largest man-made swamp" would be created.

The Conservative government cut off the hearings and introduced legislation to grant hydro a licence to proceed. Ensuing debate brought charges that the government was withholding information.

The bill died when the legislature was dissolved for the election and the new government's first action was to suspend the project.

MANITOBA BILL CUTS VOTING AGE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's New Democratic Party government will proceed immediately with legislation to reduce the provincial voting age to 18 from 21.

The bill proposing to make Manitoba the sixth province with voting rights for minors received first reading Monday.

Premier Ed Schreyer said British Columbia, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Quebec have passed similar legislation.

Alberta Censor's Shears Active

EDMONTON (CP) — During the last scene of the new movie If . . ., a woman stood up and shouted to the audience, "Something must be done about Alberta censorship."

Comparing the film in the Edmonton theatre with the version she had seen in Ontario, she said the movie had been grossly distorted by deletion of several scenes.

Jack Day, chairman of Alberta's board of censors, says censorship has come a long way in Alberta since its mid-Victorian perspective of five or six years ago.

But the 1968 film rating report showed six films rejected in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and New Brunswick, one in Nova Scotia and none in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec. No figures were given for Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

In spite of recent lifting of some of Alberta's laws such as the ban on Sunday films, the censor's scissors often cut sexually explicit or violent scenes.

A decision by the board of censors to cut two scenes from If . . . , appealed by the distributors, resulted in the appeal board making an additional cut.

J. W. Nicholson, a board member, says the scenes included a sequence in a boy's shower room in which male genitals were evident, a restaurant sequence in which a male and female were rolling nude on the floor and a front view of a nude woman.

The censorship board recently banned from Alberta movie houses the film The Wild Bunch.

Tom Milne, movie critic of the London Observer, says the film is " . . . classical, electrifying and so brilliantly done that it makes last week's Once Upon A Time in the West look like amateur night."

But Alberta's Mr. Day calls the movie "a ballet of gore."

A milder form of censorship is restriction according to age.

In 1968, Alberta classified 37.5 per cent of the films shown in the province as family entertainment. British Columbia, on the other hand, classified 64.9 per cent of the films it showed last year as family. Only Saskatchewan classified fewer films as family entertainment than did Alberta.

Canada Likes Horses On Farm, Not Plate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Canadian horse's place is at the racetrack or farm, not in the kitchen or dining room.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed Monday, that few Canadians have acquired a taste for horsemeat although it is available in many parts of the country.

Montreal city council will meet Wednesday to discuss a bylaw that would permit the sale of horsemeat in shops and restaurants in that city.

The bylaw would resemble those in many other Canadian cities, which allow the sale of horsemeat only in shops that do not sell any other kind of meat. Restaurants selling horsemeat would have to advertise the fact.

Although it is infrequently served in Canada, horsemeat is a standard dish in France. It is sold in Paris in special butcher shops bearing the sign of a gilded horse's head, and is cheaper than better-selling beef.

By the mid-1960s, horse meat sold about one-tenth as well as beef in France. Three-hundred and fifty thousand horses were slaughtered for meat in 1964.

Horsemeat can legally be sold in Britain but is used mainly for pet food.

Film Stardom Predicted For New Oriental Beauty

By BOB THOMAS

LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — Tina Chen is calm, delicate-looking and quiet-spoken, as you would expect any Chinese young woman to be. But that Oriental tradition hides a firm determination that fits her for one of the best star-making roles in recent times.

Lovely, 24-year-old Tina, with only one minor film role to her credit, was picked to play Nyuk Tsin in The Hawaiians. Readers of the James Michener novel will recall her as one of the most memorable characters — a resolute Chinese woman who is not accepted by her husband as his true wife, because he has another wife in China, who accompanies him to the leper colony on Molokai, who scrimps to buy land and thus found a financial dynasty in Hawaii.

"If Tina doesn't win an Academy nomination, I'll be very much surprised," remarks Tom Gires, director of The Hawaiians.

Unlike the earlier film based on Michener's novel, which was cast largely with Europeans, in The Hawaiians Orientals are real Orientals. Producer Walter Mirisch spent much time in New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles interviewing and testing young Chinese and Japanese performers. One of his most unlikely choices was the beautiful hematologist, Tina Chen.

FAMILY FLEES CHINA

She was born in Chungking, granddaughter of the first premier of the Kuomintang of the Chinese Republic. Her family fled China after the Communist takeover, and she was educated in Hong Kong, Taipei and Tokyo, then took a bachelor of science degree at the University of Hartford.

"I've always been in love with acting, but my parents didn't approve," she remarked. "They insisted that I graduate from college, then I would do anything I wanted.

"They hoped that I would go on and get my degree in medicine, but the thought of four more years of college plus internship and residency didn't appeal to me. So I went to New York and got a job at the Blood Centre. But I really went to New York because I hoped to get an acting career started."

Progress was slow at first. She won a television role in a CBS PLayhouse special The Final War of Ollie Winter, playing a Vietnamese. Nothing followed, and Tina studied dramatics with Sandy Meisner and acted in an occasional off-Broadway play, meanwhile working days as a blood researcher. She played a small role as Arlo Guthrie's girl-friend in the film Alice's Restaurant, then came the tryout for The Hawaiians.

"My agent called up about it, and the Mirisch people said, 'Oh, we've already looked at her,'" she said. "They had me confused with another Chinese actress named Tisa Chang.

"I went to see Mr. Mirisch and he gave me a script and I read for him the same day. They flew me to Hollywood for a test and two days later they told me I had the role."

Hungarian Actor Seeks U.S. Asylum

LONDON (AP) — Miklos Szakats, a Hungarian actor, said he had defected and asked for political asylum in the United States, The Daily Telegraph reported today.

The newspaper said Szakats left Hungary after he was asked to spy on his friends among foreign diplomats.

"They wanted me to perform a task that was repugnant to me, something that I could not reconcile with my own integrity," he was quoted as saying.

"I had made friends at various embassies in Budapest, including British, American and Israeli diplomats."

His wife, Judith Kemeny, a Budapest opera company ballet dancer, accompanied him.

Szakats said he wanted to stay in the U.S. because his daughter lives there. He has been granted permission to stay in Britain.

Theatre Season Opener Resembles Deflated Souffle

By AUDREY JOHNSON

An innovation as a season opener at Langham Court Theatre is the Victoria Theatre Guild production of Ann Jellicoe's comedy, The Knack.

It is performed and directed by four University of Victoria students with Bert Farr as production consultant. It opened Saturday for the Guild's usual eight-night run, drawing a capacity and primarily youthful audience.

The play is totally inconsequential, its single plot-line dealing with the theme that when it comes to sexual attractions, some have it and some haven't.

Most effective in the cast is John Bergbusch as the unimpressionable young man whose chief interest is slathering black and white paint on the walls of his room and unconventional furniture arrangements—he likes the mattress on the floor and the chairs on the walls.

●

This is The Knack's slight nod in the direction of Theatre of the Absurd comedy.

Denis Johnston, in directing, appears to have the avant garde in mind but neither he nor his cast possesses the knack for this style of comedy which is elusive and much more difficult than most people imagine.

There are strong intimations of improvisation throughout the performance which will be regarded by some students of modern theatre as much in its favor. The actors appear to be feeling their way through the script with specific direction at a minimum.

●

All very well. But the trouble is that unless the actors are fully competent technically and superbly inventive, they tend to become boringly repetitive or static.

In either event the result is that a comedy performance sags like a deflated souffle.

It takes considerable brilliance and knowledge to succeed as both director and actor in the same production. Johnston, who might have done very well as the young man who "hasn't got it," lacking the mirror of the directorial eye, padded his interpretation with simpleton cliches of the gormless type.

Again, Michael Turner and Sandra Gallagher had discernable promise but could have achieved much more.

Turner was often allowed to seem weak rather than appearing as the dominant male personality, and Miss Gallagher was allowed to slip from the understatement of a certain avant garde style to the overstatement of pure farce.

●

The setting, a room in a London house, is barely adequate with a quite unnecessary and unlikely great stone fireplace. This may seem a small point but it is an indication of inadequacy at some level considering that this production is the official opener of the Theatre Guild season.

Demerit System

EDMONTON (CP)—Highways Minister Gordon Taylor said Monday Alberta plans to introduce a demerit system for drivers. He said he would announce the system next week but didn't indicate how it would apply to motorists convicted of traffic offences.

ROCK REVIVAL

New Generation Applauds

By ANDRE OUIMET

TORONTO (CP) — Rock 'n' roll was alive and loud at Toronto Varsity Stadium on the weekend as a new generation gave welcome to an old sound.

Some of the big names of the rocking '50's—Bo Didley, Little Richard, Jerry Lee Lewis and Gene Vincent — were billed along with newer groups such as The Doors, Cat Mother and John Lennon's Plastic Ono Band.

The 12-hour program, billed as a rock 'n' roll revival, started off under sunny skies with aout 4,000 fans sprawled on the football field of the University of Toronto or sitting in the stands of the 27,000-seat stadium.

But by midnight the crowd had swelled to about 10,000 as marijuana odor permeated the area. More than 20 fans were sent to hospital for treatment of drug overdoses.

Police said no arrests were made although several persons had been removed from the stadium.

The sound of the '50s hadn't changed, but the audience was different. Long hair, bare feet, beads, beards and way-out clothes were all around.

Big Business Beckons Boys

High school students interested in big business are invited to an open house at the Junior Achievement Centre behind the Institute of Adult Studies on Argyle beginning at 7 p.m. tonight.

Junior Achievers are taught the rudiments of capitalism through miniature companies which they run themselves under adult supervision.

The program is designed to encourage resourcefulness in a competitive environment.

The open house will run until 9 p.m. tonight and again from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Old Ways Vanishing From Lives of Eskimos

By PHILIP D. CARTER

BARROW, Alaska (WP) — Between renderings of "filling an empty stomach" and "boiling the seams of a skin canoe," an Eskimo boy outside the dance hall threw a firecracker through the doorway and ran.

All day on the pack ice blocking the Arctic shore, men from the village have been blasting a passage for the S.D. North Star, Barrow's annual freighter. But whatever the prankster's inspiration, the aging performers at the Eskimo dance show (natives, 50 cents, tourists 1 dollar) nearly jumped out of their mucklucks.

The fierce words of the parka-clad lady at the cash box needed no translation:

"These kids are a mess. Things are falling apart. The old ways will never by the same."

Natural Gas Heating

A quick tour of Barrow — the world's largest Eskimo village — bore out some of her conclusions.

Snowmobiles have replaced all but a handful of dog teams. Natural gas piped from a nearby field provides heat and electricity for the village's ramshackle frame houses, and for every other building from the bingo parlor to the Top of The World Hotel.

At the Polar Bear Theater, after the late-evening movie, Beatle-mopped boys and girls with velvet bellbottoms shot pinball in the lobby and danced to the live, loud rock of a three-man Eskimo band.

Along with the "Sears-Roebuck culture," however, are vestiges of the old ways. Local men still hunt for most of Barrow's meat, and caribou hides can be seen along with the wash hanging out in the lingering summer sun.

Natives Claim Oil

The changes that have come so far to the nation's northernmost community are slight compared with what is in the offing. Just 150 miles across Alaska's North Slope, what is probably the biggest oil field in American history is being exploited.

Wednesday, the state auctioned to oil companies the petroleum rights to 450,000 acres on the slope and earned more than 900 million dollars.

The oil field lies smack in the middle of traditional native land, still actively hunted for caribou, and by all rights, say Eskimo leaders here, at least part of the oil revenue belongs to Barrow.

So far, however, the only direct benefit to this town of 2,300 has been employment on the oil rigs for two-dozen Barrow roustabouts and 30 Eskimos, whose greatest value to the oil companies perhaps has been their knowledge on how to survive in minus-60 degree weather.

Better times may be coming. Through their attorneys, leaders of the Arctic Slope Native Association are planning legal action which they hope will enable Barrow and other Arctic communities to share in the North Slope bonanza.

Local Crusade

Eben Hopson, a former state senator and a captain in the Alaska National Guard, is a leader in the Eskimos' fight for oil money. He took a break from his duties as beachmaster of the ice-blocked freighter's landing operation to outline his people's stand.

"They — the state and the oil companies — evaluated the land for us," he said. "They put the price tag on it. Now we're telling them to stop using our money."

The local crusade for a share of the North Slope oil royalties, he pointed out, is only part of a statewide effort by Alaska's native Indians, Aleuts and Eskimos, to win final settlement of far broader native land claims.

The North Slope oil field is part of lands tentatively transferred from the federal government to the state under provisions of the Alaska Statehood Act. Until the native claims are resolved, further transfers have been stalled by a "land freeze" instituted by outgoing interior secretary Stewart Udall in 1968. The freeze has since been extended by Udall's successor, Walter Hickell, a former governor of Alaska.

Land Claim Filed

"We took it for granted from the beginning there was no way to stop the state from selecting our land," said Hopson. "But a lot of us were disturbed enough to start the Arctic Slope Native Association and file a land claim for the whole North Slope from the Canadian border to the village of Point Hope."

Hopson contends "the attitude of the state has been to move ahead with the development regardless of the existence of our land claims."

Hopson and other Eskimos are waging a sophisticated legal campaign. Their attorney, Seattle's Frederick Paul, plans to sue the oil companies for a share of the profits. He will also try to enjoin the Bank of America, the state's agent in the oil lease sale, from investing the 900 million dollars.

Allies to Meet

SEOUL (AP) — Foreign ministers of the seven anti-Communist countries with troops in Vietnam will meet in New York on Saturday, the South Korean foreign ministry announced today. A spokesamn said the foreign ministers of the United States, South Korea, South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines would get together to discuss the situation in Vietnam while attending the UN General Assembly.

TEAM EFFORT displayed by Mayor Jim Quaife of Duncan (rear) and Ald. John Cannon of North Cowichan is needed for Operation Recreation to get Miss Duncan Teen Town, Debbie Alcock, 15, out of the tub and into a planned new swimming pool. Joint councils Monday night proclaimed the Op-Rec $100,000 blitz officially open. (Ed Gould photo.)

OP-REC KICKED OFF

Community Asked to Come Alive

By ED GOULD

DUNCAN — Operation Recreation will "ignite a spirit that has been sadly lacking in the past and hopefully will lead to a new outlook in the future," chairman Pat Moore said Monday.

Moore told a news conference that Op-Rec hopes to raise $100,000 for a swimming pool—the first phase of the Duncan-Cowichan recreation complex at Pioneer Park.

Balance of the funds needed for the pool—about $300,000—will be raised through a referendum to be placed before the ratepayers after Dec. 1, the date the campaign finishes.

VOTE HELD OFF

North Cowichan and Duncan councils agreed to hold off the referendum until Op-Rec had completed its fund drive.

Moore said money will be sought through canvassing of businesses, industry and homes and separate functions held by participating clubs.

About 6,000 households are within the School District 65 canvass area.

Membership to date includes Rotary, Jaycees, Kinsmen, Kiwanis, Lions, Gyro, Teen Town and the students' council at Cowichan Senior Secondary School. More members and volunteers are being asked to help canvass.

Moore doesn't think the Op-Rec drive will hinder the passage of the referendum.

"If the campaign to raise $100,000 is successful, I am certain the referendum will be successful."

A referendum for a much larger recreation complex was narrowly defeated last November but it included the unorganized areas south of Duncan. These areas won't be included in the referendum this time, but residents there will be asked to contribute to the Op-Rec campaign.

"Many of them will be expected to use the pool facilities," Moore said.

An office was opened at 162 Station street and will be manned by volunteers weekdays daily from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Moore said no payroll is anticipated and cost of office operation will come from sale of booster buttons.

BUTTON SALE

A button sale will take place on the streets Oct. 3 and 4 and a radio pledge day will be held by the Jaycees Sept. 27. Signs showing a pool being filled as donations come in are being erected.

Artist Juli Porter and instructor Bill Calder will judge an emblem competition to be held among high school students.

Later Monday, Mayor Jim Quaife of Duncan and Ald. John Cannon of North Cowichan issued a joint proclamation to open the campaign officially. The proclamation was read by Gordon Cameron, former joint recreation commission chairman.

Socred Drops Recount Idea

DUNCAN — Dr. Charles Ennals, unsuccessful Social Credit candidate in Cowichan-Malahat riding in the Aug. 27 provincial election, said Monday night "after due consideration" he had decided not to seek a judicial recount.

"In view of the fact that there are some 300 votes for the winning candidate and only 180-odd rejected ballots it would not seem justifiable to put the people to the time and expense."

The seat was won for the New Democratic Party by Robert Strachan, former provincial leader, who has represented Cowichan-Malahat for 17 years. Prior to this election the constituency was larger and was called Cowichan-Newcastle.

SIGNIFICANT FACTORS

Ennals said it was a significant factor that the voter turnout in this riding was 73 per cent compared with the provincial average of 68 per cent.

He said he would seek the nomination again if a byelection or election is held and would be confident of victory based on the results he achieved.

This is Ennals third straight defeat. He lost twice in Oak Bay to the Liberal encumbent.

Final figures are Strachan, 7,411; Ennals, 7,107; Liberal Jim Bigsby, 916; Independent Kenneth Hasanen, 76.

Ennals said he would continue to press "behind the scenes for a better deal for Cowichan-Malahat" but did not wish to be branded "an unelected MLA."

Record in Tourists For Cowichan Valley

DUNCAN — An estimated 17,056 persons received information through the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce bureau in the busiest summer yet, bureau chairman Eric Wruck said today.

Wruck said 4,061 visitors came to the bureau during the period the booth on the Trans-Canada Highway was open from June 14 to Sept. 1. In addition there were 551 telephone inquiries and 30 letters.

The figure of 17,056 was calculated by multiplying the number of registrations by 4.2, the average number of persons in each party.

MAINLY AMERICANS

Nearly 600 of the registrations were from visitors from out of the country, 548 of these from United States.

Other countries represented were Argentina, Australia, Austria, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, France, Holland, Mexico, Ireland, New Zealand, Scotland, South Africa and Switzerland.

Wruck said the benefits of tourism were difficult to assess, but "we estimate it to be worth up to $500,000 locally. Stop and figure it out. Even the purchase of a loaf of bread or five gallons of gas is money in the cash register."

THE HUMAN RACE IS THREATENED

An Old Educator's Message to Youth: 'Rise Up in Protest'

'Too Many Students Study For Degrees, Not to Be Educated — Especially When Promotions And Jobs Are Involved'

Young people must "rise up in protest over what is being done to their world," S. N. F. Chant, 71-year-old vice-chairman of British Columbia's academic board, said Monday.

He told the University of Victoria extension division the threat of nuclear and chemical weapons and environmental pollution has posed a threat to the human race.

●

"In our haste to get things done, we tend to go ahead without knowing what we are doing to ourselves and our world," he said.

"We have to correct our mistakes and do it now."

Young people have "few places to turn for consolation" and he notices "a sense of futility" among them.

But they have been brought up in a life of "constant commotion," where "the fantastic becomes the natural."

To save the world, the Western way of thinking in opposites — black and white, good and bad — must be changed. Dr. Chant says this can be done in a less structured university.

His university of the future will have no curriculum, no prerequisite courses, freedom to diversify or concentrate and see the end of divisions of fields of study.

This will be enough to "loosen our whole way of thinking" and bring on a "21st century Renaissance."

He'd like to see degrees dropped. They're job qualifications that don't provide qualifications for a job.

●

"Too many students study for degrees, not to be educated — especially when promotions and jobs are involved.

"A lot of the trappings ought to be dropped" when the lines between the university and the community vanish as the university becomes more worldly and the people better informed.

He said universities will lose their monopoly on higher education as colleges develop and firms and government undertake programs to develop skills they want. Then universities will have to decide what they can do that the other institutions can not do better.

That function will probably be to probe human purposes and values and to "contribute to versatility and adaptability in a complex contemporary life."

The mystery surrounding education is vanishing. Professors rarely wear "magicians' robes" in class anymore and students are beginning to scorn graduation exercises. Television has put most knowledge that was once the property of the university into the public domain, he said.

●

Television could help reduce the number of future undergraduates. He said the first two years of university could be televised, leaving more room for upper level and graduate students. Or, rotating groups of students could use the university for intensive study after several months of preparation by television.

Discussing financing of universities in British Columbia, Dr. Chant, chairman of the 1960 royal commission on education, said some change is needed in the method of alloting funds. It has been his "unwelcomed task" to be chairman of the provincial body that divides the available provincial money between the three universities.

He expects a provincial department of higher education. "More continuous and direct attention needs to be paid to higher education than to individual institutions."

Pollen Shuns Mayor's Chair

Peter Pollen wants to run for alderman in December 6 municipal elections, but laughs off rumors he will contest the mayoralty.

Pollen, defeated as a Socred candidate in a 1968 byelection in Oak Bay, said he is sure "some fine citizen with lots of time will come forward and run for mayor."

Ald. Robert Baird is the only man who has declared himself in the running for the top civic post. Pollen says on the long chance that Baird gets no opposition, he would consider running "out of respect for the democratic process."

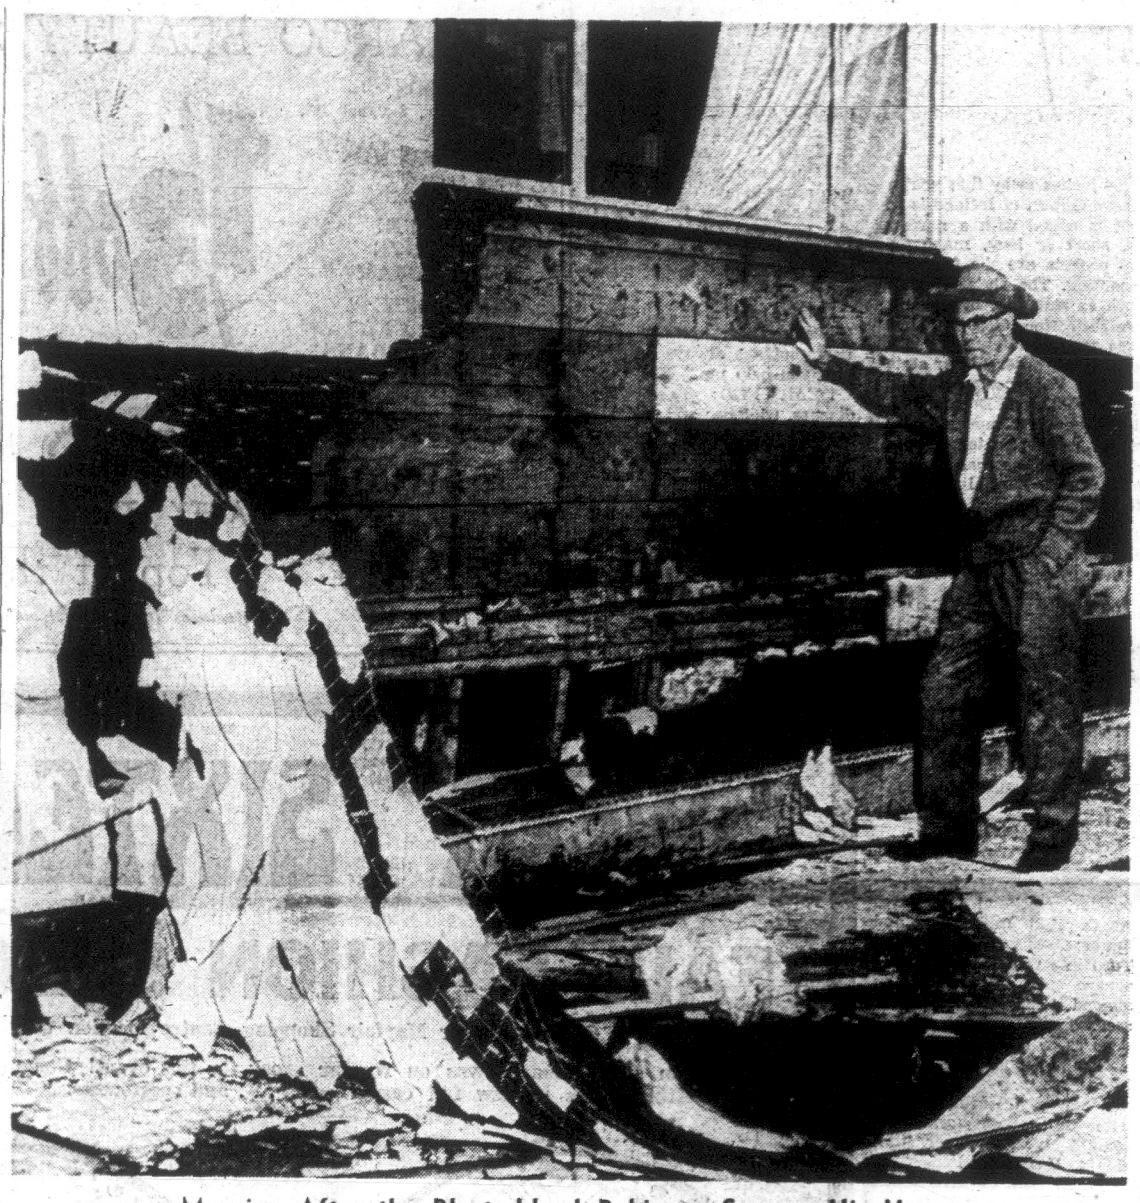
But, he said, "I'm running a business here, and being mayor is a full-time job."

OLAFSON?

Pollen suggested Ald. Harold Olafson would be a good candidate, as would Courtney Haddock, a former president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Haddock has not committed himself, but he is a member of the senior executive of the chamber. It has been reported that one of that group wants to run.

The other five most immediate past presidents are W. H. Armstrong, manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce; David Lawson, president of Empress Pontiac-Buick; R. J. Bower, publisher of The Daily Colonist; E. E. Pearlman, a lawyer, and John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd. shipyard.



Morning After the Blast, Lloyd Robinson Surveys His Home

Leaking Gas Explodes Home As Occupants Scramble Out

Saanich police today are investigating an explosion which wrecked a $30,000 home at 3231 Linwood Monday evening.

Owner Lloyd Robinson, his wife Neva, their three-year-old daughter Sharon, and a boarder, 18-year-old Ed Morgan were not hurt in the blast. It was caused by a leaking butane air gas main.

However, the home was devastated. Basement walls were blown out, the living room floor raised a foot, bricks from the chimney flew across the living room and the basement door was blown into the living room.

After the explosion, B.C. Hydro crews wearing gas masks worked three hours to seal a hole in the gas main which ran beside the home. Police blocked off the street and ordered neighboring homes to turn off furnaces.

The Robinson home wasn't connected to the gas main. Police say their furnace ignited gas fumes seeping into the basement through a storm-drain tile.

The explosion came at 7:30 p.m. as Mrs. Robinson turned up the thermostat.

"I had no idea what had happened. One minute everything was fine and the next there was a bang and the floor heaved up under my feet," said her husband.

FULL OF SMOKE

"The house was full of smoke and there was glass all around."

He scrambled out a bedroom window because the front door was jammed, then circled the house trying to find his wife and child.

Mrs. Robinson dashed out a hall door while Morgan grabbed the Robinson's child and took her out with him.

Today the family is living in an old house on the property, behind their ruined three-year-old home.

Robinson, a contractor, said the home was partly covered by insurance and doubted if much of the damage could be repaired.

Police Forced To Take Case To Arbitration

The dispute between Saanich and Oak Bay policemen and their municipal councils will be taken to the British Columbia Mediation Commission for binding arbitration.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson heard representatives of the unions in a 1¾-hour meeting Monday, then went immediately to a cabinet meeting where his recommendation to put the dispute to mediation was approved.

The move prevents police from presenting strike notice to their councils. A strike vote received unanimous passage at a joint meeting of the two unions Friday.

Teamsters Union official Ed Lawson, who represents the police in their negotiations, said "we want to do anything we can to avoid Saanich and Oak Bay police being punished the same way" as Victoria police were in an earlier mediation decision. Victoria police were handed a 14.56 per cent increase and denied parity with the lower mainland.

Lawson said the Victoria union is considering an application to Peterson for a new hearing from the commission.

The decision had been unfair and could cause a breakdown in morale and efficiency, he said.

Victoria police chief, Jack Gregory, said he has not noticed a decline in his force's morale or efficiency since the wage settlement.

'Their Jobs Come First'

"Of course the men are unhappy," he said, "but their jobs come first."

He said he could see no reason why morale and efficiency should not continue at their present level.

Chief W. A. Pearson in Saanich would not comment on what might happen to morale if his men get the same wage decision as Victoria.

He said commenting on a case before mediation would be like commenting on a case before the courts and could jeopardize both sides.

"I just wish them luck," he said.

In implementing section 18 of Bill 33, which prevents the strike and calls for binding arbitration, Peterson said "the step is necessary to protect the public interest and welfare.

"No community can function properly in the event of a breakdown in the process of law and order. Referring these disputes to the mediation commission will preclude that possibility."

Lawson criticized Bill 33 for giving policemen the right to strike, while including the machinery to stop them.

Sgt. Jack Groves, head of the Oak Bay association, had gone into the meeting with Peterson hoping the minister would offer some solution to their dispute.

"His only suggestion was to invoke section 18," Groves said.

'May Well Be the Last Time'

He said if the commission rubber-stamped them with the Victoria decision, "this may very well be the last time" police unions would submit to binding arbitration.

Police throughout the province will strengthen their bargaining hand in the future by having all 11 forces in the B.C. Federation of Police Officers negotiate at the same time, he predicted.

Lawson said he wanted police to be treated as well as laborers on Vancouver Island.

"A laborer in Victoria gets $12 a month less than a laborer in Vancouver. A policeman is entitled to be treated at least that well."

He said mediation decisions had widened the gap between island and mainland forces. Last year, the difference in wage between first-class constables was $24 a month. By new contracts, the difference is $48.

Peterson said after his meeting with police he hoped they would be able in future to find some way of solving their pay disputes without going to the provincial government.

He said their discussions touched briefly on an act which would separate police from the rest of the labor.

Lawson said Peterson's attitude was one of reluctance to take policemen out of the sphere of labor legislation.

Before the mediation decision in Victoria, first-class constables in Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay earned $620 per month. The same man on the mainland made $644.

Victoria was given a 14.56 per cent increase over two years. Oak Bay has made the same offer to its men, and Saanich has offered 15.29 per cent. Both offers were turned down. —

MIDNIGHT JOGGER CLEARED

Judge William Ostler said today you can't blame police for being suspicious of a man running along city streets at 4:30 in the morning with a shopping bag in his hand.

He was referring to the arrest of Byron MacNutt, 4150 Grange Road, who was charged with vagrancy on Monday.

●

The charge was dismissed after MacNutt told the court he was in the habit of jogging twice a week. (Also see Page 33.)

MacNutt, 54, a member of a well-known Saanich family and a dairy farmer, says he jogs 10 miles twice a week during the early hours of the morning.

●

He told the court he had been stopped on several other occasions by city police.

"I'm tired of this. I'm tired of being stopped time and again," said MacNutt who sports a long beard.

The judge said the citizen should have the right to jog at any time of the night he wants "but I would like to point out in these troubled times, with crime on the increase, you can't blame police for being suspicious."

Blood Donors Near Target

The Red Cross blood donors clinic continued today with officials hoping for 150 donors.

On Monday, 118 donors showed up and the clinic continued this afternoon, with evening hours set for 6:30 to 9 at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

Catholic Women Register

An expected 400 Roman Catholic women from across Canada continued registering today for the 49th annual national Catholic Women's League convention being held in Victoria.

National President Mrs. Valentine Fabris of Winnipeg arrived Monday to begin pre-convention talks on the conventions theme, poverty in developing countries. Informal meetings for diocesan and parish officers continued today.

The formal opening will be this evening at a dinner given by the British Columbia government.

Bishop Remi de Roo will address delegates at a convention banquet Firday.

The convention ends Saturday.

QUICK DECISION ASKED ON COLLEGE

Trustees Fight, Students Lose

Greater Victoria school trustees were told Monday that while they battle stubbornly with the provincial government over the issue of a district college, young people are losing out on education.

Trustee Allan McKinnon said if the school board and the department of education continue to disagree over what kind of college Victoria should have "we could deny kids education for three or four years . . ."

McKinnon was one of three board members who recently met Education Minister Donald Brothers to find out what the minister thought of a proposal to turn the Institute of Adult Studies into a locally-run district college.

The department of education is believed to favor a government-run regional college, and is studying the feasibility of amalgamating regional colleges and vocational schools under one administration where the two exist in a single area.

More than six months ago the board wrote the minister asking permission to put the district college proposal to plebiscite, or non-money vote.

Brothers told the three board delegates no decision on their request can be reached until after completion of a report on the amalgamation study, some time in October.

McKinnon said a district college is an "excellent" idea and a regional college is a "good" idea. He said trustees and the department should attempt to see the good points in each alternative, and not prolong a decision on the future college.

Trustee Peter Bunn called the minister's attitude "rather high-handed" and pointed out that a district college could be run at a 10 per cent saving to the taxpayer.

The board will write to neighboring Saanich and Sooke school boards to sound their feelings on the college issue.

GRADE 13 COURSES CALLED OBSOLETE

Grade 13 courses were described as obsolete at a Greater Victoria school board meeting Monday.

The board will send a letter to the department of education pointing out what it calls disparity between Grade 13 and first-year university.

Jack Dalgleish, director of adult education, said while Grade 13 enrolment at the Institute of Adult Studies has increased by about 40 over last year, students tend to shy away from senior matriculation offerings.

"The students want educational courses — they're not satisfied to simply get credits."

Enrolment figures by Dalgleish showed 357 students currently enrolled in Grade 13. However, 280 students this year are on the institute's new three-course university transfer program.

The courses, which are accepted for credit by the University of Victoria, include economics, geography and psychology.

No Final Decision On Boys' Centre

No definite decision has been made on the Metchosin site of a proposed residential centre for disturbed adolescents, Public Works Minister Chant indicated Monday.

He was commenting on plans of area residents to oppose building the centre on an 80-acre site on Metchosin Road near Albert Head.

Residents are meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Metchosin Parish Hall to discuss the issue.

Chant said the site, acquired before the Social Credit government took office in 1952, is "seriously considered" for the boy's centre.

Final decision will be a joint effort of the social welfare, health and public works departments, he said.

The site was originally acquired for a mental hospital, Chant said.

Among residents' objections to the proposed adolescent centre serving 32 boys from across the province, is the number of simliar facilities in the area.

The federal government operates a minimum security penal institution at William Head and the Canadian Army militia has a link with the Haney correctional camp in its use of some property at Albert Head.

Residents feel that suburban growth will surround the centre, making the location unsuitable.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Safety Check Now Saves Sorrow Later

By PENNY SAVER

Last Saturday morning the silence over Saver Manor was broken by the cry of: "All out for annual bicycle inspection."

With obedient haste the children wheeled out the bikes, even those that are used only for weekend jaunts and rush trips to the store. Minutes later all were busy checking brakes, oiling chains and testing for weak links, tightening spokes—and getting terribly messy.

"Nothing major," Father commented at lunch as he was going over his list of things to get at the store. "Little things like split hand grips and mangled reflectors. What really worries me is adequate night lights, especially for the one bike still in daily use."

When he returned from the store he had a superb headlight that cost only $3.95.

"I could have got one for $1.79," he told me. "It was much like this, but it took two regular flashlight batteries. It is a good buy, but batteries can fail or joggle loose at a critical moment. This struck me as being the better buy, and I hope, for our son's sake, I am right."

The $3.95 light includes its own generator and a red taillight. The wires and what-not needed to connect it to the bike are also included.

The headlight is chromed and around three inches in diameter. It fits onto the handle bars.

The generator clips onto the wheel, and from my hazy knowlege of how these things work. I would imagine that the movement of the wheel provides mechanical power that is turned into electric power for the light.

The easiest and most inexpensive way of putting a light on a bicycle is by attaching a bracket to hold a flashlight. These brackets are 39 cents each.

Reflections on Safety

The flashlight can be snapped in and out of its brackets quite easily, but it stays steady once firmly in place.

Sundown creeps closer every day, reminding us that winter with its dim rainy afternoons will soon be here.

On such an afternoon small children walking or riding by the side of the road can be hard enough to see especially for motorists who must also cope with mud splatters and on-coming traffic.

Bright red reflective tape is inexpensive and can be attached to bicycle mud-guards, lunch boxes or even the sleeve of a plastic raincoat. It could save a life.

This tape is self-adhesive and ¾ of an inch wide. It seems to be made of very heavy paper with a plastic-like coating. A strip 72 inches long is 98 cents while one 36 inches long is 39 cents.

A lunch box is a good place for adhesive reflectors such as those on the back of bicycles. Made of plastic with a textured reflecting surface, these come in amber or red.

For $2.98 one can buy a package of four six-inch strips, two red and two amber. For 98 cents there are packets of two round reflectors.

These can also be added to mail boxes, car bumpers, garage doors—any reasonably firm surface that might get in someone's way.

Please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for information on where to find these items.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Tub Togetherness

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: These women who complain that their husbands get very dirty in their work and are often too tired or too lazy to take a bath, can take a lesson from me and my wife.

I am a farmer and often get very grimy and sweaty but my wife has never gone to bed with a smelly husband.

Our secret? We always climb into the tub together. We have done this since shortly after we were married.

It has become such a habit with us that we wait for each other to take our bath. Abby if a husband and wife can sleep together, they can bathe together. Believe me, it makes for a clean and happy marriage in more ways than one. — A Farmer; Victoria, Tex.

DEAR FARMER: Shall we say, "The couple that bathes together stays together?"

DEAR ABBY: I have a baby, five months old. I have a sister-in-law who has a baby seven months old. She comes to visit me very often—like four or five days a week.

My problem is she never brings any diapers with her. She's always borrowing mine.

Abby, she has a washing machine and I don't. I have to go clear across town to my mother's to wash. I use a whitener and a softener and my sister-in-law doesn't And when she returns the diapers she borrowed she brings me hers instead of mine, and it takes me forever to get them white again.

I have told her a dozen times to bring her own diapers, but she always forgets. Can you help me?—Fed Up.

DEAR FED: Take your diapers, whitener and softener and go to your sister-in-law's and give her a lesson in diaper washing in her machine. You may have to give her three or four lessons, but you'll get your diapers laundered properly and you'll both benefit.

DEAR ABBY: Would you tell your hostess that while you were a guest in her home someone got into your purse which was in the guest bedroom and stole your money?

I wouldn't want the hostess to feel that she had to make good my loss. Thank you.—No Name or City.

DEAR NO NAME: Yes. I would tell my hostess.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from a woman whose husband chased sirens:

You should have told her to encourage her husband to join an auxiliary police group, an ambulance service, or a volunteer fire department. He could then experience the thrill of being at the scene of an accident and pulling corpses from a heap of twisted metal. Or rushing out at 3 a.m. in zero weather to fight a fire caused by a careless cigarette smoker. Or spend a hot Sunday afternoon walking through dense underbrush searching for a lost child.

If he is willing to do this, he has the right to follow the sirens, and do it legally, and with pride. If not, he should at least stop and think. It could be my home or family needing assistance, and here I am, getting in the way and slowing down the workers.—Volunteer Fireman.

A Business Built On Customer Confidence and Goodwill

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"I wonder how much they'd give us in trade on those two flat rocks I use now?"

TODAY'S RECIPE

MEXICAN ALMOND SESAME CAKE

One and one-half cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup milk, 1 egg, beaten, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, Almond Topping (see below), 3 teaspoons sesame seed.

Almond Topping:

One-half cup sifted flour, ½ cup brown sugar (packed), ½ teaspoon powdered cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup slivered blanched almonds, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and granulated sugar. Add milk, egg and butter; stir until blended. Turn into well greased 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle with almond topping, then with sesame seed and bake at 350 degrees 35 minutes.

Almond topping: Mix flour, brown sugar, cinnamon, salt and almonds. Work in butter with fork, then form into crumbs with finger tips. (Makes 9 servings.)

SEW SIMPLE

By EUNICE FARMER

Dear Eunice,

I am making a coat out of a beautiful wool that has a diagonal weave. It is turning out beautifully with the exception of the collar. The collar was an oblong shape with a seam at the centre back and was to be cut on the bias grain. When I proceeded to stitch the centre back seam, one half of the collar had the diagonal weave going vertical, the other half was going horizontal. It looks perfectly terrible and I tried to cut it again and it came out the same way. Please help!—Mrs. H.C.C.

Dear Mrs. H.C.C.:

The difficulty you are having is because of the diagonal weave in your fabric. Instead of cutting your collar according to the directions, eliminate the centre back seam in the instance. Cut another piece of paper the shape of the collar pattern, eliminate the seam allowance at the centre back and lay this complete collar pattern on a single layer of your fabric on the bias grain. It will work out perfectly.

Mystery Writer Hasn't Time To Fuss With Couture Fittings

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

There's so much exaggerated importance given to fashion these days that it's a pleasure to meet someone who pricks the bubble simply because she can take the whole fashion business completely for granted.

Of course, you can only do that if you're born to the fashion world, and Barbara Levy is the great-granddaughter of a founder of the world's largest department store, Macy's. Her grandfather, Jesse Straus, was U.S. ambassador to France in the Thirties, and Barbara was still a child when she began going to the Paris collections.

"Not any longer," she smiled, as we met for lunch. She didn't make a career in anything connected with fashion, but is a successful novelist. We were to talk about her newest book, The Missing Matisse, a mystery story based on the growing problem of art forgery.

"Today I wear knits and sportswear. Does anyone today have time for custom fittings? But Paris in the Thirties was a marvelous place.

A slender, attractive woman with short, curly hair, Barbara Levy was wearing a suit in red and white plaid.

"Clothes are a lot simpler today than they were in the Thirties. Color has done that. I can wear a simple suit like this one because of the great color. Thirties clothes were much more limited in color, so designers had to give them interest with complex cuts, seamings and trims."

Barbara Levy doesn't find Paris very interesting nowadays. She thinks American designers are "doing just fine, and don't need to look anywhere else for inspiration."

When she was in her teens, Barbara paid a lot of attention to clothes.

"I had to, because I was fat! My mother made me go to Hattie Carnegie for custom clothes, and there I was, spending all my clothes allowance on a single dress! I made myself lose weight so I could buy less expensive clothes and have more of them.

"Ready-to-wear, of course. It's a different time, isn't it, from the days when my grandmother took Princess Marina of Greece to buy her trousseau at the Paris couture."

That was when the lovely princess became the Duchess of Kent, a member of England's royal family. She was to be a perennial on the international best-dressed list for the rest of her life.

Art, of course, has always been closely connected with fashion, and Barbara Levy can't remember a time when she wasn't as deeply interested in the one as the other. But her interest in the rising forgery market is more recent, set off by some things people told her.

Barbara Levy, author of the new mystery novel about art forgery, likes simple clothes such as this turquoise linen skimmer with neckline applique.

False Eyelashes Please Cosmonaut

By GAY PAULEY

MOSCOW (UPI) — The world's only spacewoman today added to her trophies: one pair of American false eyelashes.

"I am a woman first, a cosmonaut second," said Valentina Tereshkova, accepting the eyelashes from Mrs. Armigene Johnson, a clothing manufacturer from Islip, N.Y.

Miss Tereshkova was hostess today to 34 members of a touring delegation of the American Women for International Understanding now in Moscow on their official woman-to-woman tour of East Europe.

Miss Tereshkova, who in private life is the wife of Soviet Cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev, is chairman of the Soviet Women's Committee, the mass organization of women in the USSR.

Tiny and pretty, she smilingly accepted the artificial eyelashes from Mrs. Johnson, who told her, "I have eight grandchildren, but I wear false eyelashes. I brought some for you. Would you like them?"

The eyelashes were a perfect match for Miss Tereshkova's soft brown hair.

The first and only woman so far to move from behind-the-scenes work in space programs, Miss Tereshkova reminisced about her flight six years ago.

As she took over control of her Vostok 6 craft in orbit in 1963, she said, "I started to realize that everything is possible for women too. Men can no longer walk with their noses in the air." With her blue eyes sparkling she pressed a finger under her own nose and tilted it up in amusing pride.

She predicted "there will be more flights with women as well as men in space, and both sexes will go on interplanetary flights. Of course women will go with the men, because without women there would be no one to keep order."

Her own space flights days are probably over. Now 32, she leads a busy life as chairman of the Soviet Womens' Committee, and takes care of her husband and their 5-year-old daughter Ilona.

"I am a mother, I am a wife, and I am pleased just to be on earth," she said.

Nevertheless, she remains active in the cosmonaut program, and just this year has graduated in advance studies at the Air Forces Academy.

Florence Battles Rome

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — The Florence ready-to-wear shows, two years old and booming, will expand next November to include fashions for men.

Fifteen men's wear houses from Rome, Milan, Florence and Novara are among 81 boutique, knitwear and ready-to-wear firms who are exhibiting.

The Palazzo Vecchio, first home of the Medici, is for official welcoming ceremonies. The Pitti Palace, later home of the Medici, is for the fashion parades, and the rectangular Strozzi Palace houses—the separate exhibit of each firm.

Some buyers and fashion commentators who can't make it to Italy four times a year are passing up the Rome custom couture shows in January and July in favor of Florence.

Italian fashion shows began after World War II in Florence. Rome-based houses soon voted against making the trip north and a lively war began which saw buyers rushing from one city to the other in the same week in order to see all the shows twice a year.

Theoretically, in the spring of 1967, the custom and ready-to-wear split between Rome and Florence was healed.

But some Romans still hate having to leave town and pass on a hot tip to reporters each season that "this is the last time for Florence — from now on they'll show everything in Rome."

Where Did All the Pecans Go? Consumers Ask Ice Cream Man

WASHINGTON — "What ever happened to the cherries in cherry vanilla or the nuts in butter pecan?"

President Nixon's special assistant on consumer affairs, Virginia Knauer, laid it on the line for ice cream manufacturers in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting in Lancaster, Pa.

"Is there a man, or a woman or a child who doesn't like the good humor man? Do people really find something to complain about in ice cream?" she asked.

"You bet they do," she said. She quoted letters her office receives which asked why some supermarkets sell ice cream at 59 cents a half-gallon, and others at 89 cents; why there are false bottoms in some ice cream cups, and heavy artificial flavoring is used when there's plenty of the real thing around.

Another letter read: "Remember the good, rich solid ice cream of years ago? . . . now they pipe air into the ice cream to make it light and fluffy — and it sure is!"

"In short, the consumer is learning not to take anything for granted anymore — not even the old-fashioned ice cream cone," Mrs. Knauer said. She added that this attitude is adding to the new consumer revolution.

Then Mrs. Knauer made some points of her own. "In frozen desserts," she said, "consumers must be on the alert for imitation products and be very careful in their choice of so-called 'dietetic' ones."

The introduction of substitute products, such as imitation milk and texturized vegetable protein foods, is also becoming a problem, Mrs. Knauer said.

"Every day my curiosity grows about those ads touting low-calorie cream substitutes. It's what they don't say that's significant. Many non-dairy creams have higher percentages of possibly harmful saturated fats than the real thing. But that information is strangely absent from their promotional materials."

Cream substitutes use coconut oil extensively, which is a saturated vegetable oil and raises the cholesterol level, she said. "Coconut oil is the worst oil that food-substitute manufacturers could have chosen. Its only advantage is that it does not spoil rapidly."

Ottawa Girl Engaged To Future Duke

GLASGOW (CP) — An Ottawa girl, Catherine Young, is to marry the Marquis of Graham, heir to the Scottish dukedom of Montrose.

The 34-year-old marquis announced the engagement recently during a visit here by Miss Young.

"We have not fixed a date or decided on wedding plans yet," he said. However, the couple said the wedding might take place in Canada.

Miss Young is on her first visit to Scotland and she said she was thrilled by the view of Loch Lomond from her fiance's farm at Balmahan where they will live. They first met at a party two years ago in Suffolk, England.

Miss Young is the youngest daughter of the late Capt. N. A. T. Young of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders.

The Graham line of nobility goes back to 1445 when a Scotish peerage was conferred on Patrick Graham, one of the lords of the regency during the minority of James II.

In 1707 a Scottish dukedom was created and in 1722 the incumbent duke was created an earl of Great Britain.

The current head of the family — the seventh duke, father of the Marquis of Graham — sits in the British House of Lords as an earl.

On her marriage the Ottawa girl will become a marchioness and when her husband succeeds to his father's titles she will become a British countess and a Scottish duchess.

Miss Young, 31, was born in Winnipeg. She is a niece of Mrs. Maryon Pearson, wife of former prime minister Lester B. Pearson, and a sister of Editor Christopher Young of the Ottawa Citizen.

Inflation Hits Cost Calculator

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal agriculture department's consumer cost calculator has been sold out and 50,000 new ones have been ordered, the department announced in a statement.

But the price on the gadget developed to help housewives check for bargains at supermarkets will be raised to 75 cents from 50 cents.

The Queen's Printer, which handles printing, pricing and distribution of the calculator, says it has 6,000 individual back orders and another bulk order from a private industry for 25,000 to fill.

The calculator should be available, however, within two months.

The device has a movable dial and figures which allow rapid calculation of the price per pound or ounce for any article. This makes it easy to compare prices despite differing package sizes.

Reshaped World Shipping May Result From Voyage

SACHS HARBOUR, N.W.T. (CP) — The SS Manhattan's voyage through the Northwest Passage demonstrated a potential to reshape world commercial shipping patterns by adding a route that has lured sailors for almost 500 years.

Officials of Humble Oil and Refining Ltd., which gambled $39,065,000 on the supertanker, say they are confident that data collected will provide by the early 1970s information needed on year-round shipping.

Goal is cheap transportation of crude oil to eastern United States markets from Prudhoe Bay, where oil fields are estimated to contain 10,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil.

The Manhattan's voyage was helped by one Arctic quirk that computers in Humble Oil's Houston head office may find difficult to digest.

When the Manhattan stalled for 24 hours in M'Clure Strait, its crew chose instead Prince of Wales Strait, free of ice for the first time in 10 years.

WORST OF MANY

Timing also favored the Manhattan. It was the best time of year for Arctic navigation.

M'Clure Strait was the worst of numerous halts caused by ice up to 12 feet deep. There it was forced to retreat 60 miles and change course southward when it could not ram through the ice.

First test after the 115,000-deadweight-ton ship left Chester, Pa., Aug. 24, was in Viscount Melville Sound. It could not alone break through five-foot ice.

The Canadian icebreaker Sir John A. Macdonald helped cut her loose, after freeing the American icebreaker Northwind from one icy pike-up. The Northwind finally was left behind in another ice-jam.

Stan Haas, Manhattan project manager, said at a news conference in Sachs Harbour that officials had "seen nothing in the last two weeks to change our objectives"—a year round capability.

Arrival at Sachs Harbour Sunday of the Manhattan, described as the world's largest ice-breaker, was considered the end of the passage. Sachs Harbour, on Banks Island, is 1,300 miles north of Edmonton.

Mr. Haas said he was disappointed that sensing devices aboard the 43,000-horsepower vessel failed to warn of difficult ice ahead.

"The Manhattan found itself smashing through hard-core ice before it was aware of it," he said.

The Manhattan now is headed for Barter Island in Alaska, the next to last stop before Prudhoe Bay, across the unprotected Beaufort Sea.

The 10-day voyage through the passage was the first by a vessel capable of transporting commercial cargo and the first by a vessel so large—three times the length of a Canadian football field.

The route has been sought since 1497 when John Cabot explored the eastern end. If opened year-round, the passage would restructure world trade patterns.

Mileage from London to Tokyo—with the Suez Canal closed now—is about 14,670 miles. A northwest route is slightly less than 8,000 miles.

Maritime spokesmen said that if commercial shipping proves feasible it will create a shipping boom.

SCIENTISTS SEEK SHOOTING STAR

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A team from the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa arrived in this north-central British Columbia city Monday looking for a meteorite they think caused an earth tremor August 20.

Alan Blackwell and Ian Halliday, of the observatory's meteorite observation and recovery project, are trying to find residents who saw a fireball on that night or who can help pinpoint where the large fragment from space came down.

ECM Entry Hopes Rise for Britain

BRUSSELS (WP) — France's five Common Market partners Monday formally accepted her proposal to hold a November summit conference in the The Hague which could lift the previous Gaullist veto against British membership.

Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said if the November 17 and 18 summit of heads of government "gives reasons for optimism" the six founding nations would discuss opening new membership negotiations "as quickly as possible."

In a further verbal departure from gradually receding total French opposition to British entry, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann told newsmen that "one could say the problem of enlargement," Common Market jargon for letting in new members, "has been unfrozen."

But a diplomat of one of the four candidate nations kept waiting by France since 1960 expressed the fundamental scepticism unallayed by such unwonted French surface optimism.

"The old lady has lifted her skirts a couple of inches," he said in alluding to the more muted tone of French diplomacy since President de Gaulle resigned last April. "But her virtue is still intact."

Willy Brandt, the perpetually optimistic German foreign minister, emerged from a secret luncheon with his five Common Market colleagues, and predicted negotiations could begin "next spring."

But a compromise formula, announced by Luns in his capacity as chairman of the meeting, did not succeed in committing France to open negotiations with Britain, Ireland, Denmark and Norway.

Queen's Counsel Honors Go to 26 B.C. Lawyers

Three Victoria men and a provincial cabinet minister are among 26 B.C. lawyers given the title Queens Counsel by a provincial cabinet order Monday.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, city solicitor Terrence P. O'Grady, lawyer Ken Murphy and A. W. Hobbs, general solicitor in the attorney generals' department, were among those named for the honor.

Cyril White of Vancouver, Workmen's Compensation Board chairman, is also named in the list prepared by the attorney-general's department.

One woman, Mary Frances Southin, of Vancouver, is included.

Aside from the three Victoria names, there are two others from Vancouver Island: David Ricardo Williams, Duncan, and Donald Moore Cunliffe, Nanaimo.

Others named are: Richard Philip Anderson, Frank Holton Britton, George Stewart Cumming, Robert Theodore Du-Moulin, Arthur Boyd Ferris, David Arthur Freeman, Arthur Joseph Fynney Johnson, Charles George Robson, and Evans Ernest Wasson, all of Vancouver;

Jack Milton Streight, New Westminster; Neil Anderson Davidson, Vernon; Charles Hamwood Hamilton, Nelson; Frederick Howard Herbert, Penticton; Alan Alexander Wilson Macdonnell, Prince Rupert; Peter John Millward, Kamloops; Michael Ernest Moran, Castlegar; Frank Samuel Perry, Prince George; Brian Coryell Weddell, Kelowna.

Queen's Counsel is a purely honorary title awarded for professional services but it can have a beneficial effect on a practising lawyer's income because many people prefer to be represented by a QC.

It confers no special privileges before the court. About 10 QCs a year are named in B.C., fewer than by other provincial governments.

Couple Faces Murder Count

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A man and a woman Monday were charged with non-capital murder following the weekend stabbing death of George Lemieux, 48, a construction worker from Cranbrook.

Charged were Frank G. Gagnon, 24, and Patricia Catherine Wilson, 30, both of Prince George. They were remanded without plea until Tuesday when they appear in provincial court.

The charges were laid after Lemieux' body was found Sunday in a cabin.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Zephyr Trapped In Faulty Gate

VANCOUVER (CP) — A faulty starting gate brought refunds and consolation payments on the daily double at Exhibition Park Monday night.

The double itself, on Pit Poper in the first to Shootalong in the second, paid a whopping $334.30.

In the second race, Regal Zephyr didn't break with the field when the gate failed to open and Shootalong went on for the hard-fought win.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

How to play sare

Tail-Enders Face Important Series

VANCOUVER (CP) — The bottom two clubs in the Western Conference of the Canadian Football League meet here Wednesday night for the first time this season, and a berth in the playoffs could well go to the winner.

With the schedule half completed, Saskatchewan and Calgary are way off by themselves, leaving Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions battling for the third and last playoff position.

Right now, Winnipeg is third with two wins and a tie in nine games. Fourth-place Edmonton has two wins, six losses and last-place B.C. has one win, seven losses. But both Edmonton victories were over Winnipeg, as was the lone B.C. triumph.

The Lions meet the Eskimos three times during the second half of the schedule, starting Wednesday night, and meet Winnipeg twice. The path to the playoffs for B.C. is simple: take at least two out of three from Edmonton and knock of Winnipeg twice, for a 10-point season.

Playoff speculation aside, there could be an interesting personal statistics battle Wednesday night between the two hottest defensive backs in the league, John Wydarney of Edmonton and Rich Robinson of B.C. Each has come up with five interceptions in his last two games.

Edmonton coach Neill Armstrong, who says his defence has turned in "sharp efforts" in the last three games, plans to start Corey Colehour at quarterback against the Lions.

For the Lions, where the defensive corps also has seen more a fair share of field time this season, quarterback Paul Brothers will make yet another attempt to ignite an offense. It was a familiar pattern as the Lions lost to Calgary on Saturday—one B.C. touchdown, plus 14 points from the kicking of Ted Gerela.

Loch Heron came off the 30-day injury reserve list today and is expected to start Wednesday night at split end for B.C. One Canadian will have to go to make room for Heron, but coach Jim Champion hasn't yet made the choice.

Altered Attitude Adds to Success

REGINA (CP)—Jack Abendschan, of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who couldn't make the grade in the American Football League, credits three major factors for his improved place-kicking this season.

"Concentration, relaxation and confidence are the major factors for my success this season," said Abendschan.

So far this season, Abendschan, who also plays offensive guard for the Western Football Conference club, has been good on 21 of 22 convert attempts—one was blocked—and has kicked 15 field goals in 25 tries. He also has eight singles for a conference-leading total of 74 points.

He tried out with Denver Broncos in 1968, but was cut after making only one of eight field goal tries.

'IN A RUT'

"Jack was in a rut when he rejoined us last year from Denver," said Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys. "He was kicking poorly for us midway through the season, but we stuck with him because we knew he had the fundamentals of a good kicker."

Abendschan now has a 26-point lead over Ted Gerela of the B.C. Lions as place-kickers hold down the top four spots in the Western Conference point race. Gerela has 48 points, three more than Calgary's Larry Robinson.

Victoria juvenile grad Dave Cutler, playing with Edmonton Eskimos, is fourth with 40 points.

Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has taken a 16-point lead over Don Sutherin of Ottawa in the Eastern Conference.

1969 CLOSE-OUT SALE
ON NEW CARS

If you have ever wanted a new VOLKSWAGEN, now is the time to buy. We are prepared to close out this record selling year with a bang. Come in and let us prove it to you.

1966 VOLKSWAGEN pickup. A much sought after unit in excellent shape. This vehicle has the big 1500 cc motor and is fully equipped. Unbeatable price $1545

If you're going hunting perhaps you might like the custom built CAMPER that can go with it for an additional $650. Come in and look these over.

HOW ABOUT SOME OF THESE PRICE CHALLENGERS:

1961 VOLVO $495
1960 CORVAIR (automatic) $488
1961 CHEV sedan (four door and a dandy) $595
1958 PLYMOUTH (automatic sedan) $295
1960 CHEVROLET wagon (rebuilt motor) $675
1962 PLYMOUTH (automatic) $695

FEATURED on our CHECKERBOARD. A one-owner 1968 ENVOY EPIC in beautiful condition. It has deep pile carpeting, red leather seats, seat belts for all and has only 16,000 miles on the clock.
TERRIFIC VALUE $1695

Jack Weatherbee's entry
1962 MERCEDES
Here is a car of quality that costs so little to operate it's unbelievable. A doctor had decided that a smaller car will do for his rounds. No one can match our price of $1495

Strategic Trade Ban to Be Relaxed

LONDON (AP) — Fourteen NATO countries and Japan are lowering their barriers on exports of strategic products to the Soviet bloc. But the bans are staying up for trade with the Asian Communist governments and Albania.

Diplomats reported Sunday that concessions to be announced next month will not be extended to Communist China, to Albania, its only European ally, or to North Vietnam and North Korea.

The embargo on munitions and other war weapons remains.

Informants said the prospect of improved economic and political relations with the East European Communists, the diminishing technological gap between them and the Western powers, and deep-seated suspicion of China's military intentions influenced the decision to ease the controls.

Informants said the previously banned items which the Soviet bloc now will be able to buy include certain types of computers, rare metals and their alloys, chemical and petroleum equipment, a wide range of industrial, electrical and transport goods, and certain categories of electronic and precision instruments.

The international agreement came in months of negotiations by the group in Paris known as the Co-ordinating Committee, made up of representatives of all North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries except Iceland, plus Japan.

Japan favored concessions to Peking also, but finally agreed with the other members that it be excluded. The Japanese government is under pressure from political and industrial interests that want access to the big Chinese market or believe the ban smacks of discrimination against Asians.

The committee's purpose is to co-ordinate policies with the intention of denying Communist countries commodities that would strengthen their war potential.

GRAND CHAMPION 4-H Aberdeen Angus steer at Saanichton Fall Fair wins 12-year-old Wayne Cuthbert, of Central Saanich, a trophy and $25 gift certificate from Woodward's. H. S. Grew, manager of the Mayfair store, makes the presentation. The 14-month-old steer weighs 1,100 pounds.

Virus Disease Blamed For Whitefish Deaths

A provincial government Fish and Wildlife Branch official has likened a mysterious mass death of whitefish in the west arm of Kootenay Lake to the equally mysterious death of thousands of land-locked salmon in early summer.

Thousands of Kokanee salmon were found washed up on the shores at the north end of Okanangan Lake at the end of May. They were believed to have died from a type of virus disease.

Ed Vernon, chief of fisheries management at the Fish and Wildlife Branch, said he believes the huge fish die-off which has been in progress for 10 days and has left Kootenay Lake in the Balfour-Proctor area rimmed with dead whitefish, was also caused by some kind of virus disease.

"The way the fish were found certainly makes it look as though it could be the same type of thing we had in Okanagan Lake," Vernon said.

He said that in the case of the Okanagan die-off samples weren't in good enough condition by the time they reached the research laboratory in Nanaimo for a proper examination to be made.

"This time we just happened to have some of our research men right there on the spot at Nelson and so we got good samples straight away."

Vernon said the samples were sent Friday to the laboratory in Nanaimo and a report was expected within the week.

Detroit Drops Dave Lewis, Veteran Baker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Lions waived defensive end John Baker and sold defensive back Bobby Thompson, a former Montreal Alouette, to New Orleans Saints Monday as National Football League clubs got down to the 40-man limit for this weekend's season opening.

Baker, a 12-year NFL veteran, listed as first string left end this season ahead of Joe Robb, played for Detroit last year after being acquired from Pittsburgh Steelers in a trade.

Thompson, who spent five full seasons with Detroit, was the Lions' No. 3 draft choice in 1962 but played with the Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference until 1964 before signing with the Lions. He played cornerback in 1964-66, then lost his regular job to Tommy Vaughan.

Another former Alouette dropped was Dave Lewis, who had been trying out with New York Giants.

Lewis played out his option with Montreal last year after a season in which he lined up as flanker, quarterback, defensive back and punter.

He did most of the punting in the Giants' pre-season exhibition games, but coach Alex Webster said he will go with Pete Gogolak as punter. Gogolak is also a field goal specialist and "there is no way we can carry two specialists," said Webster.

BASEBALL STILL RATES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — baseball is still America's favorite sport, according to a survey by a marketing and opinion research firm.

Sindling and Co., of suburban Norwood, Pa., said its telephone poll of 1,378 adults showed 27.1 per cent listed baseball as their favorite sport, while 24.4 per cent listed football. Then came basketball with 6.2 per cent, swimming with 6 per cent and golf with 3.5 per cent.

Among men only, football topped baseball 33.1 per cent to 27 per cent.

Before the Judge

A Victoria man arrested for vagrancy told central court Monday he has lived in the area "a while — fifty years or so," owns a house and a dairy farm.

Byron MacNutt of 4150 Grange changed his plea to not guilty after saying "I guess I might as well plead guilty" earlier.

MacNutt, a middle-aged man with a full, bushy beard, was apprehended in town early Monday running along the street with an empty milk bottle in a shopping bag, and 61 cents in his possession.

He was unable to justify his presence, court was told, and had no visible means of support, which, with lack of a fixed address, constitutes vagrancy.

But he told Judge William Ostler he owns a home and a dairy farm.

"And it's worth a pretty penny, too. I don't know if I'm a vagrant or not, but I'm sure it will be an interesting problem," MacNutt said.

Judge Ostler agreed it would be an interesting problem.

MacNutt was remanded for trial today.

Gordon A. Bolley, 54, of 3 Woodville Place, was sentenced to three months in prison for impaired driving.

Judge Ostler told the man he was unable to help him at all or lighten his sentensce, since it was a third offence.

Douglas T. Crabbe, 34, of the Salvation Army Hostel, was fined $100 for the theft of two tins of orange juice and a package of hot chocolate powder from the Jolly Friar Cafe Sunday.

He had pleaded guilty to the offence, and said he had been drinking heavily. Value of the property was $2.57. Crabbe had $19.20 in his possession at the time, court was told.

Arthur C. Chartrand, 20, of the Royal Olympic Hotel, was given a six-month suspended sentence after pleading guilty to the theft of a pair of shoes from The Bay Sept. 4.

The shoes were valued at $4.97, and Chartrand had $97 in his possession at the time.

Ronald R. Hungle, 24, of 1110 Beach Drive, was fined $200 after pleading guilty to driving while his licence was under suspension.

West German Squad Leaves Athens Meet

ATHENS (Reuters) — West Germany today decided to withdraw from the European track and field championships because Jurgen May was barred from competing in the 5,000-metre race.

The West German athletes decided at a meeting only an hour before the opening of the games they would take part in the opening ceremony but would withdraw immediately afterward.

The decision followed a meeting between a six-member West German delegation and the Marquess of Exeter, British president of the International Amateur Athletics Federation.

The West Germans made a final plea to Exeter for the reinstatement of May, a former East German who defected to West Germany two years ago.

But Exeter noted an IAAF rule that does not allow any athlete to appear for another country until he has fulfilled the three-year residential qualification. May will not be eligible to compete for West Germany until June, 1970.

Warrant Issued In St. Leonard For Separatist

MONTREAL (CP) — A warrant was issued today for the arrest of militant separatist Reggie Chartrand, wanted to face charges arising from the school language riot in suburban St. Leonard last Wednesday night.

He is charged with participating in a riot, obstructing police and failing to disperse after the Riot Act was read.

Until today, there was an understanding between police and Chartrand's lawyers that the former boxer head of the black-shirted Chevaliers de l'Independance—Knights of Independence—would come forward voluntarily to face the charges. Now he is officially considered a fugitive.

Forty other persons were arrested and charged following the demonstration by supporters of French-only schools in St. Leonard.

Among them is Raymond Lemieux, leader of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, who faces six charges including sedition and failing to disperse.

The Roman Catholic school board in St. Leonard has eliminated English language teaching in Grades 1 and 2 and plans to continue the policy of eliminating one grade at a time through elementary school.

The St. Leonard Parents Association, representing families who want their children taught in English, has accepted an offer of classroom space from the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

The Montreal Catholic School Commission announced Monday it will not help accommodate the 370 children affected, on grounds that "it would not be appropriate" to reverse the decision of another school board.

The language dispute, which began a year ago when the St. Leonard school board began its French-only policy in Grade 1, exploded into violence this fall when the school board extended the policy to Grade 2.

The English-speaking parents association sought help from both the Protestant and Catholic school boards of Montreal and has launched a nation-wide campaign for funds.

Robert Beale, president of the association, has said about $120,000 will be needed to offset the cost of busses to the Protestant school board schools and the fee of $25 a month for each child from St. Leonard.

The St. Leonard children in the Protestant schools are scheduled to start classes next Monday.

Robert Dobie, executive secretary of the Federation of English Catholic Teachers, criticized the decision of the commission.

"It's thoroughly deplorable that the commission refused to help out, especially since the Protestant School Board is doing its best."

Mr. Dobie said it appears the commission is afraid of "rocking the boat," adding that it is deplorable for the commission to wait so long to tell its decision, considering the meeting was held last Thursday.

"We have plenty of English Catholic schools," said Mr. Dobie.

School Work Totals $600,000

The Greater Victoria and Saanich school boards Monday were authorized to issue debentures of school construction totalling $600,000.

The $300,000 for each of the two districts was part of a total of $10 million in debentures authorized by the provincial government cabinet for 33 school districts throughout B.C.

A total of $1.92 million was allocated to Vancouver Island school boards.

These are Greater Victoria, $300,000; Saanich, $300,000; Cowichan, $100,000; Ladysmith, $200,000; Gulf Islands, $20,000; Nanaimo, $500,000; Alberni, $200,000, and Campbell River, $300,000.

Root Harvest Rates Dry Storage

By HILDA BEASTALL

The harvest of vegetable root crops is matching in bounty that from the fruit trees. As seen in the magnificent displays at the weekend fall show of the Victoria Horticultural Society, the root vegetables were as tempting to those of us who enjoy good food as any of the equally colorful flower exhibits.

Hilda

Newcomers will have shared in these successes with vegetables even in their first year of gardening here on the coast and are beginning to wonder how to make full use of them.

Due to our rainy winter season, we cannot dig pits for storage. In a clay soil, or over rocks, such a pit would become a water hole and our vegetables just a form of compost.

However, we can take carrots, beets and turnips from the ground late this month and keep them in boxes of damp sand or even fine sandy soil slightly damp.

The ideal place would be on a concrete floor in an unheated garage or shed. Put in a layer of sand, a layer of roots, none touching, another layer of sand and so on, ending with sand.

The box would be insulated from frost and the sand or soil just damp enough to prevent the vegetables from shrivelling.

It is likely that the corner of a sheltered patio could be utilized for this storage. It should be out of winter sun, protected from freezing wind and drenching rain.

If hard frosts threatened, coverings of sacking or an old mat would keep off many degrees of frost.

With less practical storage spaces for plants and fresh foods with each decade of home building, the gardener today needs to be more ingenious than ever before to protect his produce.

Fortunately we can leave some of our root vegetables in the ground until we need them for use in winter. The leeks, parsnips, horseradish and Jerusalem artichokes are all unharmed by a few degrees of frost.

As winter weather sets in, perhaps towards the end of October, I have found it pays to choose the best weather day in any week to get in enough of the different vegetables to last a few days.

It takes a bit of time in wet sticky weather, and the mud has to be washed off outdoors in a pail. But the cleaned vegetables can then be stored in any dark cool place, ready to use on the really bad days. And what a flavor they will have!

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

WRESTLING with problem as big as herself, six-week-old tiger cub Karen, appears to cry out in frustration as she tries to put the bite on a tasty set of ribs from the keeper's larder at Chessington Zoo, Surrey, England. But Karen is bottle fed since momma cat deserted her, and according to experts, meat would only give her a stomachache anyway. (AP Wirephoto.)

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

Much more often than not, especially when the opponents get to a game or a slam, the opening lead by the defenders is a shot in the dark. This applies to both expert and non-expert games, since the laws state that dummy is not to be put down until after the opening lead is made.

In the deal presented today, which arose in an all-expert game, 10 tricks hung in the balance, depending on West's choice of an opening lead. He had a guess to make — and he guessed wrong.

North-South vulnerable. West deals.

NORTH
♠ K 5
♡ 5 2
◇ A K 10 8 3 2

WEST
♠ 9 8 7 6
♡ A J 10 6 3
◇ J 9
♣ 4 3

EAST
♠ A Q 10 4 2
♡ Q 9 8 4
◇ 5 4

SOUTH
♠ J 3
♡ K 7
◇ Q 7 6
♣ A K Q 7 6 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ◇	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♡.

West's low heart opening was captured by South's king, after which South proceeded to take all the tricks: six diamonds, six clubs, and the king of hearts. Had West guessed to open his secondary suit, spades, the defenders could have made five spades and five hearts, thus holding declarer to three tricks. In this case, South would have been down six, instead of making four overtricks, as was actually the case.

An interesting spectaculative feature of this deal is what might have developed if, somehow, North had become the declarer at three no-trump. In all probability, East would then have opened the fourth from-the-highest in his longest suit, spades. And with North's king of spades winning the trick, declarer would again come home with all 13 tricks.

Coincidentally, if East, in this hypothetical situation, elected to open his secondary suit, hearts, once again a swing of 10 tricks would come into being. With the heart opening by East, East-West would have it in their power to collect five spades and five hearts, pinning a six-trick set on declarer.

Please don't conclude from the above that it pays to lead one's second-best suit against no-trump contracts. Today's deal is the exception, not the rule.

Fun with Figures

By J A H HUNTER

"So that's your son, eh?" commented Steve. "A fine boy. How old is he?"

Greg smiled. "Figure it out yourself," he replied. "In two years' time I'll be three times what he was three years ago, but three years ago I was twice what he'll be in two years' time."

How old was Greg?

Thanks for an idea to: C. T. O'Hara, Ennis, Eire.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

French-English Team Was Early Success

By BOB BOWMAN

The equal use of French and English in Canada's public service has been an important issue in recent months and resulted in parliament passing the Official Languages Bill.

However, French-speaking Canadians really broke the barrier at the time of the Act of Union in 1841 when Upper and Lower Canada united in one parliament.

Lord Sydenham, who was Governor of Canada at that time, did not believe in equality. He appointed 24 legislative councillors, but only eight of them were French-speaking, and he did not appoint any French at all to his executive council.

Sir Charles Bagot, who succeeded Sydenham in 1842, took an entirely different point of view with the result that a government was formed on September 16 with Reformers Robert Baldwin and Louis Hyppolite Lafontaine as its joint leaders.

Lafontaine therefore became Canada's first French-speaking Prime Minister although he had been arrested as a rebel in 1838. The government proved to be a very successful experiment in French-English co-operation and was responsible for Canada getting responsible government.

Baldwin was Reform leader in Canada West, as Upper Canada was called after the Act of Union, and Lafontaine was Reform leader in Canada East, formerly Lower Canada. They made a great team.

When Lafontaine was defeated in his own constituency of Terrebonne, Baldwin helped him win an election in Toronto. It was astonishing in those days to see a French-speaking Roman Catholic representing one of the Toronto ridings.

Lafontaine was able to return the favor later. Baldwin was defeated in Toronto, so Lafontaine helped him win the very French constituency of Rimouski.

Other events on September 16:

1833—Robert Campbell arrived at Red River with sheep driven on foot from Kentucky.

1858—Andrew Bonnar Law was born at Rexton, N.B., and became the only man from the Commonwealth ever to become Prime Minister of Britain.

1868—Barkerville, famous British Columbia gold mining town, was destroyed by fire.

1893—Calgary was incorporated as a city.

1901—Duke and Duchess of York (later King George V and Queen Mary) began visit to Canada.

1915—Prohibition came into effect in Ontario.

1957—More than 6,000 employees of Aluminum Company of Canada began four-month strike at Arvida, Quebec.

1963—Canada made largest wheat sale in history to Russia.

Montrealer Co-Winner Of World Honor

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Gustave Gingras, director of the Rehabilitation Centre of Montreal, has been named a co-winner of the Albert Lasker prize in medicine, one of the highest honors distributed in the world in recognition of work with the handicapped.

Prof. Andre Trannoy of France and Dr. and Mrs. Raden Soeharso of Indonesia, are the other recipients of the award, announced in New York Sunday.

While prizes are distributed annually by the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation, for outstanding contributions in the field of medicine and medical reporting, those for work related to helping the handicapped are given only once every three years.

The doctors received a prize of $2,500 each along with a statue of the winged victory of Samothrace. The statue symbolizes victory over death and illness.

The awards will be presented at the closing of the 11th International World Congress on Rehabilitation, which opened in Dublin Sunday and ends Friday.

QUIET SESSION OF UN EXPECTED

The 126-member United Nations General Assembly opened its 26th session today, but few troubles of the world are expected.

First order of business was the formality of electing 41-year-old lawyer-diplomat Angie Brooks of Liberia as president.

The General Assembly is also to consider election of five nations to the Security Council.

World Feeling Price Squeeze

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're suffering from inflation, you can take consolation in the fact that you're not suffering alone.

The statistician's way of describing the pain you have been feeling in your pocketbook is to say that the consumer price index increased 4.75 per cent in Canada between May, 1968, and May, 1969.

This is according to United Nations figures for all countries, starting from a base of 100 in 1963.

In the United States the increase in the consumer price index was 6.1 per cent in that period.

Now consider these one-year increases, from the same statistics: Brazil 22.9 per cent; Chile 35.7; South Vietnam 15.2; India 8.2.

In Brazil, the cost-of-living index in May stood at an astounding 865 and in Argentina 325, starting from 100 in 1963. In Britain it was 127, France 123, Canada 121.3, the U.S. 119.6.

The UN figures are quoted for comparison purposes. The official Canadian cost-of-living index is based on 1961 equalling 100, and in August this year it stood at 126.9, up 5.1 per cent from August, 1968.

Story Same in Various Tongues

Inflation and the economic problems it spawns have left half-finished buildings in Brazil, helped bring devaluation in France and led Japanese housewives to demand that the government do something about rising prices.

The language and the locales vary but the stories have a similar ring.

The shrinking value of currency has become a matter of increasing concern to world leaders.

Inflation has been blamed as a cause of violence and revolution. It has been blamed for sapping the government loyalty of civil servants who have seen their pay buy less and less. It has slashed the purchasing power of retired persons living on fixed incomes.

Inflation has caused deep concern in the U.S. for many months. Government figures put current U.S. inflation at about an annual rate of 6.4 per cent, despite attempts to control it. However, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin in September told the Senate banking committee that he believes a levelling-out period may be at hand.

Finance Minister Benson in his June 3 budget speech said he assumed Canada's price increases this year would be "about the same as last year." That was 3.9 per cent.

Inflationary pressures were cited by Prime Minister Trudeau in announcing a 10-per-cent cut in the civil service.

France, which had a 5.3-per-cent rise in consumer prices last year, turned to devaluation to slow its inflationary trend and make its goods more competitive abroad.

Inflation recently appeared in West Germany; the cost of living is up 3.5 per cent in 1969 and a survey found West Germans more concerned about inflation than they were two years ago.

Japanese Housewives Protest

Japan, Asia's most industrialized country, has seen rising prosperity bring rising prices. Japanese housewives have organized to demand stronger government action in the wake of recent price increases. The women complain that the price of rice has gone up 40 per cent since 1965 and beef prices are up 57.7 per cent.

Inflation that would destroy a sophisticated economy is sustained in less-developed countries because many peasants and laborers are outside the money economy, generally bartering goods instead of using money. The rich stay ahead of rising prices through investments in stocks and real estate.

Whether or not some inflation is desirable is a matter of debate among economists.

"Inflation is a means of redistributing wealth," says one international economist. Expanded business activity under inflation gives the ghetto resident his first job, but it also angers the middle-class worker whose salary rises slowly compared with prices, he said.

Since the dollar is the basic currency of world trade, inflation in the United States causes an increase in the world currency base which tends to be inflationary elsewhere, says Martin Gainsbrugh of the National Industrial Conference Board.

And high profits produced by inflation lead to heavy U.S. investments abroad where extra demand for plant and equipment creates inflationary pressures.

Worldwide problems are created when the U.S. economy does not work properly, said Richard W. Everett of Chase Manhattan Bank. Among the problems are upsets in the international monetary system and spreading high interest rates to slow inflation.

"Inflation is simply not an acceptable condition for a nation that occupies a dominant economic position in an increasingly interdependent world," Everett said.

Student Loan Boosts Seen

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says the federal government plans to introduce a bill before Christmas that will increase funds available for student loans.

Last year, the Canadian Student Loan plan authorized payment up to $60,500,000 to students with the loans being made by banks and guaranteed by the federal government.

The newspaper says other bills the government plans to introduce include new rules for controlling nuclear hazards, amendments to the old age security system, new shipping regulations and new financing arrangements for the CNR.

BELFAST BARRICADES TUMBLE as British troops move into Catholic Falls Road area of city and citizens begin to remove bulwarks set up at beginning of religious strife. (AP Wirephoto.)

Army Dismantles Barricades While Increasing Protection

BELFAST (AP) — The British Army today announced the start of the dismantling of barricades in the Falls Road district of Belfast and said three battalions of troops had moved in to "provide massive protection" for the Roman Catholic inhabitants.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, British Army commander in Northern Ireland, said the dismantling operation began after talks with the Ulster government and in accordance with procedure worked out last week with Belfast's civil rights leaders.

The Falls Road area was the scene of some of the worst rioting in Belfast last month.

Barricades were being removed, in some cases by the troops themselves, in Davis Street and in some other streets around the Divis Tower block, the army said. In some instances, army officials said, the local population was helping the troops take down the obstructions.

But in Gilford Street a crowd of women and children sat in front of their barricade singing and chanting civil rights slogans and refusing to allow the removal of the barricade.

The Central Citizens' Defence Committee, said to speak for 70,000 Catholics, indicated early today that the Catholics were ready to remove their barricades, but later it withdrew the statement.

The committee called a meeting tonight to vote on the matter.

"The barricades stay until we've made a democratic decision," said Jim Sullivan, chairman of the committee.

He was replying to Bishop William Philbin, the Roman Catholic bishop of Down and Connor, who toured the barricades and told the men behind them:

"These barricades must come down now. We will not be bullied into keeping them by a small minority."

PREPARE FOR ACTION

The British Army appeared to be preparing for decisive action. It moved in more men and sealed off Falls and Grosvenor roads, the boundaries of the main Catholic stronghold.

The statement which the citizens' committee withdrew said the government had given adequate assurance that persons inside the barricades will not be arrested under the Special Powers Act, which allows suspects to be jailed without trial.

The committee issued its statement after the British Army's commander in Northern Ireland returned from London with orders to take down the barricades despite Catholic opposition.

KY THREATENS DEATH FOR ECONOMIC CRIMES

SAIGON (Reuters) — Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky has threatened to bring back public executions for those "who dare to act against" the government's austerity measures to curb inflation.

Ky told reporters Monday: "If need be, we will re-establish sand-bagged execution places. If it is necessary to shoot 10 men to save tens of millions of people, then we will do so."

The last public execution by firing squad for economic crimes was about 16 months ago, when a businessman was shot in the courtyard of a Saigon prison, opened to the public for the occasion.

U.S. Sets Pullout Of 35,000 Men

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon announced today that at least 35,000 more United States troops will be withdrawn from South Vietnam by Dec. 15.

That would bring to 60,000 the total of Americans in uniform to leave the war-torn country since the phased withdrawal program began in July.

A White House source said about half of the 35,000 would be combat troops—a lower ratio than in the original withdrawal of 25,000 men. He also said the total might turn out to be 36,000 or 37,000 once the action has been completed.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu said the planned troop withdrawal "is the measure of the progress in the strengthening of the army of the Republic of Vietnam."

There was no word from Nixon on possible future withdrawals but the source said a number of contingency plans have been drawn up.

Nixon once expressed hope that U.S. withdrawals might exceed 100,000 by the end of 1969 and the source said he had no reason to believe Nixon had abandoned that hope. But the latest announcement made the 100,000 level seem unlikely.

REVIEWS PEACE EFFORTS

The president coupled his new troop withdrawal announcement with a review of administration efforts to promote a peaceful settlement.

Calling for meaningful negotiations now, Nixon said: "I realize that it is difficult to communicate across the gulf of five years of war. But the time has come to end this war."

Nixon said his latest troop withdrawal order, coupled with the earlier pullout of 25,000 combat men, would mean at least 60,000 troops will have left Vietnam by Dec. 15.

By that date, he said, the authorized troop ceiling in Viet-

N-BLAST SHAKES LAS VEGAS

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — One of the newest and most powerful anti-missile warheads ever tested rocked this volcanic mesa today and swayed high-rise gambling resorts 115 miles away in Las Vegas.

The hydrogen weapon melted rock 3,800 feet below the earth's surface and carved out a cavern almost 700 feet in diameter. Ten million tons of rock was displaced by the explosion which carried the wallop of 800,000 to 900,000 tons of TNT, almost enough to fill Yankee Stadium.

Twin Strikes Launched By Israelis

From AP-Reuters

Israeli jets streaked across the River Jordan frontier today in simultaneous raids against Arab guerrilla camps at both ends of the Jordan Valley, south of the Sea of Galilee, the Israeli military command announced.

The 30-minute strikes hit at a base in Wade el-Arab, eight miles east of the Jordan River opposite kibbutz Gesher in the northern Jordan Valley and at Tel-Hujeiga three miles east of the river, a spokesman said in Tel Aviv.

All planes returned safely to base, he said.

GRENADE THROWN

Earlier sources in the occupied Gaza Strip reported that an Arab threw a hand grenade into a busy market in Gaza City today, killing an Israeli woman and wounding an Israeli woman and boy and 13 Arabs.

Campbell Hints March Goal Set

By JIM HUME
Times Staff

KAMLOOPS—The Capital Regional District has until March 31 to voluntarily make planning a regional function.

After that, or possibly before then, should discussions bog down, the provincial government will step in with a statute to make planning a compulsory function of the district board, according to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

The regional district has been discussing the possibility of bringing the Capital Region Planning Board under its jurisdiction for the last 18 months but has been unable to reach agreement on how far individual municipal authority will extend.

Campbell carefully avoided use of the big stick when he addressed regional district representatives here this morning.

But his brief speech contained enough indications that his patience is running out.

LOCKED-IN SYSTEM

Referring to the differences between Ontario regional district legislation and B.C. legislation, Campbell said "in Ontario there was total acceptance of the regional concept by the government who then placed legislation on the books with a locked-in system.

CAMPBELL
. . . ready to act

"That is not the approach in B.C. — at least it has not been the approach up until now.

"We see no good reason, yet, why regional districts should not continue to evolve."

Campbell has assembled an agenda for regional district representatives to discuss during the balance of today.

AGENDA TOPICS

He stressed that the agenda topics were topics only. "They are not government policies," he said. "They are ideas which have come from you and are now before you for final discussion."

There is little doubt, however, in the minds of Victoria representatives that the changes being recommended for the Municipal Act will become statutory legislation before March.

Paragraph 2 on the agenda recommends that "planning, subdivision, zoning and building inspection powers" be conferred upon regional districts by statute.

Questioned following his speech, Campbell said that he was still hopeful that planning would become a regional function voluntarily.

Asked if he had a deadline, he

Department Changes On the Way

Times Staff

KAMLOOPS — New departmental structure is needed to permit proper government of human resources and the environment in which these resources live, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campell suggested today.

The traditional structure "will not work" in the 1970s and 1980s, he told regional district representatives meeting here.

Many government departments had grown historically "in nice compartments in which they continue to work."

"You cannot work in nice little compartments if you are going to take a look at the total environment."

Campbell said that the provincial government has already established two committees to streamline and coordinate what have been isolated government endeavors.

Russ Wheat Sales On Shaky Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials are clinging to the hope that Russia will buy a huge quantity of Canadian wheat still outstanding under a three-year sales agreement signed by Russia and Canada in mid-1966.

Final implementation of the deal would give a much-needed shot in the arm to the western Canada farm economy, hard hit by price cutting and shrinking sales in the world wheat market.

Trade department sources are guarded in their comments about the deal, which at the time of signing was billed as the largest international wheat transaction in history, estimated to be worth $800,000,000.

Despite the fact that more than three years have gone by since the agreement was concluded in Moscow June 18, 1966, they insist there is hope the Soviet Union will take the remaining 135,000,000 bushels it signed for.

This amount represents 40 per cent of the 336,000,000 bushels the Soviets agreed to purchase in the three crop years beginning Aug. 1, 1966.

"We still look to Russia to fulfil its commitments," said one official.

STILL HAS HOPES

"It is very much a live issue," said another. He added that the Canadian wheat board is communicating with the Soviet grain-purchasing agency, Exportkhleb, to arrange further discussions on the matter.

Asked whether he was optimistic agreement can be reached with the Soviet, he replied: "We feel confident."

As to whether at some point Russia will be judged by Can-

THREE-FIFTHS OF CAMPAIGN PLEDGE

Three Ferries to Be Stretched

B.C. Ferry Queen of Victoria will be lengthened by 84 feet this winter to fulfill the first phase of an election campaign pledge by Premier Bennett.

The stretching project follows a similar and successful $2,250,000 operation on the Queen of Esquimalt earlier this year.

After pronouncing the Esquimalt experiment a success, Bennett, at the beginning of his campaign, announced five more ferries would be lengthened.

Today the department of highways invited tenders to add 84 feet to the Queen of Saanich, Queen of Victoria and Queen of Vancouver.

A department spokesman said, however, the Victoria would be the only vessel considered in the tender call which closes Sept. 25.

He said passenger demands on the ferries would not permit more than one to be out of service at a time.

He said the Victoria lengthening will be completed by spring.

The ferries will probably be lengthened on a one-a-year basis because of the demand, the spokesman said.

Cost of stretching the Victoria is estimated at more than $2 million and will enable the vessel to carry an additional 60 cars and 200 passengers.

The Victoria now has a capacity of 140 cars and 1,000 passengers.

Two Victoria-based shipyards indicated interest in the tender invitation which would mean employment for 200 men for about six months on each lengthening.

"We'll definitely be bidding," said John Wallace, manager of Yarrows, Ltd. "At the present time we don't know how many vessels we'll be bidding on but we hope to get some of the work."

A spokesman for McKay-Cormack, Ltd., said company officials were meeting today to consider the tender invitation but no decision on a possible bid has yet been made.

THE HUMAN RACE IS THREATENED

An Old Educator's Message to Youth: 'Rise Up in Protest'

'Too Many Students Study For Degrees, Not to Be Educated — Especially When Promotions And Jobs Are Involved'

Young people must "rise up in protest over what is being done to their world," S. N. F. Chant, 71-year-old vice-chairman of British Columbia's academic board, said Monday.

He told the University of Victoria extension division the threat of nuclear and chemical weapons and environmental pollution has posed a threat to the human race.

●

"In our haste to get things done, we tend to go ahead without knowing what we are doing to ourselves and our world," he said.

"We have to correct our mistakes and do it now."

Young people have "few places to turn for consolation" and he notices "a sense of futility" among them.

But they have been brought up in a life of "constant commotion," where "the fantastic becomes the natural."

To save the world, the Western way of thinking in opposites — black and white, good and bad — must be changed. Dr. Chant says this can be done in a less structured university.

His university of the future will have no curriculum, no prerequisite courses, freedom to diversify or concentrate and see the end of divisions of fields of study.

This will be enough to "loosen our whole way of thinking" and bring on a "21st century Renaissance."

He'd like to see degrees dropped. They're job qualifications that don't provide qualifications for a job.

●

"Too many students study for degrees, not to be educated — especially when promotions and jobs are involved.

"A lot of the trappings ought to be dropped" when the lines between the university and the community vanish as the university becomes more worldly and the people better informed.

He said universities will lose their monopoly on higher education as colleges develop and firms and government undertake programs to develop skills they want. Then universities will have to decide what they can do that the other insitutions can't do better.

That function will probably be to probe human purposes and values and to "contribute to versatility and adaptability in a complex contemporary life."

The mystery surrounding education is vanishing. Professors rarely wear "magicians' robes" in class anymore and students are beginning to scorn graduation exercises. Television has put most knowledge that was once the property of the university into the public domain, he said.

●

Television could help reduce the number of future undergraduates. He said the first two years of university could be televised, leaving more room for upper level and graduate students. Or, rotating groups of students could use the university for intensive study after several months of preparation by television.

Discussing financing of universities in British Columbia, Dr. Chant, author of the 1960 royal commission on education, said some change is needed in the method of alloting funds. It has been his "unwelcomed task" to be chairman of the provincial body that divides the available provincial money between the three universities.

He expects a provincial department of higher education. "More continuous and direct attention needs to be paid to higher education than to individual institutions."

Pollen Shuns Mayor's Chair

Peter Pollen wants to run for alderman in December 6 municipal elections, but laughs off rumors he will contest the mayoralty.

Pollen, defeated as a Socred candidate in a 1968 byelection in Oak Bay, said he is sure "some fine citizen with lots of time will come forward and run for mayor."

Ald. Robert Baird is the only man who has declared himself in the running for the top civic post. Pollen says on the long chance that Baird gets no opposition, he would consider running "out of respect for the democratic process."

But, he said, "I'm running a business here, and being mayor is a full-time job."

OLAFSON?

Pollen suggested Ald. Harold Olafson would be a good candidate, as would Courtney Haddock, a former president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Haddock has not committed himself, but he is a member of the senior executive of the chamber. It has been reported that one of that group wants to run.

The other five most immediate past presidents are W. H. Armstrong, manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce; David Lawson, president of Empress Pontiac-Buick; R. J. Bower, publisher of The Daily Colonist; E. E. Pearlman, a lawyer and John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd. shipyard.

Catholic Women Register

An expected 400 Roman Catholic women from across Canada continued registering today for the 49th annual national Catholic Women's League convention being held in Victoria.

National President Mrs. Valentine Fabris of Winnipeg arrived Monday to begin pre-convention talks on the conventions theme, poverty in developing countries. Informal meetings for diocesan and parish officers continued today.

The formal opening will be this evening at a dinner given by the British Columbia government.

Bishop Remi de Roo will address delegates at a convention banquet Firday.

The convention ends Saturday.

Q — Can you tell me the address of the author, Roderick Haig-Brown?

A—Mr. Haig-Brown, who is also a provincial court judge, can be reached by mail at Above Tide, Campbell River.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Morning After the Blast, Lloyd Robinson Surveys His Home

Leaking Gas Explodes Home As Occupants Scramble Out

Saanich police today are investigating an explosion which wrecked a $30,000 home at 3231 Linwood Monday evening.

Owner Lloyd Robinson, his wife Neva, their three-year-old daughter Sharon, and a boarder, 18-year-old Ed Morgan were not hurt in the blast. It was caused by a leaking butane air gas main.

However, the home was devastated. Basement walls were blown out, the living room floor raised a foot, bricks from the chimney flew across the living room and the basement door was blown into the living room.

After the explosion, B.C. Hydro crews wearing gas masks worked three hours to seal a hole in the gas main which ran beside the home. Police blocked off the street and ordered neighboring homes to turn off furnaces.

The Robinson home wasn't connected to the gas main. Police say their furnace ignited gas fumes seeping into the basement through a storm-drain tile.

The explosion came at 7:30 p.m. as Mrs. Robinson turned up the thermostat.

"I had no idea what had happened. One minute everything was fine and the next there was a bang and the floor heaved up under my feet," said her husband.

FULL OF SMOKE

"The house was full of smoke and there was glass all around."

He scrambled out a bedroom window because the front door was jammed, then circled the house trying to find his wife and child.

Mrs. Robinson dashed out a hall door while Morgan grabbed the Robinson's child and took her out with him.

Today the family is living in an old house on the property, behind their ruined three-year-old home.

Robinson, a contractor, said the home was partly covered by insurance and doubted if much of the damage could be repaired.

QUICK DECISION ASKED ON COLLEGE

Trustees Fight, Students Lose

Greater Victoria school trustees were told Monday that while they battle stubbornly with the provincial government over the issue of a district college, young people are losing out on education.

Trustee Allan McKinnon said if the school board and the department of education continue to disagree over what kind of college Victoria should have "we could deny kids education for three or four years . . ."

McKinnon was one of three board members who recently met Education Minister Donald Brothers to find out what the minister thought of a proposal to turn the Institute of Adult Studies into a locally-run district college.

The department of education is believed to favor a government-run regional college, and is studying the feasibility of amalgamating regional colleges and vocational schools under one administration where the two exist in a single area.

More than six months ago the board wrote the minister asking permission to put the district college proposal to plebiscite, or non-money vote.

Brothers told the three board delegates no decision on their request can be reached until after completion of a report on the amalgamation study, some time in October.

McKinnon said a district college is an "excellent" idea and a regional college is a "good" idea. He said trustees and the department should attempt to see the good points in each alternative, and not prolong a decision on the future college.

Trustee Peter Bunn called the minister's attitude "rather high-handed" and pointed out that a district college could be run at a 10 per cent saving to the taxpayer.

The board will write to neighboring Saanich and Sooke school boards to sound their feelings on the college issue.

GRADE 13 COURSES CALLED OBSOLETE

Grade XIII courses were described as obsolete at a Greater Victoria school board meeting Monday.

The board will send a letter to the department of education pointing out what it calls disparity between Grade XIII and first-year university.

Jack Dalgleish, director of adult education, said while Grade XIII enrolment at the Institute of Adult Studies has increased by about 40 over last year, students tend to shy away from senior matriculation offerings.

"The students want educational courses — they're not satisfied to simply get credits."

Enrolment figures by Dalgleish showed 357 students currently enrolled in Grade XIII. However, 280 students this year are on the institute's new three-course university transfer program.

The courses, which are accepted for credit by the University of Victoria, include ecoriomics, geography and psychology.

Police Forced To Take Case To Arbitration

The dispute between Saanich and Oak Bay policemen and their municipal councils will be taken to the British Columbia Mediation Commission for binding arbitration.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson heard representatives of the unions in a 1¾-hour meeting Monday, then went immediately to a cabinet meeting where his recommendation to put the dispute to mediation was approved.

The move prevents police from presenting strike notice to their councils. A strike vote received unanimous passage at a joint meeting of the two unions Friday.

Teamsters Union official Ed Lawson, who represents the police in their negotiations, said "we want to do anything we can to avoid Saanich and Oak Bay police being punished the same way" as Victoria police were in an earlier mediation decision. Victoria police were handed a 14.56 per cent increase and denied parity with the lower mainland.

Lawson said the Victoria union is considering an application to Peterson for a new hearing from the commission.

The decision had been unfair and could cause a breakdown in morale and efficiency, he said.

Victoria police chief, Jack Gregory, said he has not noticed a decline in his force's morale or efficiency since the wage settlement.

'Their Jobs Come First'

"Of course the men are unhappy," he said, "but their jobs come first."

He said he could see no reason why morale and efficiency should not continue at their present level.

Chief W. A. Pearson in Saanich would not comment on what might happen to morale if his men get the same wage decision as Victoria.

He said commenting on a case before mediation would be like commenting on a case before the courts and could jeopardize both sides.

"I just wish them luck," he said.

In implementing section 18 of Bill 33, which prevents the strike and calls for binding arbitration, Peterson said "the step is necessary to protect the public interest and welfare.

"No community can function properly in the event of a breakdown in the process of law and order. Reference of these disputes to the mediation commission will preclude that possibility."

Lawson criticized Bill 33 for giving policemen the right to strike, while including the machinery to stop them.

Sgt. Jack Groves, head of the Oak Bay association, had gone into the meeting with Peterson hoping the minister would offer some solution to their dispute.

"His only suggestion was to invoke section 18," Groves said.

'May Well Be the Last Time'

He said if the commission rubber-stamped them with the Victoria decision, "this may very well be the last time" police unions would submit to binding arbitration.

Police throughout the province will strengthen their bargaining hand in the future by having all 11 forces in the B.C. Federation of Police Officers negotiate at the same time, he predicted.

Lawson said he wanted police to be treated as well as laborers on Vancouver Island.

"A laborer in Victoria gets $12 a month less than a laborer in Vancouver. A policeman is entitled to be treated at least that well."

He said mediation decisions had widened the gap between island and mainland forces. Last year, the difference in wage between first-class constables was $24 a month. By new contracts, the difference is $48.

Peterson said after his meeting with police he hoped they would be able in future to find some way of solving their pay disputes without going to the provincial government.

He said their discussions touched briefly on an act which would separate police from the rest of the labor.

Lawson said Peterson's attitude was one of reluctance to take policemen out of the sphere of labor legislation.

Before the mediation decision in Victoria, first-class constables in Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay earned $620 per month. The same man on the mainland made $644.

Victoria was given a 14.56 per cent increase over two years. Oak Bay has made the same offer to its men, and Saanich has offered 15.29 per cent. Both offers were turned down.

MIDNIGHT JOGGER FREED

Judge William Ostler said today you can't blame police for being suspicious of a man running along city streets at 4:30 in the morning with a shopping bag in his hand.

He was referring to the arrest of Byron MacNutt, 4150 Grange Road, who was charged with vagrancy on Monday.

●

The charge was dismissed after MacNutt told the court he was in the habit of jogging twice a week. (Also see Page 33.)

MacNutt, 54, a member of a well-known Saanich family and a dairy farmer, says he jogs 10 miles twice a week during the early hours of the morning.

●

He told the court he had been stopped on several other occasions by city police.

"I'm tired of this. I'm tired of being stopped time and again," said MacNutt who sports a long beard.

The judge said the citizen should have the right to jog at any time of the night he wants "but I would like to point out in these troubled times, with crime on the increase, you can't blame police for being suspicious."

Blood Donors Near Target

The Red Cross blood donors clinic continued today with officials hoping for 150 donors.

On Monday, 118 donors showed up and the clinic continued this afternoon, with evening hours set for 6:30 to 9 at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

No Final Decision On Boys' Centre

No definite decision has been made on the Metchosin site of a proposed residential centre for disturbed adolescents, Public Works Minister Chant indicated Monday.

He was commenting on plans of area residents to oppose building the centre on an 80-acre site on Metchosin Road near Albert Head.

Residents are meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Metchosin Parish Hall to discuss the issue.

Chant said the site, acquired before the Social Credit government took office in 1952, is "seriously considered" for the boy's centre.

Final decision will be a joint effort of the social welfare, health and public works departments, he said.

The site was originally acquired for a mental hospital, Chant said.

Among residents' objections to the proposed adolescent centre serving 32 boys from across the province, is the number of simliar facilities in the area.

The federal government operates a minimum security penal institution at William Head and the Canadian Army militia has a link with the Haney correctional camp in its use of some property at Albert Head.

Residents feel that suburban growth will surround the centre, making the location unsuitable.

U.S. Committed to Mars Landing But Timetable Remains in Doubt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is committed to landing a man on Mars. It is up to the president whether the landing is made between 1980 and the end of the century or after the year 2000.

The commitment was made Monday when President Nixon accepted the recommendation of his special task force on space.

The task force report, which Nixon will use in making a final decision at some future date, suggested the options in deciding the U.S. space future be narrowed down to three choices.

Each of the three options open to Nixon provides for a Mars landing, but only two of them provide for it in this century. The third apparently advocates a longer-range program.

In narrowing the choice to three, the task force rejected the two extremes—a crash program for Mars at the earliest possible time or phasing out the entire manned space program.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, in reporting on the president's 40-minute meeting with the task force, said the three options represented "a balanced program of space exploration including manned and unmanned operations with a manned landing on Mars as an integral part of future developments."

JAPANESE PROTEST BOMB TEST

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan has protested to the United States over a planned underground nuclear test in the northern Pacific area, the foreign ministry said today.

Officials said a letter expressing regret over the test planned for some time between Sept. 25 and Oct. 15 on Amchitka Island in the Aleutian chain was sent to the U.S. government Monday.

The letter said the establishment of a safety area of 50 nautical miles in radius around the island infringed the freedom of the sea.

New Principle for Principals —More Visits to Classrooms

Principals should get into the habit of spending more time in classrooms, visiting them as often as once a day, says Dr. John Wiens, assitant superintendent for the Greater Victoria school board.

In a position statement released at a school board meeting Monday, Dr. Wiens said principals should spend as much time in good classrooms as they do in poor ones.

He said principals usually visit classrooms only when a report on a teacher is required by senior administration, with the result that teachers become uneasy in the principal's presence and spend much of their time trying to make an impression.

●

"Over a period of time the principal who visits many classrooms daily, even if only in a casual manner, will find that he not only knows much more of what is going on in his school, but he will find that teachers come to expect his appearance."

The position statement was drafted by Dr. Wiens following discussions with trustee Dr. Victor Rogers. Dr. Rogers said in July he favored setting up of a committee of appeal for probationary teachers dismissed by the board.

However, he said Monday he would no longer push for the appeal committee because he felt Dr. Wiens' statement satisfactorily answered questions about procedure for dismissing teachers on probation.

Dr. Wiens comments on classroom visitation by principals are the basis for proposed board policy on new teachers.

Junta Picking New Ruler For Brazil's 93 Million?

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

RIO DE JANEIRO (WP) — The ranking officers of Brazil's armed forces Monday began a series of secrecy-shrouded meetings expected to result in the selection of a new military strongman to run this country of 93 million people.

Underlying the military consultations is the tense political situation created here in recent days by the stroke that felled President Arthur Da Costa e Silva and the subsequent kidnapping of the U.S. ambassador, C. Burke Elbrick, by anti-government leftist terrorists.

●

Although the government—temporarily in the hands of a three-man military junta—continues to publicly take the position that Costa e Silva is only temporarily incapacitated, it now seems a virtual certainty that he will never again exercise anything more than the titular prerogatives of the presidency.

This was the impression created by a bulletin issued Sunday night by a team of neurologists who examined the 66-year-old former army marshal. The team included a French specialist, Dr. Francois Lhermitte, who was summoned from Paris for the purposes of gaining an outside opinion.

●

The doctors' findings said that while Costa e Silva was in "satisfactory condition", he continued to suffer "a deficiency of mobility in the right side of the body" and impaired speech. They added that his condition "necessitates absolute continued rest and medical treatment"—pointedly omitting any mention of how long his recovery might take.

Monday, the president's wife, Dona Yolanda Da Costa e Silva, told reporters that the doctors thought her husband might be on the verge of a complete rapid recovery. Her optimism was discounted by most political observers here, who regard the medical bulletin as the government's way of telegraphing to the country the fact that Costa e Silva must be replaced.

●

The big questions for Brazil become those of who the replacement will be and whether his selection will represent an interim or long-run solution to the problem of national leadership.

About the only things that seem certain are that the man who emerges on top will be a representative of the army, which has run Brazil directly or indirectly since a 1964 military coup, and that he will continue the trend toward authoritarianism evident here in recent months.

The abduction of Elbrick a week and a half ago has had the effect of convincing the so-called "Linha Dura" ("hard line") elements within the armed forces of the need for increased repression. They have the strength within their respective services to ensure that whoever takes the reins of government is fundamentally in accord with their views.

The actual process of picking both a man and the method by which he will govern is expected to take several days. Monday, the high commands of all three services met separately for several hours.

Afterward, a terse communique was issued by the junta, which is composed of the three service ministers: Army Gen. Aurelio Lyra Tavares, Adm. Augusto H. Rademaker Grunewald and Air Marshal Marcio De Souza Mello.

●

It described the respective high command meetings as "related to the country's internal security" and added: "They also touched on problems relating to the health of the president and their implications for the political and administrative panorama. Other meetings will be called to continue the work."

Reading between the lines of this communique, observers concluded that the generals and admirals were still far apart on how they want to approach the question of succession to Costa e Silva whose term of office runs until 1971.

Public Works Department Adopts Logo

The provincial public works department has adopted a new symbol of strength—three sides of a cube in blue and green with a white border.

The symbol will appear on all new construction work done by the department, its notepaper, its press announcements and its posters.

"We're proud of the work we're doing—especially the new provincial museum," said deputy works minister Arnold Webb, "and we want to identify it better."

The department's motto, he added, is "We will lead, not follow."

The new symbol, intended to represent strength with imagination, was designed by Victoria architect Ken Patton. It was one of 30 entries submitted in a competition organized by the public works department.

YOU CAN CUT YOUR STUDY TIME BY ⅔ WITH READING DYNAMICS!

Many students remember "cram time" last spring. Most find it a pretty frustrating business . . . reading and re-reading notes and texts . . . trying to comprehend it all. Don't let it happen again! If you start your Reading Dynamics course now, you'll be completely prepared to avoid all that cram time next year.

Phone Today for Information on Special Student Rates

WHAT IS READING DYNAMICS?

Reading Dynamics is a structured process by which students learn to read across and down the page at reading rates much faster than most people believe possible. Not only is reading speed increased, students achieve a fuller comprehension with substantially increased ability to recall what they have read.

GUARANTEE

Reading Dynamics will refund the entire tuition of any student who fails to triple his reading index (a multiple of rate and comprehension) as measured by standardized testing.

Strategic Trade Ban to Be Relaxed

LONDON (AP) — Fourteen NATO countries and Japan are lowering their barriers on exports of strategic products to the Soviet bloc. But the bans are staying up for trade with the Asian Communist governments and Albania.

Diplomats reported Sunday that concessions to be announced next month will not be extended to Communist China, to Albania, its only European ally, or to North Vietnam and North Korea.

The embargo on munitions and other war weapons remains.

Informants said the prospect of improved economic and political relations with the East European Communists, the diminishing technological gap between them and the Western powers, and deep-seated suspicion of China's military intentions influenced the decision to ease the controls.

Informants said the previously banned items which the Soviet bloc now will be able to buy include certain types of computers, rare metals and their alloys, chemical and petroleum equipment, a wide range of industrial, electrical and transport goods, and certain categories of electronic and precision instruments.

The international agreement came in months of negotiations by the group in Paris known as the Co-ordinating Committee, made up of representatives of all North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries except Iceland, plus Japan.

Japan favored concessions to Peking also, but finally agreed with the other members that it be excluded. The Japanese government is under pressure from political and industrial interests that want access to the big Chinese market or believe the ban smacks of discrimination against Asians.

The committee's purpose is to co-ordinate policies with the intention of denying Communist countries commodities that would strengthen their war potential.

Virus Disease Blamed For Whitefish Deaths

A provincial government Fish and Wildlife Branch official has likened a mysterious mass death of whitefish in the west arm of Kootenay Lake to the equally mysterious death of thousands of land-locked salmon in early summer.

Thousands of Kokanee salmon were found washed up on the shores at the north end of Okanangan Lake at the end of May. They were believed to have died from a type of virus disease.

Ed Vernon, chief of fisheries management at the Fish and Wildlife Branch, said he believes the huge fish die-off which has been in progress for 10 days and has left Kootenay Lake in the Balfour-Proctor area rimmed with dead whitefish, was also caused by some kind of virus disease.

"The way the fish were found certainly makes it look as though it could be the same type of thing we had in Okanagan Lake," Vernon said.

He said that in the case of the Okanagan die-off samples weren't in good enough condition by the time they reached the research laboratory in Nanaimo for a proper examination to be made.

"This time we just happened to have some of our research men right there on the spot at Nelson and so we got good samples straight away."

Vernon said the samples were sent Friday to the laboratory in Nanaimo and a report was expected within the week.

Detroit Drops Dave Lewis, Veteran Baker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Lions waived defensive end John Baker and sold defensive back Bobby Thompson, a former Montreal Alouette, to New Orleans Saints Monday as National Football League clubs got down to the 40-man limit for this weekend's season opening.

Baker, a 12-year NFL veteran, listed as first string left end this season ahead of Joe Robb, played for Detroit last year after being acquired from Pittsburgh Steelers in a trade.

Thompson, who spent five full seasons with Detroit, was the Lions' No. 3 draft choice in 1962 but played with the Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference until 1964 before signing with the Lions. He played cornerback in 1964-66, then lost his regular job to Tommy Vaughan.

Another former Alouette dropped was Dave Lewis, who had been trying out with New York Giants.

Lewis played out his option with Montreal last year after a season in which he lined up as flanker, quarterback, defensive back and punter.

He did most of the punting in the Giants' pre-season exhibition games, but coach Alex Webster said he will go with Pete Gogolak as punter. Gogolak is also a field goal specialist and "there is no way we can carry two specialists," said Webster.

BASEBALL STILL RATES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — baseball is still America's favorite sport, according to a survey by a marketing and opinion research firm.

Sindling and Co., of suburban Norwood, Pa., said its telephone poll of 1,378 adults showed 27.1 per cent listed baseball as their favorite sport, while 24.4 per cent listed football. Then came basketball with 6.2 per cent, swimming with 6 per cent and golf with 3.5 per cent.

Among men only, football topped baseball 33.1 per cent to 27 per cent.

GRAND CHAMPION 4-H Aberdeen Angus steer at Saanichton Fall Fair wins 12-year-old Wayne Cuthbert, of Central Saanich, a trophy and $25 gift certificate from Woodward's. H. S. Grew, manager of the Mayfair store, makes the presentation. The 14-month-old steer weighs 1,100 pounds.

Before the Judge

A Victoria man arrested for vagrancy told central court Monday he has lived in the area "a while — fifty years or so," owns a house and a dairy farm.

Byron MacNutt of 4150 Grange changed his plea to not guilty after saying "I guess I might as well plead guilty" earlier.

MacNutt, a middle-aged man with a full, bushy beard, was apprehended in town early Monday running along the street with an empty milk bottle in a shopping bag, and 61 cents in his possession.

He was unable to justify his presence, court was told, and had no visible means of support, which, with lack of a fixed address, constitutes vagrancy.

But he told Judge William Ostler he owns a home and a dairy farm.

"And it's worth a pretty penny, too. I don't know if I'm a vagrant or not, but I'm sure it will be an interesting problem," MacNutt said.

Judge Ostler agreed it would be an interesting problem.

MacNutt was remanded for trial today.

Gordon A. Bolley, 54, of 3 Woodville Place, was sentenced to three months in prison for impaired driving.

Judge Ostler told the man he was unable to help him at all or lighten his sentensce, since it was a third offence.

Douglas T. Crabbe, 34, of the Salvation Army Hostel, was fined $100 for the theft of two tins of orange juice and a package of hot chocolate powder from the Jolly Friar Cafe Sunday.

He had pleaded guilty to the offence, and said he had been drinking heavily. Value of the property was $2.57. Crabbe had $19.20 in his possession at the time, court was told.

Arthur C. Chartrand, 20, of the Royal Olympic Hotel, was given a six-month suspended sentence after pleading guilty to the theft of a pair of shoes from The Bay Sept. 4.

The shoes were valued at $4.97, and Chartrand had $97 in his possession at the time.

Ronald R. Hungle, 24, of 1110 Beach Drive, was fined $200 after pleading guilty to driving while his licence was under suspension.

DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in Victoria Law Courts Monday to:

West German Squad Leaves Athens Meet

ATHENS (Reuters) — West Germany today decided to withdraw from the European track and field championships because Jurgen May was barred from competing in the 5,000-metre race.

The West German athletes decided at a meeting only an hour before the opening of the games they would take part in the opening ceremony but would withdraw immediately afterward.

The decision followed a meeting between a six-member West German delegation and the Marquess of Exeter, British president of the International Amateur Athletics Federation.

The West Germans made a final plea to Exeter for the reinstatement of May, a former East German who defected to West Germany two years ago.

But Exeter noted an IAAF rule that does not allow any athlete to appear for another country until he has fulfilled the three-year residential qualification. May will not be eligible to compete for West Germany until June, 1970.

Warrant Issued In St. Leonard For Separatist

MONTREAL (CP) — A warrant was issued today for the arrest of militant separatist Reggie Chartrand, wanted to face charges arising from the school language riot in suburban St. Leonard last Wednesday night.

He is charged with participating in a riot, obstructing police and failing to disperse after the Riot Act was read.

Until today, there was an understanding between police and Chartrand's lawyers that the former boxer head of the blackshirted Chevaliers de l'Independance—Knights of Independence—would come forward voluntarily to face the charges. Now he is officially considered a fugitive.

Forty other persons were arrested and charged following the demonstration by supporters of French-only schools in St. Leonard.

Among them is Raymond Lemieux, leader of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, who faces six charges including sedition and failing to disperse.

The Roman Catholic school board in St. Leonard has eliminated English language teaching in Grades 1 and 2 and plans to continue the policy of eliminating one grade at a time through elementary school.

The St. Leonard Parents Association, representing families who want their children taught in English, has accepted an offer of classroom space from the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

The Montreal Catholic School Commission announced Monday it will not help accommodate the 370 children affected, on grounds that "it would not be appropriate" to reverse the decision of another school board.

The language dispute, which began a year ago when the St. Leonard school board began its French-only policy in Grade 1, exploded into violence this fall when the school board extended the policy to Grade 2.

The English-speaking parents association sought help from both the Protestant and Catholic school boards of Montreal and has launched a nation-wide campaign for funds.

Robert Beale, president of the association, has said about $120,000 will be needed to offset the cost of busses to the Protestant school board schools and the fee of $25 a month for each child from St. Leonard.

The St. Leonard children in the Protestant schools are scheduled to start classes next Monday.

Robert Dobie, executive secretary of the Federation of English Catholic Teachers, criticized the decision of the commission.

"It's thoroughly deplorable that the commission refused to help out, especially since the Protestant School Board is doing its best."

Mr. Dobie said it appears the commission is afraid of "rocking the boat," adding that it is deplorable for the commission to wait so long to tell its decision, considering the meeting was held last Thursday.

"We have plenty of English Catholic schools," said Mr. Dobie.

Brown to Tangle With John Tolos

Bulldog Brown will tackle John Tolos in the main bout of a professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena Saturday.

In other bouts, starting at 8:15 p.m., Earl Maynard grapples Dutch Savage, Steve Bolus faces Bad-Boy Shields and Murphy teams with Hirsch to take on Eric Froelich and Fred Baron in a tag-team match.

School Work Totals $600,000

The Greater Victoria and Saanich school boards Monday were authorized to issue debentures of school construction totalling $600,000.

The $300,000 for each of the two districts was part of a total of $10 million in debentures authorized by the provincial government cabinet for 33 school districts throughout B.C.

A total of $1.92 million was allocated to Vancouver Island school boards.

These are Greater Victoria, $300,000; Saanich, $300,000; Cowichan, $100,000; Ladysmith, $200,000; Gulf Islands, $20,000; Nanaimo, $500,000; Alberni, $200,000, and Campbell River, $300,000.

Recipe of the Week

FROM BEA WRIGHT'S KITCHEN

BRANDIED STEAKS

Trim almost all the fat from a 10-oz., inch-thick steak. Preheat skillet until sizzling. To prevent sticking, add butter. Brown steak quickly on one side for 1 minute. Reduce heat. Add 2 tbs. finely chopped onions and 4 sliced mushrooms, cook 2 minutes. Turn, cook over medium heat for about 6 minutes or until desired doneness. Add 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce and 2 tbs. brandy. To ignite sauce, pull blazer pan to edge of chafing dish flame and tilt slightly away from you, or light with a match. Slide the pan back and forth while blazing to blend the sauce well. When flame is about extinguished, remove the steak to a heated plate and spoon the sauce ove the steak. Garnish with water cress and serve with baked potato or wild rice. Serves 1.
